Subject: COT REPORTS

2006 JUL 20 PM 3:20
C.F.T.C.

This report has huge implications for our country and what made it great.

The COT report is a vital tool for the free market trader. I use it every day when considering trades. It is about the only data the government puts out that I actually think is useful. So when I found out this information might be taken away, I was very disappointed -- but, unfortunately, not surprised at all. I find the growing propensity of the U.S. government to walk all over freedom of information appalling.

By hiding key market info like the COT report, the marketplace is no longer level and free market integrity is deeply in question. I, for one, plan to write Congress, the CFTC, the National Futures Association, and even the president to express my objection to suppression of information.

What could be the purpose for not publishing this information?

Sincerely,

Joseph R Thornhill
Investor
