History

Osaka Exchange, Inc. (“OSE” or the “Exchange”), formerly known as “Osaka Securities Exchange Co., Ltd.”, was established on April 1, 1949, as a nonprofit membership organization under Japan’s Securities and Exchange Law (Law No. 25 of 1948, as amended) (the “Securities and Exchange Law”). Its predecessor was the Osaka Stock Exchange Co., Ltd. established in 1878. Under the Securities and Exchange Law, the establishment of a securities exchange as a joint-stock corporation was not allowed. However, pursuant to the December 2000 amendment of the Securities and Exchange Law, it became possible to convert a securities exchange composed of its members into a joint-stock corporation, and OSE converted its membership organization into a joint-stock corporation on April 1, 2001.

OSE was the first financial instruments exchange to trade equity derivatives in Japan, and currently is the largest derivatives exchange in Japan measured by trading volume and contract values. OSE is licensed to act as a financial instruments exchange by the Prime Minister of Japan under the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (“FIEA”).¹ As a licensed financial instruments exchange, OSE is authorized to conduct a market for transactions in derivatives.

The derivatives products authorized for trading include futures and options on indexes, futures on government bond and options on government bond futures, and options on securities.²

On January 1, 2013, OSE entered into a business combination with Tokyo Stock Exchange Group, Inc., and as a result, Japan Exchange Group, Inc. (JPX) was established.³ In the process of the business combination, the former OSE implemented an “Absorption-Type Split” with new OSE, under which all businesses of the former OSE (including the exchange for derivatives products) were succeeded by new OSE, a subsidiary of JPX. JPX is a holding company that conducts business management of the financial instruments exchanges and the business incidental to such management. Its subsidiary companies are OSE, Tokyo Stock Exchange (TSE), Japan Exchange Regulation (JPX-R)⁴ and Japan Securities Clearing Corporation (JSCC). JPX is a publicly traded company. Following its establishment, JPX listed on the JASDAQ market, on which the former OSE listed, and on the first section of the TSE market. Based on the development of the listing rules in connection with the integration of cash markets between OSE and TSE, JPX is listed only on the first section of the TSE market on and after July 16, 2013.

As a result of restructuring of functions in JPX, OSE integrated cash markets with TSE and the clearing function with JSCC on July 16, 2013. Due to the integration of cash markets with TSE, securities transactions are no longer conducted on OSE, but only derivatives transactions are conducted on the OSE markets. In addition, due to the integration of the clearing function with JSCC, OSE abolished financial instruments assumption services, and derivatives transactions on the OSE markets are cleared by JSCC. Also, OSE abolished the Self-regulation Committee, and instead, has entrusted self-regulatory operations to JPX-R since July 16, 2013. As indicated in Exhibit G-3 of this submission, OSE still has responsibility for promulgating rules concerning self-regulation of its markets and taking disciplinary actions against Trading Participants, while JPX-R is responsible for, among other things, investigating potential rule violations and recommending disciplinary actions.

³ OSE notified the Commission of this corporate action under Commission Rule 30.13(l) by letter dated March 12, 2014.

⁴ Its corporate name was changed from “Tokyo Stock Exchange Regulation” on April 1, 2014.

As the second phase in its restructuring, the derivatives markets of OSE and TSE were integrated on March 24, 2014. Following the integration, OSE became the sole surviving derivatives exchange in JPX and was the successor in interest of the derivatives markets of TSE. On the same date, the corporate name “Osaka Securities Exchange Co., Ltd.” was changed to “Osaka Exchange, Inc.”

Market Size

In contrast to TSE, which deals in spot trading, OSE is the leading exchange for derivatives products in Japan and its trading volume is the largest among the four Japanese exchanges handling derivatives products. The Nikkei 225 Futures, introduced at OSE in 1988, is now an internationally recognized index futures. The daily average trading volume in fiscal year 20157 (from April 20157 to March 20168) is 1,249,3361,374,489 units for index futures, 35,98634,772 units for government bond futures and 4,1853,520 units for options on government bond futures. As of ~~November~~May 301, 20168, the number of Trading Participants for futures and options trading is 1087.

Location

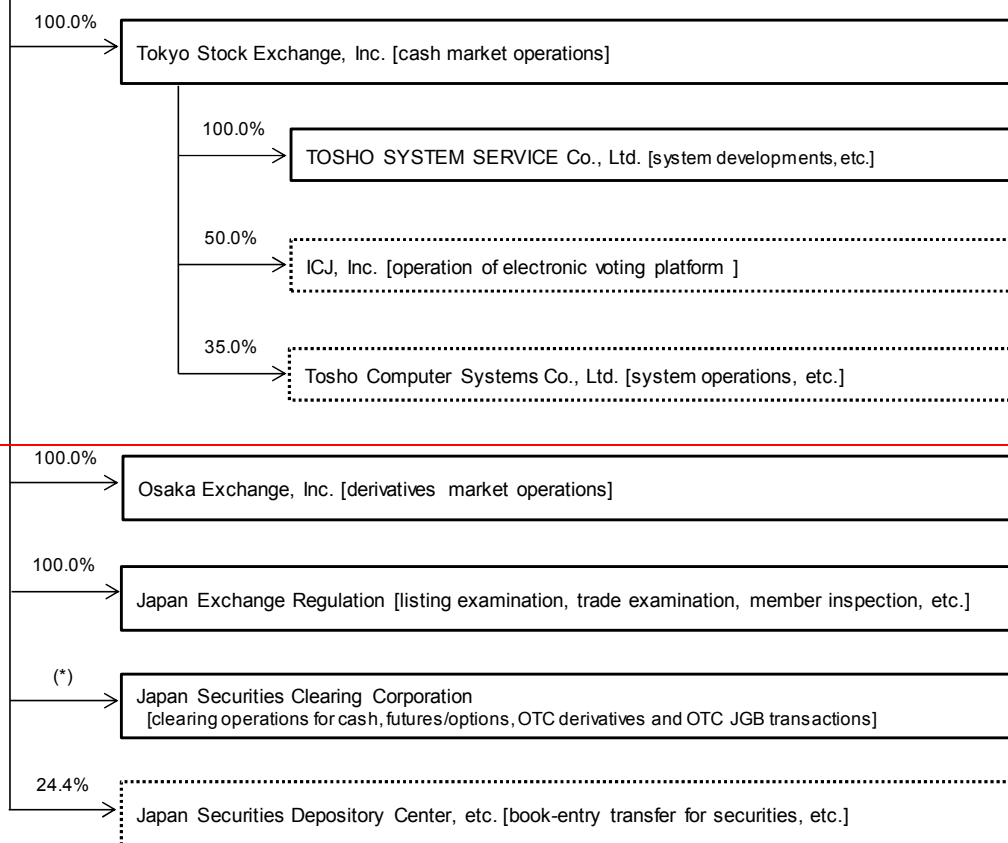

The executive offices and headquarters of OSE are located at: 8-16, Kitahama 1-chome, Chuo-ku, Osaka 541-0041 Japan.

Organization

OSE is wholly owned by JPX and was capitalized in the amount of ¥4.723 billion (approximately $404.55 million). The company structure chart of JPX is as follows:

OSE has a Board of Directors composed of three individuals. It should be noted that both OSE and JPX have separate Boards. OSE's board is responsible for making decisions on the execution of the derivatives exchange's operations, while JPX's board is responsible for supervising the execution of the operations regarding its subsidiary's management including OSE, etc.⁵ Also, OSE employs a statutory auditor system to monitor management and has a

⁵ Under the Companies Act (Act No. 86 of July 26, 2005), OSE is classified into "Company with Board of Directors", while JPX is classified into "Company with Nominating Committee, etc.". A Company with Nominating Committee, etc. shall establish a Nominating Committee, an Audit Committee and a Compensation Committee (hereinafter referred to as "Committees") in addition to a Board of Directors. Members of each of the Board of Auditors composed of three auditors, two of which are outside auditors. The directors and auditors of OSE are as follows.

In addition, the Board of Directors established the Market Operating Committee. The committee assists the Board of Directors in discussing proposals and recommending policies on market operations of OSE, such as listing of new products and revisions to the rules for futures and options trading and its brokerage and for Trading Participants to be adopted and actions to be taken by the Board.

OSE has a staff of ~~134~~28 people as of ~~November~~March 30, 20168.⁶ The organization chart of OSE is as follows:

Committees shall be selected from Board members and the majority shall be outside directors. As of ~~July~~March 26, 20168, JPX's boards consist of 13 individuals, ~~nine~~eight of which are outside directors.

⁶ It should be noted that the number of employees of OSE is reduced from that when OSE was an independent exchange. However, clearing and self-regulatory functions are carried out by OSE's affiliates. The number of employees in OSE affiliates, that are carrying out OSE-related clearing and SRO functions are not included in this number.

JPX’s English-language website is located at: <http://www.jpx.co.jp/english/>. It posts information on JPX and its wholly owned subsidiaries including OSE. The website includes general information relating to the Exchange, its corporate organization, the contracts traded thereon and on various market mechanisms, such as give-ups, non-auction transactions, circuit breaker rules and market maker programs. Moreover, it provides the public with access to various market data, including in the “Daily Official List” daily open, high, low, close, volume, open interest, last quotation, net change and settlement price. It also includes historical archived volume information.

OSE’s U.S. Activities

OSE established a representative office in New York in October 2014. Following the establishment of Japan Exchange Group, the representative office of TSE, which is affiliated company of OSE, was registered as OSE, TSE and JPX. There are three staff (as of ~~November~~March 31, 20168) in the office and all of the staff belong to these three companies. Its activities as OSE are to provide information on OSE and its trading products in the U.S and to carry out representational activities with the Commission and the press. The representative office does not provide investment advice or technical support from the U.S. Nor does it solicit, receive or direct orders with respect to the products traded on the Exchange from such a representative office.

Its other activities in the U.S. are to participate in various widely-attended industry conferences and trade shows. It may also conduct seminars relating to trading on OSE. Upon issuance of Order of Registration, it may also hold informational meetings in the U.S. for potential participants desiring to access the OSE market directly. Although OSE has in effect a FBOT no-action letter, no entity currently operates with direct access to the OSE market from the U.S.. Although OSE has no estimates or projections at this time, however, it is hopeful that U.S. firms will make use of direct access following FBOT registration.

EXHIBIT G – THE RULES OF THE FOREIGN BOARD OF TRADE AND ENFORCEMENT THEREOF

Exhibit G-2

Description of the foreign board of trade's trade practice rules

OSE rules prohibit TPs from acting “contrary to the just and equitable principles of trade.”⁷ Such actions are defined in the rule as actions that “damage the credibility of OSE or TPs of OSE, or are contrary to good faith in respect of OSE or TPs of the OSE” and 1) interfering with or obstructing business of OSE or its TPs; 2) fraudulent, dishonest or improper activities or gross negligence in administering transaction business or 3) accumulating and selling stocks at a profit to a party related to the company that issued such stocks against their will by abusing dominant bargaining position.⁸ Additionally, OSE has a general requirement that TPs make “best efforts” to preserve and improve the function of the OSE markets.⁹ OSE, in addition to the rules and regulations already in place, may prescribe additional regulations in relation to the efficient operation of OSE markets.¹⁰

OSE has promulgated rules detailing the requirements of brokerage agreements. The OSE's Brokerage Agreement Standards (including the Special Rules¹¹) include conditions for acceptance of orders, methods of settlement, customer's clearing margin requirements, confirmations and various other matters with which customers and TPs must comply. In these rules, OSE requires a customer to set up an account for futures/options trading with a TP, and to submit to the TP “Agreement for Setting up Futures/Options Trading Account” in the form specified by OSE.¹² The agreement shall be submitted for the purpose of verifying the customer's intention to comply with the FIEA and other related laws, rules and regulations of OSE and JSCC, and to acknowledge the matters stipulated in the agreement.

