RE: Proposed amendments to the CBOT's maximum daily price fluctuation limits

Dear Ms. Webb:

As a corn, wheat, soybean and alfalfa producer in central Ohio, the Chicago Board of Trade pricing system is very important to me. I am concerned about the proposed amendments to increase the maximum daily limits on grain trading. Increasing the limits will require larger margin calls for me in our hedging process.

There needs to be some limit on daily price movements. It seems to me as though the current limits are acceptable and I am opposed to any changes.

Sincerely,

Timothy N. Hartsock
