Dear Ms. Richa:

Thank you for forwarding your additional information regarding the company Swiss Mutual Fund. I have included the information in your file and forwarded it to the appropriate division. As you have been told before, the SECs Office of Investor Education and Advocacy (OIEA) processes many complaints received from individual investors and others. We keep records of the correspondence we receive in a searchable database that SEC staff may make use of in inspections, examinations, and investigations. In addition, some correspondence received by OIEA is referred directly to other SEC offices and divisions for their review.

As you have been told before, the SEC conducts its investigations on a confidential and nonpublic basis and neither confirms nor denies the existence of an investigation unless the SEC brings charges against someone involved. We do this to protect the integrity and effectiveness of our investigative process and to preserve the privacy of the individuals and entities involved.

As a result, we will not be able to confirm whether an investigation exists or provide you with any future updates on the status of your complaint or of any pending SEC investigation. You may wish to check our website, www.sec.gov, for information about pending SEC civil actions, administrative cases, and other matters. Please do note that if an investigation or other Commission action is initiated, it is possible you will be contacted by SEC staff for additional information.

Ive attached a flyer that describes our policy as it will apply to your complaint. Please dont hesitate to contact me if you have any other questions.

Sincerely,

INFORMATION ABOUT SEC INVESTIGATIONS

Each year, thousands of investors ask the Securities and Exchange Commission to investigate the activities of other investors, financial professionals, corporations, brokerage firms, investment companies, stock exchanges, and others. These complaints generally suggest some impropriety or misconduct and sometimes make a plea to the SEC for direct assistance in resolving a grievance.

The SEC has the authority to investigate whether violations of the federal securities laws have occurred, and we make every effort to evaluate promptly and thoroughly the information provided by investors. But we cannot investigate every investor complaint. While many investor complaints do lead to full investigations and, if appropriate, to enforcement actions, we we cannot guarantee that our review will lead to further investigation or that the SEC will take any legal action.

We also cannot provide you with updates on the status of your complaint or your request for an investigation. The SEC conducts investigations confidentially for two main reasons. First, we can conduct investigations more effectively if they are not announced publicly. For instance, important documents and evidence can be destroyed quickly if people hear of an investigation. Second, we keep our investigations confidential to protect the reputations of companies and individuals if we find no wrongdoing or decide we cannot bring a successful action against them. The SEC will not confirm or deny the existence of an investigation unless, and until, it becomes a matter of public record as the result of a court action or administrative proceeding.

When there is proof that someone has violated the securities laws, the sanctions may include financial penalties, orders to surrender profits, cease and desist orders, or an injunction by a court to prevent further violations. The SEC may also bar individuals from working for a securities firm, investment adviser, or investment company. We can also ask a federal court to bar individuals from being officers and directors of publicly held companies. In some situations, we may refer a case to the Department of Justice for possible criminal prosecution.

The SEC publishes news releases about its lawsuits and administrative actions, and the news media often report on them. You can read and download the SECs Enforcement Actions on our website at www.sec.gov/divisions/enforce/enforceactions.shtml. SEC Response - File HO::~00007975~::HO [ref:00D3JxQy.50037iUwO:ref]

From: "Help" <help@sec.gov> Saturday, 12 June, 2010 12:29 AM

To: "ramkaranmaurya@yahoo.co.in" <ramkaranmaurya@yahoo.co.in>

Dear Mr. Maurya:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Upon further review of your complaint, I realize it falls outside of our jurisdiction.

The issue you raise -- your inability to receive funds from a FOREX account -- is not one over which the SEC has jurisdiction. As explained in greater detail on our website, www.sec.gov, the SEC administers and enforces the federal laws that govern the sale and trading of stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and other securities.

You may wish to report your concerns to the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC), which investigates and prosecutes fraud against CFTC-registered firms and their affiliates offering or selling foreign currency futures and options contracts. Contact information for the CFTC is as follows:

Commodity Futures Trading Commission
Three Lafayette Centre
1155 21st Street, NW
Washington DC 20581
CFTC Toll-Free Complaint Line: 866-366-2382
Online Complaint Info: www.cftc.gov/customerprotection/redressandreparations/index.htm.

The SEC's website also provides a general discussion of foreign currency trading, including a link to the CFTC's warning about foreign currency frauds. See www.sec.gov/answers/forcurr.htm.

I hope this information is helpful. Please contact the CFTC and not the SEC about this matter.

Sincerely,

Steven G. Johnston