In addition, OSE requires TPs to establish systems which prevent the acceptance and entry of erroneous customer orders.¹³ OSE also requires that TPs establish transaction management systems relating to the prevention of unfair trading practices in accordance with the stipulations of OSE.¹⁴ OSE prohibits the abuse of the customer's orders, including the practice of trading ahead of customer orders by TPs.¹⁵ OSE requires a TP, when the TP accepts a brokerage order from a Person conducting Low Latency Trading¹⁶ for trading in the OSE market, to implement measures appropriate for Persons conducting Low Latency Trading to ensure such entities' cooperation in investigations into their compliance with laws and dispositions by government agencies, and other necessary measures taken by OSE regarding Persons conducting Law Latency Trading.¹⁷ –When conducting an inspection, the inspectors check the existence and adequacy of the TP's internal control system to prevent such abuses and whether such abuses have occurred.¹⁸

¹⁴ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 21.

¹⁵ See, Rules Regarding Just and Equitable Principles of Trade, Rule 4, Paragraph 1, Item 7 and Rule 3, Item 5(violation of the just and equitable principles of trade). The abuse of customer orders is also prohibited under Article 117 (1) (x), (xi), (xii) and (xxiv) of the Cabinet Office Ordinance regarding the Financial Instruments Business.

¹⁸ A type-I Financial Instruments Business Operator that is a TP of OSE is also required to be a member of the Japan Securities Dealers Association (“JSDA”), an Authorized Financial Instruments Firms Association. The JSDA is a self-regulatory organization which has authority to promote fair practices and prescribe rules to eliminate unfair

OSE may, when inspecting the TP's observance of the laws and regulations or of the OSE's rules etc., or in other cases where OSE deems it necessary in the light of the objectives of OSE and the operation of the OSE markets, demand the TP to submit a report or document relevant to the TP's operation or property, or may inspect the actual state of the TP's operation or property, or its books, documents or other materials.¹⁹ This authority provides OSE with the ability to obtain from TPs information necessary for OSE to complete effective rule enforcement and investigations.

As discussed in more detail in Exhibit G-4, OSE and JPX-R, in order to ensure fair and smooth trading on the OSE markets, conducts real-time and post-trading surveillance, including providing for an audit trail that captures trade-related data. Also as discussed in greater detail below, OSE has the authority to impose sanctions and discipline TPs for violations.

In addition to its authority to discipline TPs for violative conduct, OSE has a number of additional authorities with which it can address market irregularities. For example, OSE has various authorities to control trading such as temporarily changing the trading hours prescribed, temporarily suspending trading totally or partially, temporarily holding a trading session and even cancelling or suspending transactions.²⁰ Furthermore, OSE has the authority to take emergency actions. Under this emergency authority, OSE may impose necessary and appropriate regulations relating to the business of TPs if OSE considers there is an urgent need thereof.²¹

Moreover, OSE has rules to promote transparency in market operations. For example, OSE notifies TPs and interested members of the public, such as the press, through the market data system or the website with respect to the total transacted amounts each day on the OSE trading. The rules and the guidelines prescribed by JSDA require a type-I financial instruments business operator to establish the internal control system for preventing the actions prohibited under the FIEA.

markets.²² Likewise, in compliance with Article 131 of the FIEA, OSE provides reports to the Prime Minister of the total trading volume each day on OSE markets.²³ Furthermore, OSE will make reports to the press and public concerning the condition of the OSE markets if necessary, but TPs are prohibited from making such reports or engaging in similar acts.²⁴

Margin Rules

OSE has rules for matters related to Clearing Margin for futures and options contracts. While those for Clearing Participants (“CPs”) of JSCC are prescribed by JSCC, such matters for TPs that do not have a Clearing Qualification of JSCC (“Non-CPs”) and those for between customers and TPs are prescribed by OSE. As noted above, Remote TPs clear through an Agency Clearing Participant and therefore will be subject to OSE’s clearing margin rules.

The definition and purpose of Clearing Margin²⁵ is the same as those in JSCC’s margin rules. However, in OSE’s margin rules, a margin other than Clearing Margin is also defined as the one to ensure that a customer’s obligations related to futures and options trading to its TP are fulfilled.²⁶

When a sale or purchase of futures contracts for the proprietary account or customers’ accounts, or a sale of options contracts (i.e. options on futures, index options and/or security options contracts - but as applicable to this application, only options on futures) is concluded, a Non-CP is required to submit to or deposit with its Designated CP the Clearing Margin for each customer (in the event a customer is subdivided discretionally, the sum of the required Clearing Margin for each such subdivision) in an amount not less than the Clearing Margin Requirement prescribed by JSCC by the time specified by the Designated CP that is no later than 12:00

A Non-CP, acting as the agent, shall deposit with its Designated CP the Clearing Margin submitted by a customer. However, when Customer Margin²⁹ is deposited by a customer, the Non-CP shall deposit with its Designated-CP its own money or securities as the Clearing Margin, in an amount not less than the amount deposited by the customer.³⁰ Also, a Non-CP is required to notify its Designated CP of the breakdown information of short and long positions for each issue by each customer, or each subdivision in the event a customer is subdivided discretionally, per omnibus account prescribed in the Business Rules of JSCC, by the time specified by such Designated CP~~the sum total of the Clearing Margin Requirements for its proprietary account and customers' accounts for each trading day by the time specified by the Designated CP.~~³¹ With respect to the notification, upon request of its Designated CP, Non-CPs shall immediately report to the Designated CP in writing on the number of customer account positions and other matters relating to customer account futures and options trading which JSCC deems necessary.³²

On the other hand, when margin deposits submitted to or deposited with a TP by a customer, the amount of which is obtained by adding/subtracting the amount of money to be paid/received (i.e.

Furthermore, OSE has strict rules governing a TP's ability to withdraw margin deposits. If the total amount of margin deposited by a customer exceeds the Margin Requirement, a TP may allow the customer to withdraw the substitute securities up to the exceeding amount, or the money up to the exceeding amount or up to the excess cash amount, whichever smaller, only if there is still an excess cash margin deposited after the withdrawal (i.e. the amount of money deposited as margin exceeds the amount of money to be paid).³⁴ Additionally, if an unrealized profit (i.e. a mark-to-market profit) for futures contracts arises in a customer's position and the total amount of margin deposited exceeds the Margin Requirement, a TP may, upon request by the customer, pay the customer cash equivalent to such unrealized profit up to the exceeding amount.³⁵

EXHIBIT H – INFORMATION SHARING AGREEMENTS AMONG THE COMMISSION, THE FOREIGN BOARD OF TRADE, THE CLEARING ORGANIZATION, AND RELEVANT REGULATORY AUTHORITIES

(1) Description of the arrangements among the Commission, the foreign board of trade, the clearing organization, and the relevant foreign regulatory authorities that govern the sharing of information regarding the transactions that will be executed pursuant to the foreign board of trade’s registration with the Commission and the clearing and settlement of those transactions.

The Japanese regulatory authorities have long recognized the need for securities regulators to share information on cross-border securities activities, and Japan values international information sharing agreements. In 2002, the Japanese FSA, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) and the CFTC signed a Statement of Intent (“SOI”) Concerning Cooperation, Consultation and the Exchange of Information, which established a framework for information sharing and facilitated cooperation in investigations of potential unfair cross-border securities activities. The SOI was supported by Notes Verbale (Notes), which stated the views the governments share concerning sharing information.

In 2006, the Japanese FSA and the CFTC signed a document amending the SOI so as to cover financial derivatives transactions. The SOI now covers both securities derivatives and financial derivatives. Under the new framework, the FSA, SEC and CFTC will, upon request, exchange information regarding financial derivatives markets, including information on financial futures.

In March 2014, in view of the growing globalization of the world’s financial markets and the increase in cross-border operations and activities of regulated entities, the FSA and CFTC signed Memorandum of Cooperation (“MOC”) Related to the Supervision of Cross-border Covered Entities. The MOC complements the SOI above and IOSCO Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding concerning Consultation and Cooperation and the Exchange of Information referred to in the following (3). The FSA and CFTC expressed, through the MOC, their willingness to cooperate with each other in the interest of fulfilling their respective regulatory mandates regarding derivatives markets, particularly in the areas of protecting investors and customers; fostering the integrity of and maintaining confidence in financial markets; and reducing systemic risk.

(2) A statement as to whether and how the foreign board of trade has executed the International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement.

OSE is a signatory to the Exchange International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement dated March 15, 1996.

(3) A statement as to whether the regulatory authorities governing the activities of the foreign board of trade and clearing organization are signatories to the International Organization of Securities Commissions Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding. If not, describe any substitute information-sharing arrangements that are in place.

In February 2008, Japan signed the International Organization of Securities Commission's ("IOSCO") Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding concerning Consultation and Cooperation and the Exchange of Information, a multilateral framework which facilitates information exchanges among securities regulators around the world. Japan underwent a thorough screening process by IOSCO with regard to its legislation concerning information exchange, and IOSCO determined that Japan has the legal ability to undertake the information exchange requirements.

(4) A statement as to whether the regulatory authorities governing the activities of the foreign board of trade and clearing organization are signatories to the Declaration on Cooperation and Supervision of International Futures Exchanges and Clearing Organizations. If not, a statement as to whether and how they have committed to share the types of information contemplated by the International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement with the Commission, whether pursuant to an existing memorandum of understanding or some other arrangement.

The Japanese FSA is not a signatory to the Declaration on Cooperation and Supervision of International Futures Exchanges and Clearing Organizations (“Boca Declaration”).³⁶ ~~However, it is believed that, as seen in (1) and (3) above, the FSA and the Commission has established a framework for information sharing well enough to share the types of information contemplated by International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement.~~

³⁶ Note that the FSA has advised OSE that they will be sending a letter under separate cover to CFTC which makes it possible to share information as provided in the Boca Declaration. That letter is expected to be sent imminently.

I. Executive Summary

Japan Securities Clearing Corporation (“JSCC”) is the primary clearing house in Japan, providing clearing services (“Clearing Businesses”) for cash products on Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. (“TSE”) and other exchanges/PTS in Japan (“Cash Products”), Listed Derivatives on Osaka Exchange, Inc. (“OSE”), credit default swaps (“CDS”), interest rate swaps (“IRS”), and OTC Japanese Government Bond (“JGB”) transactions.

JSCC is licensed under the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (“FIEA”)¹ and directly regulated by the Japanese Financial Services Agency (“JFSA”). In December 2013, the JFSA released Comprehensive Guidelines for Supervision of FMIs, which incorporates the Principles for Financial Market Infrastructures (“PFMI”), which is published by the Committee on Payment and Settlement Systems-Board of the International Organization of Securities Commissions (“CPSS-IOSCO” or “CPMI-IOSCO”)², into Japanese regulations. JSCC is also subject to oversight³ by the Bank of Japan (“BOJ”) of financial market infrastructures, as provided in the Bank of Japan Act⁴. JSCC is fully compliant with the PFMI and the JFSA’s Guidelines⁵. This disclosure provides details in accordance with the “Principles for Financial Market Infrastructures: Disclosure Framework and Assessment Methodology,” to demonstrate its compliance. Unless otherwise specified, this disclosure is current as of the end of March 2018.

Furthermore, JSCC has published quantitative information according to PFMI pursuant to the “Public quantitative disclosure standards for central counterparties” published by CPMI-IOSCO in February 2015⁶.

JSCC understands the necessity of a robust and comprehensive system for risk management to fulfill its responsibility to stably provide its clearing services. To handle the credit, liquidity, custody, operational, and other risks to which it is exposed, JSCC has established a robust risk management framework incorporated into its organization, including the Board of Directors and Risk Oversight Committee.

⁵ In the “Implementation monitoring of the PFMI: Level 2 assessment report for central counterparties and trade repositories – Japan” publicized by CPMI-IOSCO on February 26, 2015(the link below), Japan is rated as having completely and consistently adopted the PFMI applicable for CCPs and TRs.

General organization of the FMI

As a vital financial market infrastructure (“FMI”) in Japan, JSCC employs a governance structure which ensures fairness and robust risk management. At the highest level, JSCC’s Board of Directors is composed of three full-time directors and six part-time directors. The board is responsible for approving high-level policies and budgets, and assessing the appropriateness of directors’ execution of their duties. It is required to comply with relevant laws and regulations, and is subject to review by statutory auditors and at the annual general shareholders meeting. JSCC published its Governance Guidelines, containing, among other things, the roles and responsibilities of the Board of Directors¹².

