Hello,

I understand you are asking for public comment on the COT report..

First of all, there is no way you should remotely consider discontinuing publication of the report as has been rumored..

If you truly seek markets with integrity, you need more information published and made available to the public, not less..

I would love for example to know who the 4 traders are who are short the majority of the silver contracts on the exchange..

They are systematiclly pushing and holding the price down, and I'm quite sure if there were 4 traders who held the majority of the long side of those contracts, you, not Ted Butler would be taking strong steps to end the manipulation..

But I guess it's okay for a few powerful shorts to rig this market any way they choose.. Is that right?
- George
