

From: Steve Hickel <smhickel@gmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, May 5, 2011 10:51 PM
To: AG-COD <AG-COD@michigan.gov>; O'Malia, Scott <SO'Malia@CFTC.gov>; PosLimits <PosLimits@CFTC.gov>; Sommers, Jill <JSommers@CFTC.gov>; Dunn, Michael <MDunn@CFTC.gov>; Gensler, Gary <GGensler@CFTC.gov>; Chilton, Bart <BChilton@CFTC.gov>; DRUDGE@drudgereport.com; kudlow@cnbc.com; squawk@cnbc.com; antitrust.complaints@usdoj.gov; GATA <info@gata.org>
Subject: Comex fraud, regulators helpless

<http://harveyorgan.blogspot.com/>

I suspect however that there is more here than keeping the integrity of the clearing houses. It is too much too fast given the already steep decline in the market. It smells like a deliberate effort is being orchestrated to take the metal lower and rescue the shorts who as I said previously, are voting members of the exchange and who could no longer handle the bleeding of their accounts.