JSCC executes business plans based on resolutions of the Board of Directors, realizing JSCC’s corporate philosophy, and overseeing day-to-day operations. The advisory committees of each product area, which are composed of Clearing Participants of the relevant product area and other entities, also function to incorporate the opinions of Clearing Participants into JSCC’s governance. For matters involving actions against Clearing Participants, JSCC consults with the Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee, which is composed of members that are independent from JSCC. The Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee Rules contain the provisions to the effect that a committee member with a special interest in the deliberation at the Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee may not participate in that deliberation. See Principle 2 (Governance) for further details.

According to the internal provisions of JSCC’s Risk Management Policy, which is applied to all of its Clearing Businesses, and the Business Rules of each Clearing Business, JSCC has established a framework for managing the specific risks of each business, including eligibility criteria for Clearing Participants and a robust collateral system for initial margin and the Clearing Fund.

From the perspective of managing the credit risk of Clearing Participants, JSCC defines and publicizes clearing qualifications separately for each of its Clearing Businesses, with the criteria for each aligned with the nature of that business. Criteria for participation are reasonable, clear, and publicly available, focusing primarily on the entity's management structure, financial conditions, and business capability. These are established based on the assumption that Clearing Participants are registered with the JFSA. JSCC continually monitors each Clearing Participant's management structure, financial condition, and business execution capability. If JSCC recognizes a problematic situation, it has the discretion to suspend clearing services in whole or in part for that Clearing Participant, or revoke its clearing qualification, as necessary. See Principle 18 (Access and Participation Requirements) for further details.

¹¹ Clearing Business for Cash Products and Listed Derivatives.

As of the end of March 2018, there were a total of 115 Listed Product Clearing Participants (Clearing Business for Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), 10 CDS Clearing Participants, 23 IRS Clearing Participants, and 38 OTC JGB Clearing Participants.

JSCC secures pre-funded financial resources to be available for a Clearing Participant's default, based on the predefined risk appetite¹³ for each Clearing Business. For this purpose, initial margin¹⁴ requirements are calculated using an appropriate look-back and holding period in light of the product features of each Clearing Business, while Clearing Fund contributions are calculated to cover the expected loss, using stress scenarios for each Clearing Business.

JSCC marks open positions to market at least once a day, for all products, and more frequently for some products, and requires Clearing Participants to deposit Margin by a specific time intraday. JSCC makes intra-day margin calls daily in the IRS Clearing Business and the Listed Derivatives Clearing Business. Moreover, for IRS and Listed Derivatives, a framework is also in place under which JSCC may issue additional margin calls in case of a large price fluctuation. For Cash Products Clearing Business, OTC JGB Clearing Service and CDS Clearing Service, when the market moves beyond predetermined thresholds, each Clearing Participant is required to deposit Margin intraday. For each Clearing Business, JSCC is able to make ad-hoc margin calls if it deems necessary. See Principle 6 (Margin) for further details.

For CDS and IRS clearing, JSCC has introduced a Compression framework, in an effort to reduce and compress positions by simultaneously unwinding multiple cleared trades. For IRS, JSCC offers a Compression service that allows for the simultaneous participation of multiple Clearing Participants (Vendor-Initiated Compression) and Compression services that can be performed upon the request of individual Clearing Participants (Per Trade Compression, Blended Rates Compression, Member Initiated Compression). In addition, JSCC accommodates Netting Synchronization, which is the automatic link of post-Compression trade information to MarkitWire, for IRS.

In the event of a participant default, JSCC would suspend the delivery of settlement funds and securities between the defaulting participant and JSCC. Thereafter, JSCC will liquidate positions and compensate losses as prescribed in the Business Rules of each Clearing Business. For any type of transaction, Clearing Participants are assured of a safe market as JSCC will guarantee settlements for non-defaulting Clearing participants. In addition, JSCC has secured liquidity supply from Fund Settlement Banks and its parent company, JPX, ("Liquidity Supply Facility") to secure short-term liquidity for use in the event of a Clearing Participant's default. See Principle 7 (Liquidity Risk) and Principle 13 (Participant-Default Rules and Procedures) for further details.

¹⁴ Under the Business Rules for Listed Products Clearing Business, initial margin for Listed Derivatives is referred to as "Margin."

Legal and regulatory framework

JSCC holds a license for “financial instruments obligation assumption service” (i.e. financial instruments clearing) to conduct clearing business as a CCP, and JSCC’s business is governed by the FIEA and other Japanese laws. JSCC has established Business Rules for each of its Clearing Businesses, which are subject to approval by the Prime Minister of Japan. JSCC is obligated by the FIEA¹⁵ to conduct its business and operations according to its Business Rules, thus making these rules legally binding and enforceable. JSCC is subject to the direct regulation and supervision by the JFSA, and oversight in accordance with objectives prescribed in the Bank of Japan Act from the BOJ.

Some of JSCC’s Clearing Participants are domiciled in European Union (hereinafter referred to as “EU”) countries, with their operations registered in Japan, under the FIEA. Because of this, JSCC has obtained recognition as a Third Country CCP under European Market Infrastructure Regulation from the EU’s European Securities and Markets Authority to provide services to Clearing Participants and trading venues established in EU countries¹⁶.

In Australia, JSCC has received designation as a Prescribed Facility under Corporations Amendment (Central Clearing and Single-Sided Reporting) Regulation 2015 (Select Legislative Instrument No.157, 2015)^{17,18}.

Some Affiliates (referring to a person in the same Corporate Group as the Clearing Participant; the same applies hereinafter) of Clearing Participants that clear CDS or IRS in JSCC are categorized as U.S. Persons, under the guidelines of the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission (“CFTC”)¹⁹. To allow these trading entities to access JSCC’s Clearing Service for a swap, JSCC has obtained an order of exemption from registration as a Derivatives Clearing Organization under the Commodity Exchange Act from the CFTC²⁰.

Some of the Clearing Participants that clear IRS in JSCC are incorporated in Hong Kong. Therefore, JSCC has obtained authorization from the Hong Kong Securities and Futures Commission (“SFC”), to provide Automated Trading Services, and the designation as a central counterparty, that can be used for the observance of mandatory clearing obligations, under the Securities and Futures Ordinance (“SFO”)²¹.

Some of the Clearing Participants that clear IRS in JSCC are incorporated in Switzerland.

Therefore, JSCC has been recognized as Foreign Central Counterparty under the Financial Market Infrastructure Act from the Financial Market Supervisory Authority of Switzerland to offer IRS Clearing Services to those trading entities²².

Consequently, each trading entity may satisfy their obligations in relation to the central clearing requirements of OTC derivative transactions that are currently in effect, or expected to be in effect in the future, in the EU, Australia, the U.S., Hong Kong and Switzerland, by clearing its trades in JSCC.

System and operations

For cash product transactions, JSCC serves as the CCP for all domestic Japanese financial instruments exchanges and two Proprietary Trading Systems (“PTS”). It fulfills this role through clearing eligible products at the time the transactions are executed in the market, whereby JSCC interposes itself between the parties, assuming the buyer’s obligation for payment and the seller’s obligation for delivery.

Settlement of equities and bonds between JSCC and Clearing Participants is conducted on a trade date plus three days basis (“T+3”²³) via a Delivery Versus Payment (“DVP”) system.

Transactions of Listed Derivatives are cleared at the time they are executed in the market.

CDS are cleared once per week on a three-day cycle. Beginning on Tuesday of each week, the pre-cleared CDS is registered to a confirmation platform to apply for clearing. On the next business day, the parties to the transaction may modify details of the transaction, after which it is sent to JSCC. JSCC will clear the trade at 4:00 p.m. on the third business day.

Clearing of IRS, including over-the-counter transactions, transactions executed through electronic trading platforms provided by institutions registered at the JFSA, or SEF (Swap Execution Facilities) registered at the CFTC, is conducted on each business day during the periods of 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m., and 5:30 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. Specifically, upon receipt of an application for clearing a new trade from a Clearing Participant, JSCC calculates the amount of variation margin and initial margin required to cover the entire portfolio, including both the new transaction (if a new trade is part of a Package Trade²⁴, then all new transactions under the relevant Package Trade) and all existing cleared transactions. If the required variation margin and initial margin are at least equal to Clearing Participant’s deposited collateral, JSCC would clear the new trade.

OTC JGB transactions are cleared once per day, at 6:30 p.m. DVP settlement of OTC JGB transactions is conducted through RTGS (Real-time Gross Settlement) provided by the BOJ.

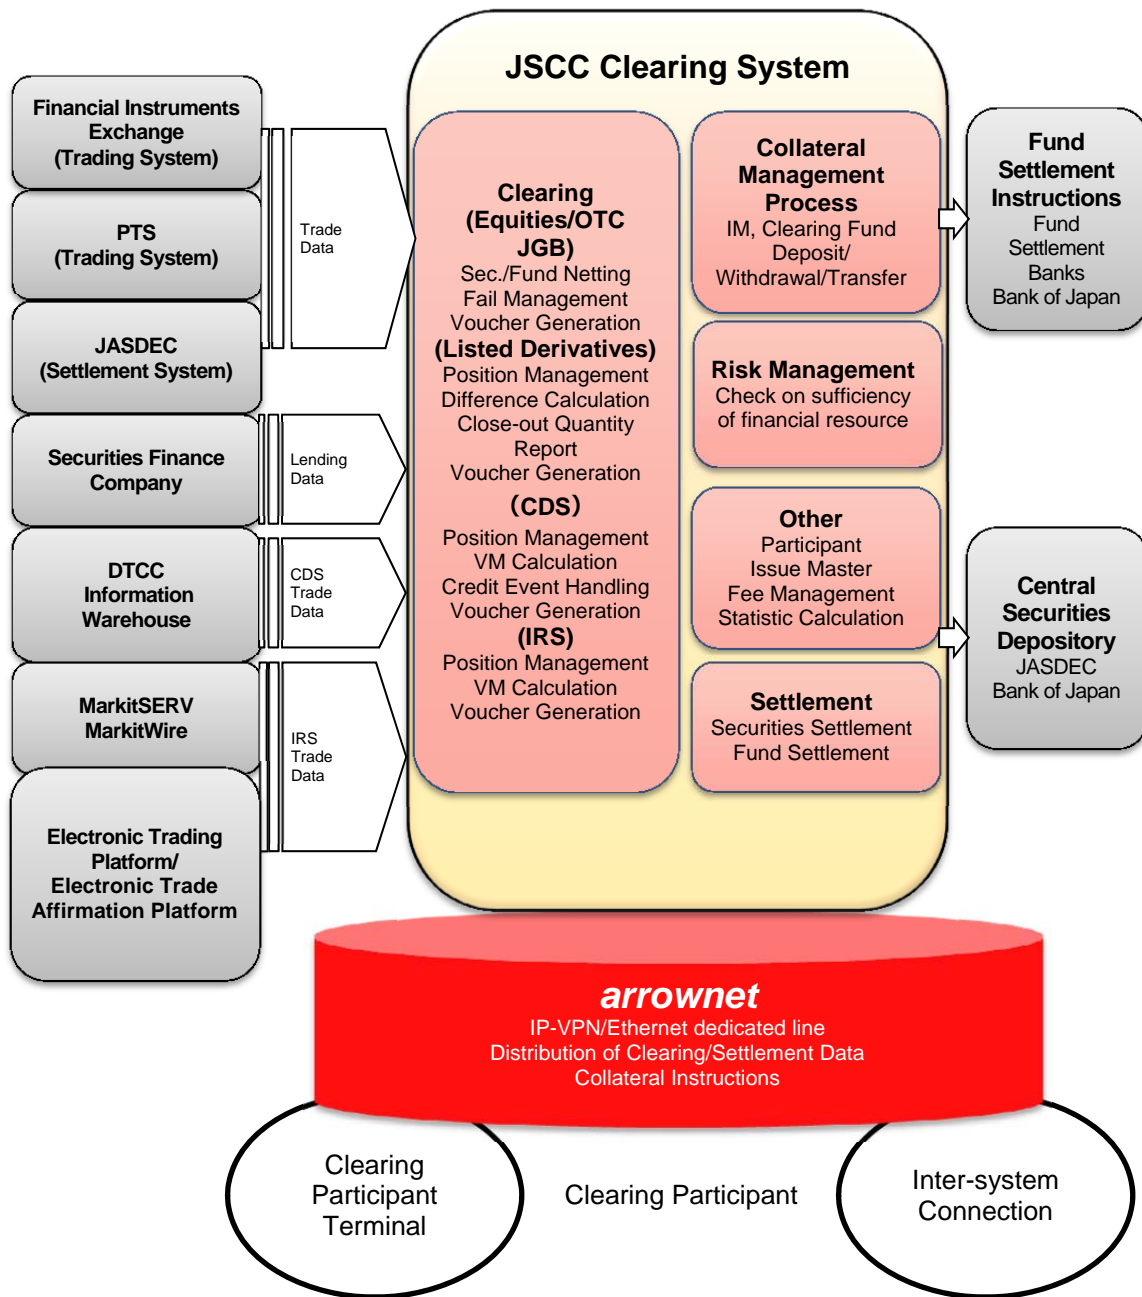

JSCC outsources all development and operations related to IT systems. It appropriately manages outsourcing arrangements according to clearly defined outsourcing guidelines and criteria. The development and operations of IT systems for JSCC’s Listed Product (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business and OTC JGB Clearing Business are outsourced to TSE, while those for the CDS and IRS Clearing Businesses are outsourced to Tocho System Services (TSS). Both TSE and TSS are JPX subsidiaries, and therefore affiliated with JSCC.

