

Nguyen, Trangkieu

From: questions
Sent: Tuesday, January 18, 2011 3:08 PM
To: PosLimits
Subject: FW: Who owns the CFTC?

From: Trish Figgers [<mailto:pfiggers@cox.net>]
Sent: Saturday, January 15, 2011 7:12 AM
To: questions
Subject: Who owns the CFTC?

CFTC,

I was wondering who owns the CFTC...is it by any chance JP Morgan? Did JP Morgan help the CFTC come up with the recent position limits ruling? If the CFTC can't handle a situation as blatantly obvious as silver price manipulation, how is the CFTC capable of doing anything else? How much does the CFTC cost taxpayers every year in return for this outstanding performance? Are you guys trying to take care of the tax paying investor or the big banks? If the CFTC cannot effectively regulate commodities, we should save our tax money, close the CFTC down and let the big banks run amok for free.

On the other hand, I will enjoy the buying opportunities that will be afforded me after JP Morgan, once again, drives the silver price down (maybe to less than $25 or even lower). So there is something to be thankful for in all this, I suppose. Is that what you guys were thinking? Let's let JP Morgan push the price down so more "little guys" can try to protect their hard-earned savings and buy in at a bargain?

Jonathan Figgers
Hampton, VA