²² See JSCC’s press release on “https://www.jpjx.co.jp/jscj/en/information/press_releases/i1h00a0000002w0d-att/JSCC-press-release_FINMA-recognized_foreign_CCP_en.pdf” for details.

²³ Settlement cycle for cash trades is scheduled to be shortened to “T+2” in 2019.

²⁴ By using “Package Trade,” a Clearing Participant may apply to clear multiple eligible IRS Transactions in bulk (Article 2.(4)-2 of the Interest Rate Swap Clearing Business Rules).

General Background of the FMI III-4: JSCC System Overview

IV. Principle-by-Principle Summary Narrative Disclosure

General Organization

Principle 1: Legal Basis

An FMI should have a well-founded, clear, transparent, and enforceable legal basis for each material aspect of its activities in all relevant jurisdictions.

Key Consideration 1:

The legal basis should provide a high degree of certainty for each material aspect of an FMI's activities in all relevant jurisdictions.

Material aspects and relevant jurisdictions

JSCC views the following activities to require a high degree of legal certainty:

- Trade clearing
- Netting
- Settlement finality
- DVP arrangements
- Linkages with other FMIs
- Collateral arrangements
- Default management arrangements

*While JSCC also views Recovery and Resolution in the event of FMI (CCP) default to be a matter requiring a high degree of legal certainty, details on such arrangements will be determined according to international regulatory trends.

Legal Basis for each Material Aspect and Relevant Jurisdiction

JSCC's activities are governed by Japanese laws and regulations, including the FIEA, Civil Code, Companies Act, and the "Cabinet Office Ordinance on Financial Instruments Clearing Organization, etc."

However, within JSCC's CDS Clearing Business, the terms and conditions of cleared CDS transactions are governed by and interpreted according to English law in the absence of specific provisions otherwise.

Furthermore, JSCC is subject to the supervision of the JFSA in accordance with the "Comprehensive Guidelines for Supervision of Financial Market Infrastructures," which covers all aspects of an FMI's business and operations.

JSCC's Business Rules are approved by the Prime Minister of Japan, in accordance with the FIEA²⁵. JSCC's rules are authorized pursuant to such requirement. JSCC concludes a Clearing Participant Agreement with each Clearing Participant under which the Clearing Participant is required to comply with JSCC's Business Rules. Thereby, JSCC's Business Rules are legally binding as they are positioned as the contract between JSCC and each Clearing Participant.

²⁵ FIEA Articles 156-3 and 156-12

The relationships between JSCC, its Clearing Participants, and customers are governed by JSCC'S Business Rules, which set out the rights and obligations of each. JSCC's Rules and Clearing Participant Agreements state that all of JSCC's Clearing Businesses are governed by the laws of Japan and fall under the jurisdiction of the Tokyo District Court.

Provisions relating to Trade Clearing

JSCC's Business Rules detail the process of the "Financial Instruments Obligation Assumption Service" for which JSCC holds a license under the FIEA. JSCC's clearing services are conducted in accordance with the FIEA.

Provisions relating to Netting

JSCC's Business Rules have specific provisions related to close-out netting arrangements for claims and obligations between JSCC and Clearing Participants in the case of a Clearing Participant default. Additionally, the FIEA²⁶ prescribes that JSCC's close-out netting process shall prevail over general bankruptcy proceedings.

Provisions relating to Settlement Finality

JSCC's rules and operational procedures (documents prescribing handling of clearing operations in accordance with the rules) contain provisions dealing with settlement finality, and detail the point at which fund/securities settlement between JSCC and its Clearing Participants are settled. This provides certainty to all of JSCC's Clearing Participants as to the finality related to the performance of their obligations to JSCC. See Principle 8 (Settlement Finality) for further details.

Provisions relating to DVP Arrangements

Settlement for Cash Products and JGBs is conducted by DVP. DVP settlement for Cash Products is conducted by linking book-entry transfer at Japan Securities Depository Center, Inc. ("JASDEC") with fund settlement at Fund Settlement Banks, in accordance with JSCC's rules²⁷. DVP settlement for JGBs²⁸ is conducted through RTGS (Real-Time Gross Settlement) provided by the BOJ.

All securities settlements (book-entry transfer) are conducted according to Japanese law (Act on Book-entry Transfer of Company Bonds, Shares, etc.).

Provisions relating to Linkage with other FMIs

JSCC currently only has links to CSD (Central Securities Depository) and Trade Repositories. See Principle 20 (FMI Links) for further details.

Provisions relating to Collateral Arrangements

JSCC holds collateral deposited by Clearing Participants and customers in the manner specified in Principle 16 (Custody and Investment Risks).

Clearing Participant and customer collateral is segregated from JSCC's own assets, in compliance with the requirements of the FIEA²⁹. JSCC may, however, use collateral to satisfy obligations owed to it following the default of a Clearing Participant, where the conditions of the FIEA and JSCC's Business Rules are met.

²⁶ FIEA Article 156-11-2

²⁸ Japanese Government Bond Over-the-Counter Transaction Clearing Business Rules Chapter 5

Collateral deposited by Clearing Participants with JSCC is treated as "Clearing Margin" as defined in Article 119 of the FIEA for the Listed Products (Derivatives) Clearing Business, and "Clearing Deposit" as defined in Article 156-11 of the FIEA for other collateral. The FIEA gives JSCC the right to receive payment from "Clearing Margin" and "Clearing Deposit" before other creditors.

Provisions relating to Default Management Arrangements

The FIEA³⁰ states that, in the event of a Clearing Participant default, a CCP's rules shall prevail over general bankruptcy proceedings for the settlement of cleared trades between the defaulting Clearing Participant and the CCP.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should have rules, procedures, and contracts that are clear, understandable, and consistent with relevant laws and regulations.

JSCC's rules (including amendments) are developed via a process which includes consultation with Clearing Participants, lawyers, the JFSA and other relevant regulators, as necessary. Through this process, JSCC confirms that its rules are consistent with laws and regulations.

To date, no conflict between JSCC's rules, procedures, and contracts and relevant laws and regulations have been identified.

JSCC also removes uncertainty in its rules and prevents misinterpretation by holding informal discussions with Clearing Participants and discussions in advisory committees and by conducting public consultations on the outline of new rules or amendments to existing rules, except for insignificant rule changes.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should be able to articulate the legal basis for its activities to relevant authorities, participants, and, where relevant, participants' customers, in a clear and understandable way.

JSCC makes explanations of the legal basis for its activities widely available via its website, in presentations to the advisory committee for each Clearing Business, and in meetings with Clearing Participants or their customers.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should have rules, procedures, and contracts that are enforceable in all relevant jurisdictions. There should be a high degree of certainty that actions taken by the FMI under such rules and procedures will not be voided, reversed, or subject to stays.

²⁹ FIEA Article 119, Paragraph 4 and Cabinet Office Ordinance on Financial Instruments Exchanges, etc. Article 67

³⁰ FIEA Article 156-11-2

Enforceability of JSCC's Rules, Procedures, and Contracts

JSCC's Rules, Procedures, and Contracts are written to ensure they have contractual force in all relevant jurisdictions. (See Key Consideration 1 of this Principle for further details.)

The FIEA³¹ stipulates that in the event of a Clearing Participant default, a CCP's rules shall prevail over general bankruptcy proceedings for the settlement of cleared trades between the defaulting Clearing Participant and the CCP, allowing JSCC's rules to limit the impact of the insolvency of a Clearing Participant on JSCC's Clearing Businesses.

In the event of the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings in a foreign jurisdiction against a Clearing Participant, the effect of such bankruptcy proceedings extend to Japan only upon a Japanese Court's order of recognition of such proceedings, as specified in the "Act on Recognition of and Assistance for Foreign Insolvency Proceedings." Such proceedings shall apply to the properties of a defaulting Clearing Participant only upon the issuance of an assistance order by a Japanese court. Unless a Japanese court issues such an order, bankruptcy proceedings in a foreign jurisdiction do not directly apply to Japan and will not put collateral posted to JSCC by a defaulting Clearing Participant at risk, even in the event of the default of a foreign Clearing Participant.

Degree of Certainty for JSCC's Rules and Procedures

JSCC has confirmed that there are no issues with Japanese law being the governing law of JSCC's Clearing Businesses or the effectiveness of English law with respect to the terms of CDS contracts.

JSCC's Business Rules are subject to approval as required under the FIEA³². In this process, the Business Rules are examined to ensure they conform to laws and regulations and are sufficient for conducting Clearing Services appropriately and smoothly. To date, there has been no instance of any regulatory action taken against any of JSCC's activities in Japan or abroad.

Key Consideration 5:

An FMI conducting business in multiple jurisdictions should identify and mitigate the risks arising from any potential conflict of laws across jurisdictions.

JSCC continuously identifies and analyzes possible conflict-of-law issues based on the latest information from Clearing Participants, law firms, and regulatory bodies, including the JFSA.

Some of JSCC's Clearing Participants are established in EU countries, with their operations in Japan registered under the FIEA. Due to this, JSCC has obtained the recognition as Third Country CCP under European Market Infrastructure Regulation from European Securities and Markets Authority of EU, enabling JSCC to provide services to Clearing Participants and trading venues established in the European Union³³.

In Australia, JSCC received designation as a Prescribed Facility under Corporations

Some Affiliates of Clearing Participants that clear their CDS or IRS trades in JSCC are categorized as U.S. Persons under the CFTC guidelines³⁶. Therefore, to allow these trading entities to access JSCC's swap Clearing Services, JSCC has obtained an order of exemption from registration as a Derivatives Clearing Organization under the Commodity Exchange Act, from the CFTC.³⁷

Some of the Clearing Participants that clear IRS through JSCC are incorporated in Hong Kong. Therefore, JSCC has obtained authorization from the SFC of Hong Kong, to provide Automated Trading Services, and the designation as central counterparty that can be used for the observance of mandatory clearing obligations, under the SFO³⁸.

Some of the Clearing Participants that clear IRS in JSCC are incorporated in Switzerland. Therefore, JSCC has been recognized as Foreign Central Counterparty under the Financial Market Infrastructure Act from the Financial Market Supervisory Authority of Switzerland to offer IRS Clearing Services to those trading entities³⁹.

Principle 2: Governance

An FMI should have governance arrangements that are clear and transparent, promote the safety and efficiency of the FMI, and support the stability of the broader financial system, other relevant public interest considerations, and the objectives of relevant stakeholders.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should have objectives that place a high priority on the safety and efficiency of the FMI and explicitly support financial stability and other relevant public interest considerations.

Under the FIEA and the JFSA's "Comprehensive Guidelines for Supervision of Financial Market Infrastructures -Clearing Organizations, Fund Clearing Organizations, Book-entry Transfer Institutions, and Trade Repositories-," a CCP is required to contribute to the stability of the financial system through the precise execution of its clearing operations under proper risk management. JSCC's clearing operations are subject to the supervision of the JFSA. Toward that purpose, JSCC, in its role as an FMI, provides the following as its Corporate Philosophy:

"JSCC, with a solid risk-management framework, aims to enhance the competitiveness of Japanese financial and capital markets by improving the efficiency, serviceability and safety of financial market post-trade processing infrastructure."⁴⁰

JSCC's officers and employees are required to conduct operations based on this Corporate Philosophy.

JSCC lays out business policies in its "Medium-Term Business Plan," which is created based on its Corporate Philosophy, and uses those policies to formulate detailed business plans. JSCC's Board of Directors reviews the achievement of the business plans annually and analyzes whether they achieve results that are consistent with JSCC's Corporate Philosophy.

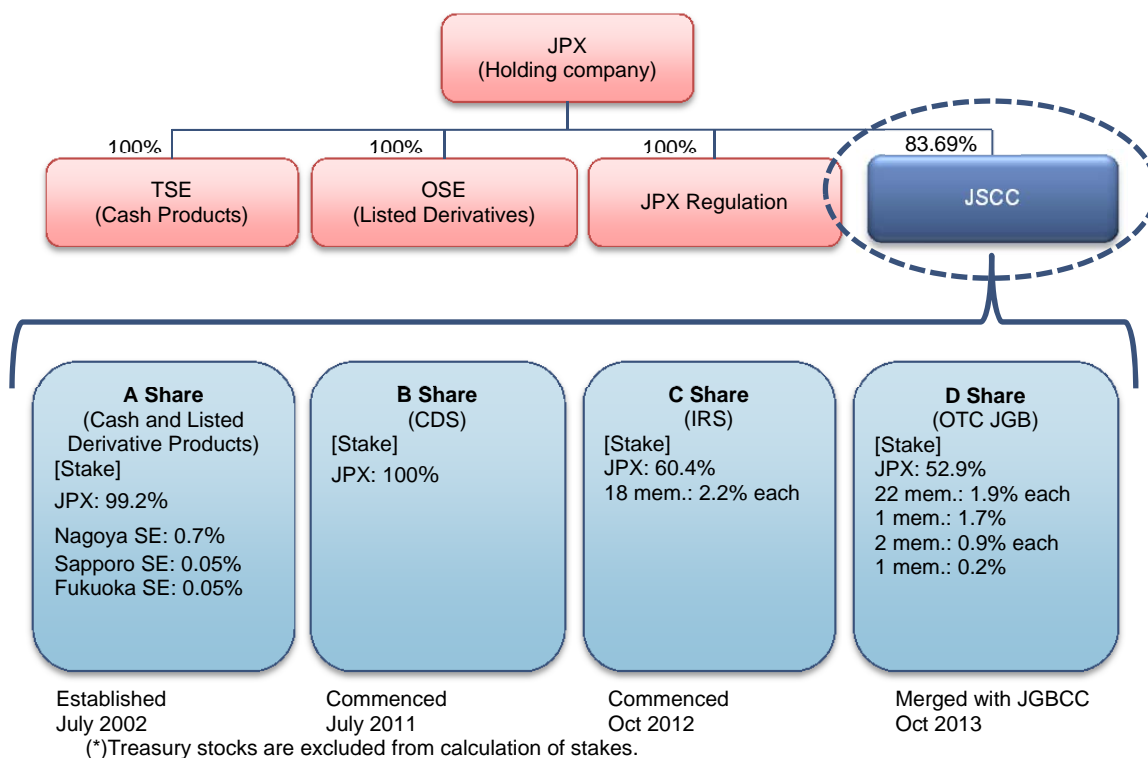

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should have documented governance arrangements that provide clear and direct lines of responsibility and accountability. These arrangements should be disclosed to owners, relevant authorities, participants, and, at a more general level, the public.

Principle 2 (Governance) Key Consideration 2 IV-1: Shareholder Composition

The corporate governance of JPX, which is JSCC's controlling shareholder, is detailed below. Its fundamental approach seeks to fulfill JPX's social mission, by serving as vital public infrastructure in the form of Japan's central financial instruments market. This is consistent with JSCC's governance that realizes the aim of an FMI, as detailed in its Corporate Philosophy.

JPX's Basic View to Corporate Governance

<Corporate philosophy and social mission>

JPX group operates markets that are a public asset and fulfills its social mission by pursuing the sustainable development of its markets.

<Market operations>

JPX group operates the markets with the view that garnering support for and fostering confidence in the markets it establishes is in the common interest of all investors and market users, and maintaining and enhancing the support and confidence will build the foundations for sustainable development of its markets.

<Enhanced corporate value>

In order for JPX group to pursue sustainable development of its markets, it must continue to accommodate the diverse needs of shareholders and other stakeholders, thereby enhancing corporate value over the medium to long term.

<Effective corporate governance>

JPX group strives to constantly improve its corporate governance system to further facilitate effective and proper systems, so as to support the sustainable development of its markets.⁴¹

JSCC is subject to the supervision of the JFSA in accordance with the FIEA. JSCC's Articles of Incorporation, which provide for its fundamental governance arrangements, satisfy the detailed governance requirements for a CCP as provided in the FIEA, the “Cabinet Office Ordinance on Financial Instruments Clearing Organization, etc.,” the “Comprehensive Guidelines for Supervision of Financial Market Infrastructures,” and other laws and regulations

Governance Arrangements

All of JSCC’s clearing activities take place within four Clearing Business units: Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB. Each Clearing Business maintains its own capital and share class, with business decisions made according to resolutions by the general shareholders meeting and class-shareholders meeting.

JSCC’s Board of Directors is composed of three full-time directors (the President and CEO, Executive Vice President, and Managing Director) as well as six part-time directors. The Board of Directors makes decisions on JSCC’s business activities according to its resolutions, nominates executive officers to execute such activities, and supervises the propriety of officers’ performance of duties.

Directors that represent the opinions of each Clearing Business are nominated to the Board of Directors. The Articles of Incorporation include provisions requiring directors to respect the opinions of each Clearing Business’s advisory committee in order to establish proper governance.

Through a resolution of the Board of Directors, the executive officers (officers in charge of JSCC’s business execution) are appointed, and the Board of Executive Officers, the purpose of which is to discuss the matters to be submitted to the Board of Directors, is formed by all of the executive officers.

JSCC has a Chief Risk Officer (“CRO”) who is independent from each clearing business unit, and is the officer in charge of risk management. The CRO reports, and provides recommendations, to the Board of Directors, and the Risk Oversight Committee. The Risk Oversight Committee is an internal forum for the discussion and information-sharing of risk management issues, and the status of implementation of the risk management system, as well as the Risk Appetite Statement, the identification of material risks, and any required counter-measures. The Risk Oversight Committee is composed of the President & CEO, executive officers supervising each business unit, division heads, CRO and other Risk Management Office staff, and auditors.

JSCC possesses a board of statutory auditors, composed of three highly independent auditors nominated at the general shareholders meeting. The Companies Act sets forth the Statutory Auditors’ authority to investigate company business and assets, to request a meeting of the Board of Directors, to report on the improper conduct of a director, and the obligation and responsibility to report results of audits to shareholders, in order to ensure the lawfulness of director’s activities.

The names and roles of the advisory committees for each of JSCC’s Clearing Businesses are as follows:

Risk Committee

In cases where JSCC intends to make decisions on any matter considered necessary in the performance of its responsibilities related to risks of the Clearing Businesses, JSCC shall seek advice from the Risk Committee. The committee is composed of members that are external directors of JSCC, Clearing Participants, their customers and other persons with excellent knowledge and experience in the matter of consultation.

Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee

In cases where JSCC exercises its authority under the Business Rules of each Clearing Business to take necessary measures against Clearing Participants, JSCC shall seek advice from the Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee. The committee possesses the necessary knowledge and experience regarding relevant laws, accounting standards, and the market and is composed of members that are independent from JSCC.

Listed Products Management Committee

This committee serves to provide an understanding of Clearing Participants' demands related to the Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business, ensure JSCC's rules and operations reflect the opinions of Clearing Participants from an operational perspective, and discuss rules and operational matters in response to inquiries from the Board of Directors. Committee members are selected from Clearing Participants, taking into consideration member diversification including the type and scale of their business.

CDS Management Committee

IRS Management Committee

OTC JGB Management Committee

These committees deliberate on matters for consultation concerning the operation of each Clearing Business set forth in the Business Rules and subordinate rules for their respective Clearing Businesses, in response to inquiries from the Board of Directors. The committees are composed of Clearing Participants (IRS Management Committee and JGB OTC Management Committee also include shareholders).

JSCC Determination Committee

This committee determines matters for the CDS Clearing business, including matters concerning Credit Events and Succession Event. Committee members are selected from Clearing Participants.

CDS Default Management Committee

IRS Default Management Committee

OTC JGB Default Management Committee

These committees offer advice on matters such as hedging when the default of a Clearing Participant is determined and bidding during default auctions. Members of these committees are selected from Clearing Participants.

Responsibility for operations rests with the related executive officer or CRO. The names and roles of each division are as follows:

Risk Management Office

The Risk Management Office, supervised by the CRO, is composed of the Risk Management Division and the Risk Monitoring Division. The Risk Management Division is responsible for the comprehensive risk management operation under the Risk Appetite Framework Management Policy. The Risk Monitoring Division is responsible for the planning and drafting of Clearing Participant rules, as well as matters related to clearing/settlement rules and the examination/monitoring of Clearing Participants.

Corporate Planning Division

In addition to acting as the secretariat for the general shareholders meeting and the Board of Directors, Corporate Planning also handles general affairs, accounting, and human resources.

Strategic Planning Division

Strategic Planning is responsible for formulating management and business plans and managing their execution, in addition to general management matters.

System Planning Division

System Planning is responsible for comprehensive planning, strategy, and supervision of IT-related matters, and management and coordination of system-related projects.

Listed Products Clearing Service

This clearing service is responsible for planning and drafting of clearing/settlement rules and frameworks, and settlement control of products subject to clearing for Listed Products.

OTC Derivatives Clearing Service

This clearing service is responsible for planning and drafting of clearing/settlement rules and frameworks, and settlement control of products subject to clearing for OTC derivatives.

OTC JGB Clearing Service

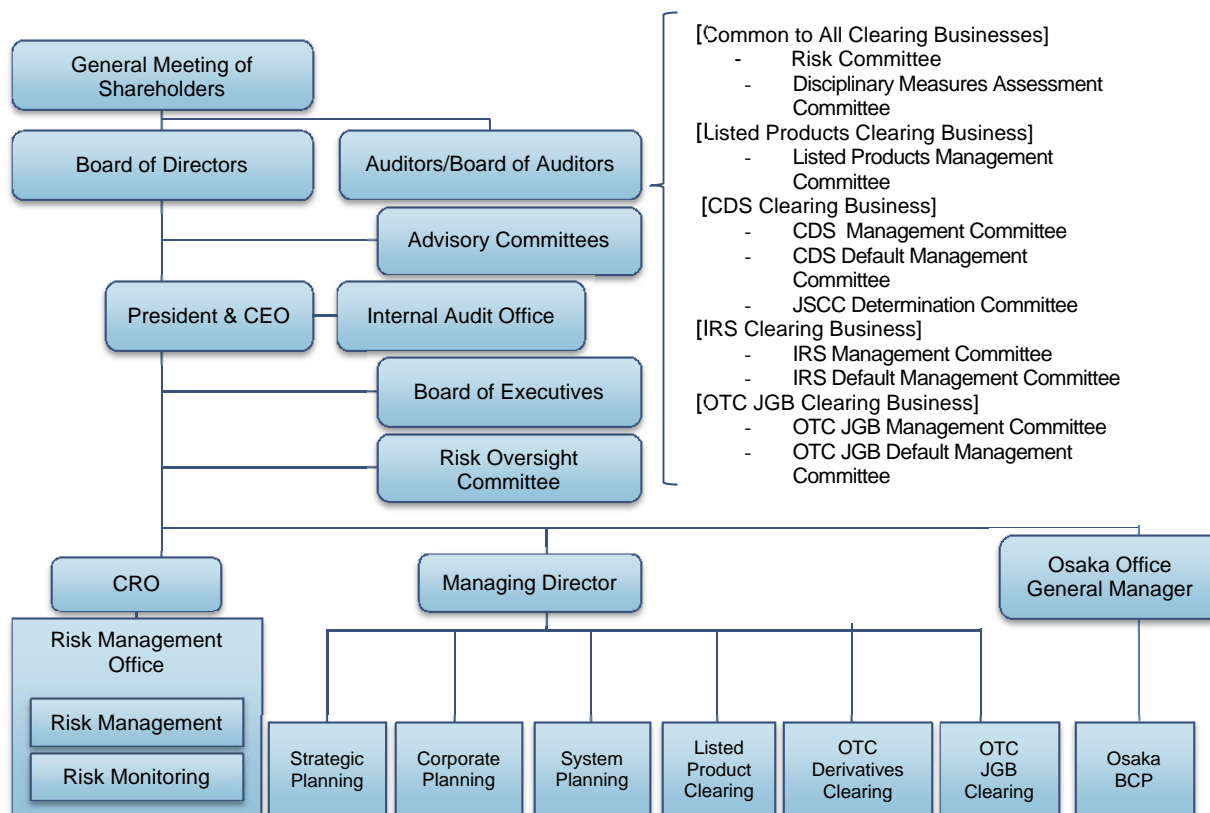

This clearing service is responsible for planning and drafting of clearing/settlement rules and frameworks, and settlement control of products subject to clearing for OTC JGBs.

Moreover, to be ready for the case where JSCC's facilities in Tokyo become unavailable due to a wide-area disaster, JSCC also has an office in Osaka (Osaka Office) to strengthen the necessary structures for BCP.

Internal Audit Office

The Internal Audit Office is responsible for conducting audits to confirm the proper execution of business and reports its audit results to the President & CEO and the Board of Statutory Auditors.

Principle 2 (Governance) Key Consideration 2 IV-2: Company Organization

Disclosure

JSCC published its Governance Guidelines, containing, among other things, the roles and responsibilities of the Board of Directors⁴². Moreover, JSCC publishes its Annual Report on its corporate website⁴³. The Annual report includes a detailed review of JSCC's shareholders, the composition of its Board of Directors and Auditors, and an overview of its advisory committees.

Key Consideration 3:

The roles and responsibilities of an FMI's board of directors (or equivalent) should be clearly specified, and there should be documented procedures for its function, including procedures to identify, address, and manage member conflicts of interest. The board should review both its overall performance and the performance of its individual board members regularly.

Roles and Responsibilities of the Board of Directors

JSCC's Board of Directors oversees all of JSCC's business activities and is accountable to its shareholders. The main duties and authority of the Board of Directors and the procedures for the Board meetings are prescribed in the Companies Act, JSCC's Articles of Incorporation and Rules of Board of Directors.

The main duties of the Board of Directors include approval of the following:

- High-level policies, strategies, and objectives of JSCC, including the medium-term business plan;
- Annual budgets and investment proposals
- Internal control framework to secure the adequacy of internal procedures, risk management, financial reporting, and compliance;
- Appointment and dismissal of the President & CEO

Managing Conflicts of Interest

The Companies Act⁴⁴ provides for managing conflicts of interest between the Board of Directors and individual directors by requiring the disclosure of material facts to and approval from the Board in cases where a director seeks to engage in transactions competing against JSCC's business, or which would result in a conflict of interest.

Auditors are obligated by the Companies Act⁴⁵ to report to the Board of Directors, without delay, illegal actions, violations of laws, regulations, or the Articles of Incorporation, or significantly inappropriate facts in relation to the duties of directors, as well as report the results of their investigations to the general shareholders meeting. As such, auditors investigate transactions involving conflicts of interest when preparing audit reports annually.

Furthermore, both the Companies Act⁴⁶ and JSCC's Rules of Board of Directors contain provisions prohibiting a director with a special interest in a subject matter from voting on such matter.

Measures to Facilitate the Functioning of the Board of Directors

JSCC holds a Board of Statutory Auditors⁴⁷, which serves the same function as an audit committee. The duties of the Board of Statutory Auditors are defined in the Companies Act, and include duties such as preparing audit reports, appointing and removing full-time statutory auditors, deciding audit policy, deciding the method to investigate the status of business and assets of the company, and other matters related to the execution of the auditor's duties⁴⁸.

Review of Performance of Board of Directors

Shareholders are able to monitor the performance of the Board of Directors via the business report submitted to the general shareholders meeting. The report contains information on achievement of management policies and business plans, defined in the medium-term management plan and financial results.

For the performance of individual directors, records of each director's participation in board meetings and other meetings, including remarks in such meetings, are used as reference during future nomination processes.

Key Consideration 4:

The board should contain suitable members with the appropriate skills and incentives to fulfill its multiple roles. This typically requires the inclusion of non-executive board member(s).

Board Member's Skills

The FIEA⁴⁹ requires that a CCP's personnel be composed of individuals that "have sufficient knowledge and experience for conducting Financial Instruments Obligation Assumption Service appropriately and certainly and have sufficient social credibility," and nominations to the Board of Directors are made in accordance with such requirements.

Pursuant to the specific nominating criteria established by the Board of Directors, JSCC appoints board members who have a broad range of relevant financial markets industry experience, qualifications, and industry knowledge. In the nomination process during the general shareholders meeting, the background of candidates is present, and their skills are confirmed.

The backgrounds of board members are publicized via JSCC's website.

Board Member Incentives

Board member compensation has been set with suitable standards to retain and motivate individuals with appropriate abilities and incentives, to secure long-term interests.

Additionally, the compensation of each director is determined annually by the Compensation Committee, based on the performance of each individual, within the total aggregate amount of board member compensation decided on in the general shareholders meeting.

Key Consideration 5:

The roles and responsibilities of management should be clearly specified. An FMI's management should have the appropriate experience, a mix of skills, and the integrity necessary to discharge their responsibilities for the operation and risk management of the FMI.

Roles and Responsibilities of Management

JSCC's senior management is composed of 4 executive officers. In accordance with resolutions of the Board of Directors, the senior management executes JSCC's business plans and oversees daily operations.

The duties of the senior management are set out in JSCC's internal rules and include:

- Making key decisions on the management and operations of JSCC;
- Managing JSCC expenses and investments;
- Executing and managing JSCC's business within the framework of the board-approved Medium-Term business plan;
- Making decisions on matters to be submitted to the Board of Directors in relation to JSCC's policies, strategy, and financial objectives.

⁴⁹ FIEA Article 156-4, Paragraph 1

The senior management report on JSCC's operations to the Board of Directors on a quarterly basis and present a business report and financial results to shareholders annually, following approval by the Board of Directors. Shareholders are thereby able to evaluate the performance and accomplishments of senior management in light of JSCC's role as a CCP and are required to appoint candidates.

Experience, Skills, and Integrity

JSCC has confirmed that its senior management meet the qualifications required by the Companies Act and FIEA. JSCC's senior management have diverse experience across exchange operation, banking management, and clearing, risk management, and information technology.

Profiles of the members of JSCC's Board of Directors are available on JSCC's website.

The Board of Directors have the authority to seek a general shareholders meeting resolution to initiate the dismissal of any director failing to fulfill their duties or otherwise bringing JSCC into disrepute, pursuant to procedures specified in the Companies Act.

Key Consideration 6:

The board should establish a clear, documented risk-management framework that includes the FMI's risk-tolerance policy, assigns responsibilities and accountability for risk decisions, and addresses decision making in crises and emergencies. Governance arrangements should ensure that the risk-management and internal control functions have sufficient authority, independence, resources, and access to the board.

Risk Management Framework

JSCC's Board of Directors identifies the risks JSCC is exposed to and has established the Risk Appetite Framework Management Policy as part of its risk management framework, to articulate JSCC's risk appetite (risk tolerance). JSCC has published, on its website, its Risk Appetite Statement, as part of the Risk Appetite Framework Management Policy and is developed in light of requests from, and the expectations of, Clearing Participants, their customers, regulatory authorities, the officers and employees of JSCC, and other stakeholders⁵⁰. JSCC has a Risk Management Policy which details JSCC's approach to handling the risks identified under the Risk Appetite Framework Management Policy. JSCC receives regular reports on the state of compliance with the Risk Management Policy and can take appropriate measures as necessary. See Principle 3 (Framework for the Comprehensive Management of Risks) for further details.

JSCC's Board of Directors also receives a report at least once a year on the results of a review of the risk appetite, and can take appropriate measures in response, as necessary.

In addition, the Board of Directors will also receive a report following a serious risk event, such as a Clearing Participant default or critical system failure, to take action as necessary.

Within JSCC, the Risk Management Division of the Risk Management Office is responsible for confirming each division's compliance with the Risk Management Policy, while the Internal Audit Office is responsible for conducting audits to confirm the proper execution of business by each department, including the Risk Management Division. The auditing of each Clearing Business division is conducted properly with cooperation between both the Risk Management Division and the Internal Auditing Office.

Key Consideration 7:

The board should ensure that the FMI's design, rules, overall strategy, and major decisions reflect appropriately the legitimate interests of its direct and indirect participants and other relevant stakeholders. Major decisions should be clearly disclosed to relevant stakeholders and, where there is a broad market impact, the public.

Identification and Consideration of Stakeholder Interests

JSCC makes its business decisions with consideration given to the interests of stakeholders such as Clearing Participants and their customers.

As stated in Key Consideration 2 of this Principle, the Listed Products Management Committee, CDS Management Committee, IRS Management Committee, and JGB OTC Management Committee all include Clearing Participants (IRS Management Committee and JGB OTC Management Committee also include shareholders) as members. The Board of Directors makes inquiries to these advisory committees when deciding upon significant changes to operations or the Business Rules. Opinions are also collected from a wide range by soliciting public comments on new rules and significant rule changes in advance.

JSCC also consults the relevant Default Management Committees, which are composed of Clearing Participants, on hedging measures and default auctions in the event of a Clearing Participant default in the CDS, IRS, or OTC JGB Clearing Businesses.

Disclosure

JSCC publicizes major decisions by the Board of Directors on its website, including the Medium-Term Business Plan, significant rule revisions, and candidates for the Board of Directors.

Principle 3: Framework for the Comprehensive Management of Risks

An FMI should have a sound risk-management framework for comprehensively managing legal, credit, liquidity, operational, and other risks.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should have risk-management policies, procedures, and systems that enable it to identify, measure, monitor, and manage the range of risks that arise in or are borne by the FMI. Risk-management frameworks should be subject to periodic review.

Risks that arise in or are borne by JSCC

JSCC is exposed to various risks, such as credit risk, liquidity risk, operational risk (including general operational risk, IT system risk and business continuity risk), settlement risk, custody risk, investment risk, concentration risk, legal risk, business risk, risk concerning anti-social forces, and other risks (including risks concerning business management and compliance).

Risk Governance

JSCC's Corporate Philosophy clarifies the importance of risk management and forms the foundation of JSCC's risk governance, as follows:

“JSCC, with a solid risk-management framework, aims to enhance the competitiveness of Japanese financial and capital markets by improving the efficiency, serviceability and safety of financial market post-trade processing infrastructure.”⁵¹

Under its Corporate Philosophy, JSCC's management policy is (i) Reinforcement of Clearing Functions, Risk Management and IT Systems towards Service Quality Improvement and (ii) Reinforcement of the Company's Role as Core Infrastructure through Expansion of the Scope of Services.

Under its Corporate Philosophy and management policy, JSCC has established its Risk Appetite Framework Management Policy as a framework for the business management to systematically manage various risks, under which JSCC stipulates a Risk Appetite Statement concerning each risk, to clarify its attitude towards the risk management, and has defined the Risk Management Policy to deal with them. JSCC has published the Risk Appetite Statement on its website⁵².

The Risk Management Policy clarifies the purpose, policies, and management of the risk management framework, including sound risk governance, stringent participant eligibility requirements, a robust margin framework, Clearing Fund and Loss Compensation Scheme, liquidity risk management, default management, and business continuity plan (“BCP”).

Under the Risk Management Policy, JSCC has rules and policies for handling the specified risks. These consist primarily of the following:

- In order to handle Clearing Participant credit risk, JSCC has defined a risk management system, including Clearing Participant rules, margin rules, a Clearing Fund and Loss Compensation Scheme, and default management procedures in its Business Rules and subordinate rules;

- In order to handle operational risk, JSCC has defined a “BCP Basic Plan” to minimize the impact of interruptions to operations and lay out business continuity measures in case of the realization of various risk factors. Additionally, JSCC has defined (a) an “Information Security Basic Policies” and “Information Security Countermeasure Standards” providing for access control and information protection, (b) “Rules for Operational Management” providing for matters for stable operations, such as the preparation of operation manuals and checklists, and procedures to deal with abnormal events, (c) “Rules for Management of Outsourcing” which provide for vendor selection processes and continuous monitoring and control of outsourced activities, and (d) the “System Risk Management Policy” and “System Risk Management Rules” which provide for the policy and procedures for addressing risks arising from IT system use;
- In order to handle settlement and custody risks, JSCC has defined the “Policies for Designation of Japanese Yen Fund Settlement Banks,” “Policies for Designation of Foreign Currency Fund Settlement Banks” and “Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral,” which provide for criteria and procedures for designating banks as Fund Settlement Banks and/or collateral custodians; and
- In order to handle investment risk, JSCC has defined the “Policies for Fund Management of Own Assets” and “Policies for Management of Posted Collateral,”⁵³ which provide for the scope and methods of such management.

Comprehensive Risk Management Framework

JSCC has established a comprehensive risk management framework to supervise and manage risks and ensure that responsibilities and accountabilities are clearly defined. Specifically, JSCC’s Board of Directors defines the aforementioned Corporate Philosophy, Management Policy, and Risk Appetite Framework Management Policy and, for the business operations covered by the Risk Appetite Framework, defines and executes the comprehensive risk management operation comprised of the establishment of a Risk Appetite, the validation of suitability and the management based on the Risk Appetite, as follows.

- Management under the Risk Appetite is comprised of the verification of compliance with the Risk Management Policy, the validation of various risk management frameworks, such as margin frameworks, and the preventive management related to material risks.
- For the management of status of compliance with the Risk Management Policy, the Risk Management Policy has been established to details the relevant policies to respond to various risks, and each division responsible for the relevant risk will act according to the Risk Management Policy and report the status of compliance to the Risk Management Division.
- The Risk Management Division will compile and evaluate the reports received from divisions responsible for the management of each risk. The CRO shall report the status of compliance with the Risk Management Policy monthly, quarterly, and annually to the Risk Oversight Committee and offer proposals as necessary. Additionally, the CRO shall report the status of compliance with the Risk Management Policy to the Board of Directors quarterly and annually, in principle, and offer proposals as necessary.

The Risk Committee, comprised of external members with risk management knowledge, is consulted on the comprehensive risk management operation.

Regular Revision of the Risk Appetite, Risk Management Policy and Risk Management System

JSCC’s Board of Directors will review the Risk Appetite, Risk Management Policy and Risk

⁵³ <https://www.jpjx.co.jp/jscj/en/company/fundmanagementpolicy.html>

Management System at least once a year, and conduct the appropriate revisions in consideration of the risks to which JSCC is exposed. During this review, the Board of Directors will consider new products, the market environment, positions of Clearing Participants, changes in the Japanese and overseas regulatory environment, and other factors. The Board of Directors' review and revision process will be overseen by the Risk Management Division.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should provide incentives to participants and, where relevant, their customers to manage and contain the risks they pose to the FMI.

JSCC provides all Clearing Participants with detailed information on their positions, collateral requirements and settlement amounts, allowing Clearing Participants to reconcile and manage their market, credit, and liquidity risks. Specifically, the following measures allow Clearing Participants to calculate and manage their own risks:

- Whenever a listed product transaction is executed, the exchange disseminates the execution information, or a drop-copy, in real-time to Trading Participants and Clearing Participants;
- For Listed Derivatives, JSCC specifies the use of SPAN® margin methodology, which is widely used globally, in its rules, and distributes a daily risk parameter file (hereinafter referred to as "RPF"), for margin calculation.
- For Cash Products, JSCC has adopted a historical simulation (VaR) margin methodology. The calculation method is specified in JSCC's rules and made public, the required margin amounts are disseminated to Clearing Participants and margin simulation tools are made available for use by Clearing Participants;
- For CDS and IRS, JSCC disseminates trade information whenever a transaction is cleared. Historical simulation (expected shortfall) is used for margin calculation, and the methodology is specified in JSCC's rules and made public. JSCC disseminates the required margin amounts to Clearing Participants and also provides margin simulation tools;
- For OTC JGBs, whenever a transaction is cleared, JSCC disseminates the related information to Clearing Participants. For margin, a delta method is used, and the calculation methodology for which is specified in JSCC's rules and made public. JSCC disseminates the required margin amounts to Clearing Participants; and
- For the Clearing Fund, JSCC specifies the calculation methodologies in its rules, which are publicly available, and disseminates the required amounts to Clearing Participants.
- From viewpoint of appropriate disclosure to Clearing Participants, JSCC distributes a monthly "Risk Profile Report" for each Clearing Business, which contains key information related to risk management, including the status of collateral deposited by Clearing Participants and the status of the adequacy of loss compensation financial resources.

JSCC has established a framework for requiring additional margin, or the reduction of positions, when risks become excessive, for each of its Clearing Businesses. Clearing Participants are incentivized to pro-actively manage position risk in order to control their margin requirements. See Principle 6 (Margin) for further details.

JSCC gives Clearing Participants incentive to properly manage their positions with JSCC by requiring prefunded, or unfunded, mutualized loss compensation resources in accordance with each participant's risk exposure, for each Clearing Business. See Principle 13 (Participant-Default Rules and Procedures) for further details.

JSCC also ensures that Clearing Participants maintain the soundness and appropriateness of their business execution framework through a continuous monitoring process. When an issue arises, JSCC maintains the ability to suspend the clearing services of a Clearing Participant, after consultation with the Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee. See Principle 18

(Access and Participation Requirements) for further details.

In addition to this, JSCC consults the advisory committees of each Clearing Business and solicits public comments when designing the risk management framework, thus offering opportunities for Clearing Participants and their customers to have effective management and controls for their risks. See Principle 2 (Governance) for further details.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should regularly review the material risks it bears from and poses to other entities (such as other FMIs, settlement banks, liquidity providers, and service providers) as a result of interdependencies and develop appropriate risk-management tools to address these risks.

Management of Interdependencies

JSCC monitors the risks of entities with which it has interdependencies and takes preventative measures to reduce risk.

The primary entities with which JSCC has interdependencies are Fund Settlement Banks, custodian banks, banks and JPX providing Liquidity Supply Facilities to JSCC, and the CSD. JSCC manages the settlement risk, custody risk, and liquidity risk arising from such interdependencies with these entities in accordance with the Risk Management Policy.

Specifically, JSCC monitors financial conditions of these banks and CSD to assess their credit risk and appropriately manages business processes with each. JSCC has also defined measures in its BCP for cases where business of such entities is disrupted by system malfunctions or other factors. In this way, JSCC manages the aforementioned risks with such entities. The status of risk management is reviewed on a monthly basis in a report on compliance with the Risk Management Policy, while risk management methods are reviewed annually or as necessary in the course of validation of the Risk Management Policy.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should identify scenarios that may potentially prevent it from being able to provide its critical operations and services as a going concern and assess the effectiveness of a full range of options for recovery or orderly wind-down. An FMI should prepare appropriate plans for its recovery or orderly wind-down based on the results of that assessment. Where applicable, an FMI should also provide relevant authorities with the information needed for purposes of resolution planning.

JSCC's Risk Management Policy defines the risk management objective as "Establish robust and comprehensive risk management frameworks, ensure steady provision of the Clearing Businesses, and prevent a loss of JSCC's capital." The Risk Management Policy also provides for measures against various risks which would disrupt the provision of vital JSCC services as a going concern. Specifically, this assumes the realization of various risks to which JSCC is exposed, mentioned in Key Consideration 1 of this Principle, as scenarios in which JSCC is unable to provide its services, such as JSCC's resources being unable to cover the loss resulting from a Clearing Participant's default, JSCC being unable to finance funds necessary for settlement, or continuous loss due to reduced revenues or increased costs for long periods.

JSCC is required to have measures in place to ensure the appropriate operation of its Clearing Businesses, by the FIEA⁵⁴. For risks posed by a Clearing Participant's default, JSCC has prepared a Loss Compensation Scheme to fully cover the losses resulting from the default within its default management framework, and has arrangements for liquidity appropriate to the nature of the products it clears. These measures allow JSCC to avoid risk scenarios which would prevent the provision of its Clearing Businesses and services.

While there are appropriate measures in place to guard against business and other risks based on the Risk Management Policy, JSCC also has plans in place to revise business plans and reduce costs as necessary should such risks be realized. See Principle 15 (Business Risk) for further details.

In the unlikely case where JSCC finds it difficult to provide its Clearing Businesses and services, it would cooperate with regulators and related parties to resolve the situation.

Management of Credit Risk and Liquidity Risk

Principle 4: Credit Risk

An FMI should effectively measure, monitor, and manage its credit exposure to participants and those arising from its payment, clearing, and settlement processes. An FMI should maintain sufficient financial resources to cover its credit exposure to each participant fully with a high degree of confidence. In addition, a CCP that is involved in activities with a more-complex risk profile or that is systemically important in multiple jurisdictions should maintain additional financial resources sufficient to cover a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the two largest participants and their affiliates that would potentially cause the largest aggregate credit exposures to the CCP in extreme but plausible market conditions. All other CCPs should maintain additional financial resources sufficient to cover a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the participant and its affiliates that would potentially cause the largest aggregate credit exposures to the CCP in extreme but plausible market conditions.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should establish a robust framework to manage its credit exposures to its participants and the credit risks arising from its payment, clearing, and settlement processes. Credit exposure may arise from current exposures, potential future exposures, or both.

Credit Risk Borne by JSCC

JSCC bears the credit risk of its Clearing Participants. Additionally, JSCC also bears credit risk of Fund Settlement Banks and custodians. JSCC has established a robust risk management framework to handle these credit risks as described below.

Framework to Manage Clearing Participant Credit Risk

JSCC has in place a robust risk management framework to manage the credit risk of Clearing Participants.

- JSCC only admits entities, under supervision of the JFSA, that possess a sound management structure and financial basis and an appropriate business execution structure. JSCC requires Clearing Participants to continue to satisfy these criteria. This ensures that Clearing Participants have sufficient financial resources to fulfil their obligations to JSCC.
- In principle, JSCC requires Clearing Participants to deposit variation margin to cover current exposure and initial margin to cover potential future exposure. JSCC may also require Clearing Participants to deposit additional margin when necessary. See Principle 6 (Margin) for further details.
- JSCC actively monitors the credit exposure of Clearing Participants, at least once a day, and can take risk mitigating actions, such as requesting additional margin or position reduction, as necessary.
- In order to cover risks which cannot be covered by variation/initial margin resulting from times of market stress, JSCC requires Clearing Participants to contribute to a Clearing Fund. In addition, JSCC contributes to the financial resources for default loss from its own capital, and an appropriate part of these resources are committed ahead of the Clearing Fund contributions of Clearing Participants. The loss compensation resources, including those mentioned above, are used to meet any losses resulting from a Clearing Participant's default, where the losses exceed the defaulting Clearing Participant's own resources. See Principle 13 (Participant-Default Rules and Procedures) for further details.

- JSCC clears Cash Products and government bonds, which are exposed to principal risk. However, this principal risk is eliminated via the use of DVP settlement. See Principle 12 (Exchange-of-Value Settlement Systems) for further details.

JSCC confirms the effectiveness of its risk management model (referring to the risk management system and risk evaluation method) by conducting an overall review at least once a year. During this review, JSCC takes into account new products, the market environment, Clearing Participant positions, Japanese and overseas regulatory developments, and other related factors.

Framework to Manage Credit Risks of Fund Settlement Banks and Custodians

In order to manage the credit risk of Fund Settlement Banks and custodians, JSCC performs continuous monitoring against the selection criteria, which include: being supervised by the financial regulator of Japan or their home country; possessing a framework to properly carry out operations for JSCC; and having stable financial standing.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should identify sources of credit risk, routinely measure and monitor credit exposures, and use appropriate risk-management tools to control these risks.

Credit Risks from Clearing Participants

Credit risk from Clearing Participants arises from the possibility of one or more of them defaulting. In such case, JSCC faces credit exposure arising from price movements in the positions it has cleared for the defaulting Clearing Participant.

This credit exposure consists of both current and potential future exposure.

- JSCC measures current exposure by marking-to-market every outstanding position to the latest market price, and measures potential future exposure based on analysis of historical price movements and/or volatility index derived from actual option premiums in the market, at least once a day for all products. See Principle 6 for further details.
- JSCC measures credit exposures under extreme but plausible stressed market conditions when measuring potential future exposure. See Key Consideration 5 of this Principle for further details of the stress testing methodologies employed for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses.

JSCC uses the following tools to manage its credit exposures:

- Daily deposit of variation margin, initial margin, and regular/ad-hoc intra-day margin. See Principle 6 (Margin) for further details;
- Pro-active monitoring of changes in Clearing Participant credit exposures due to position/price fluctuations at least once a day for all products;
- Requiring addition margin or position reduction as necessary based on the above monitoring; and
- In order to reduce the principal risk of Cash Products and JGBs, Cash Products use net/net DVP (Model 3 in CPSS's "Delivery Versus Payment in Securities Settlement Systems"(1992)), while OTC JGBs and JGB Futures use gross/gross DVP provided by BOJ (Model 1 in CPSS's "Delivery Versus Payment in Securities Settlement Systems"(1992)).

Credit Risk from Fund Settlement Banks and Custodians

Credit risk from Fund Settlement Banks and custodians arises from the possibility of a default by such an entity. In such case, there is the risk that JSCC would not be able to conduct fund settlement with Clearing Participants or withdraw deposits held by custodians. These deposits could include Clearing Participant margin and Clearing Fund deposits and JSCC's proprietary assets.

JSCC designates the Bank of Japan ("BOJ") (Japan's Central Bank), as well as banks that satisfy its "Policies for Designation of Japanese Yen Fund Settlement Banks" and "Policies for Designation of Foreign Currency Fund Settlement Banks", as Fund Settlement Banks. Also, JSCC designates CSDs subject to PFMI, as well as the BOJ and custodians that satisfies its "Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral", as custodians for collateral. JSCC monitors the Fund Settlement Banks' and custodians' compliance with these guidelines on a regular basis. Moreover, Japanese yen settlement funds in Fund Settlement Bank accounts and Japanese yen cash collateral, including Clearing Participant margin and Clearing Fund deposits held in custodian accounts, are maintained within the BOJ accounts or banking accounts covered by the Japanese Deposit Insurance System, which protects these funds against the default of the Fund Settlement Bank or custodian. Some deposited funds are trusted under a trust scheme. The trust assets are legally protected from the risk of the trustee's default under Japanese law.

In order to diversify its exposures as much as possible, JSCC uses multiple banks and the BOJ to conduct fund settlement and act as custodians for cash collateral. See Principle 9 (Money Settlements) and Principle 16 (Custody and Investment Risks) for further details.

Key Consideration 3:

A payment system or SSS should cover its current and, where they exist, potential future exposures to each participant fully with a high degree of confidence using collateral and other equivalent financial resources (see Principle 5 on collateral). In the case of a DNS payment system or DNS SSS in which there is no settlement guarantee but where its participants face credit exposures arising from its payment, clearing, and settlement processes, such an FMI should maintain, at a minimum, sufficient resources to cover the exposures of the two participants and their affiliates that would create the largest aggregate credit exposure in the system.

This consideration is not applicable to JSCC, as JSCC has no payment system or SSS function.

Key Consideration 4:

A CCP should cover its current and potential future exposures to each participant fully with a high degree of confidence using margin and other prefunded financial resources (see Principle 5 on collateral and Principle 6 on margin). In addition, a CCP that is involved in activities with a more-complex risk profile or that is systemically important in multiple jurisdictions should maintain additional financial resources to cover a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the two participants and their affiliates that would potentially cause the largest aggregate credit exposure for the CCP in extreme but plausible market conditions. All other CCPs should maintain additional financial resources sufficient to cover a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the participant and its affiliates that would potentially cause the largest aggregate credit exposure for the CCP in extreme but plausible market conditions. In all cases, a CCP should document its supporting rationale for, and should have appropriate governance arrangements relating to, the amount of total financial resources it maintains.

Coverage of Current and Potential Future Exposures

Each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses covers current exposures and potential future exposures, including times of stress, to each Clearing Participant by securing additional financial resources, including variation margin, initial margin to a high confidence level, and Clearing Fund resources.

(1) Variation Margin

For Listed Derivatives, CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB, open positions are marked-to-market using the most recent price at least once a day, following which variation margin⁵⁵ is exchanged with Clearing Participants in Japanese yen, with variation margin for foreign currency denominated IRS being exchanged in the respective currency. This process ensures that current exposure is covered in a timely manner. For Cash Product transactions, current exposure is covered by initial margin.

(2) Initial Margin

Initial margin is calculated for each Clearing Business using a method appropriate for that business, with a confidence level of at least 99% for all products.

- For Cash Product transactions, current exposure and potential future exposure are both covered by initial margin. Initial margin for Cash Product transactions is calculated using the marked-to-market value of the open positions, obtained by using the most recent price, and expected loss from open positions obtained by using historical simulation (VaR) method.
- The initial margin for Listed Derivatives is calculated using SPAN®.
- For CDS and IRS transactions, historical simulations (expected shortfall) are used.
- For OTC JGB, initial margin is calculated, according to the nature of the product, to cover price fluctuation risk, settlement failure risk (including variation margin and interest payments), repo rate fluctuation risk.

JSCC has additional margin rules to respond to liquidity risk, concentration, and credit risk, according to the nature of each Clearing Business. See Principle 6 (Margin) for further details on initial margin structure.

Initial margin must be deposited in cash, or in the form of highly liquid securities (securities in lieu of cash), such as JGBs. When securities are deposited in lieu of cash, they will be marked-to-market on a daily basis, and subject to conservative haircuts to reflect potential market risks of the asset. Initial margin deposits are held in either JSCC's account at the relevant custodians, or trusted in a Japanese domestic trust bank, and are fully accessible when required. See Principle 5 (Collateral) for further details on JSCC's collateral policies

(3) Margin Sufficiency and Validation

The variation margin mentioned above is the same amount as the current exposure and is thus ensures coverage of the current exposure on a daily basis. Initial margin, which covers potential future exposure, is backtested on a daily basis to evaluate its sufficiency. See Principle 6 (Margin) for further details.

⁵⁵ The term of "variation margin" includes Mark-To-Market Margin to be paid or received according to daily mark-to-market for listed derivatives.

In the IRS Clearing Business, a Clearing Participant, Affiliate or non-Affiliated customer can select payment and receipt of mark-to-market difference according to daily fund settlement in lieu of payment and receipt of variation margin (Variation-Margin-as-Settlement). The term of "variation margin" includes this mark-to-market difference.

(4) Clearing Fund

JSCC requires each Clearing Participant to contribute to a Clearing Fund which covers potential future exposure in the case of the default of multiple Clearing Participants in extreme but plausible market conditions, for each Clearing Business.

For Cash Products, CDS and IRS transactions, default expectations are set to the 2 largest Clearing Participants (including any other Clearing Participant that is a Related Company⁵⁶ of the Clearing Participant), while expectations are set to the 1 largest Clearing Participant (including any other Clearing Participant that is a Related Company of the Clearing Participant) at minimum for other products.

The required amount for the Clearing Fund of each Clearing Business is revised on a weekly (or monthly for Cash Products transactions) basis, in accordance with the risk amount of the relevant business.

Other Additional Financial Resources

JSCC has other financial resources, such as its own loss bearing resources and additional contributions from Clearing Participants for each Clearing Business in addition to the Clearing Fund. For Cash Products and Listed Derivatives, these additional financial resources include loss sharing by the market operator. See Principle 13 (Participant-Default Rules and Procedures) for further details on loss compensation resources and the default waterfall.

Evaluation of Loss Compensation Resource Sufficiency

JSCC conducts daily stress tests for Clearing Participant positions for each of its Clearing Businesses, in order to confirm the sufficiency of the pre-funded loss compensation financial resources, and the total loss compensation resources comprised of the prefunded resources plus additional contributions from Clearing Participants. See Key Consideration 5 of this Principle for further details on stress testing.

Governance Arrangements

The calculation and deposit methods for additional financial resources, including margin and the Clearing Fund, are clearly provided for in the Business Rules, and subordinate rules, of each Clearing Business. To ensure sufficiency of the loss compensation resources, the Risk Management Policy provides for stress testing, and the preparation of measures to respond to any insufficiencies. Daily stress testing is performed to monitor the sufficiency of the loss compensation resources, with monthly reviews performed by the Risk Oversight Committee, and by the Board of Directors on a quarterly basis. See Principle 2 (Governance) for further details on JSCC's governance.

⁵⁶ Same scope as "Affiliate" defined in PFMI (Note 39), which includes parent (oya-gaisha), subsidiaries (ko-gaisha) and associates (kanren-gaisha) of a Clearing Participant, as well as any subsidiaries (ko-gaisha) and associates (kanren-gaisha) of a Clearing Participant's parent (oya-gaisha). The same applies hereinafter.

Key Consideration 5:

A CCP should determine the amount and regularly test the sufficiency of its total financial resources available in the event of a default or multiple defaults in extreme but plausible market conditions through rigorous stress testing. A CCP should have clear procedures to report the results of its stress tests to appropriate decision makers at the CCP and to use these results to evaluate the adequacy of and adjust its total financial resources. Stress tests should be performed daily using standard and predetermined parameters and assumptions. On at least a monthly basis, a CCP should perform a comprehensive and thorough analysis of stress testing scenarios, models, and underlying parameters and assumptions used to ensure they are appropriate for determining the CCP's required level of default protection in light of current and evolving market conditions. A CCP should perform this analysis of stress testing more frequently when the products cleared or markets served display high volatility, become less liquid, or when the size or concentration of positions held by a CCP's participants increases significantly. A full validation of a CCP's risk-management model should be performed at least annually.

Stress Testing

JSCC conducts stress testing at least daily to determine whether pre-funded loss compensation financial resources, including margin, clearing fund, and JSCC's contribution, are sufficient to cover potential losses, as well as whether the total loss compensation resources comprised of the aforementioned pre-funded resources plus additional contributions from Clearing Participants are sufficient to cover potential losses, for each of its Clearing Businesses.

JSCC's stress testing framework considers the largest historical movements in a range of stress events and extreme but plausible hypothetical scenarios. See Key Consideration 6 of this Principle for further details on the stress testing scenarios used by each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses.

The results of daily stress testing are reported to the CRO, CEO and other full-time directors, and the related division head. Additionally, stress testing results are reported as a part of the status report of compliance with the Risk Management Policy as it pertains to credit risk to the Risk Oversight Committee on a monthly basis and the Board of Directors on a quarterly and annual basis. The results are also reported monthly to Clearing Participants in the "Risk Profile Report" and annually to the advisory committees, whose members include Clearing Participants of each Clearing Business. If a problem with the sufficiency of the loss compensation resources is identified during stress testing, JSCC will take appropriate action including review and/or revision of the necessary financial resources.

Review and Validation

JSCC validates the suitability of the scenarios, models, and parameters used in stress testing of loss compensation resources on at least a monthly basis. JSCC's stress scenarios reflect recent market prices, volatility fluctuations, and positions. For market liquidity fluctuations, rules for securing resources are prepared according to necessity for each product and parameters are revised based on prevailing market conditions.

The Risk Management Division validates the overall risk management model at least annually, and makes recommendations regarding revisions to the relevant Clearing Business division, as necessary. The reporting line of the Risk Management Division is independent from the Clearing Business divisions, and reports directly to the CRO. Thus ensuring the validation process conducted by the Risk Management Division is independent from the Clearing Business divisions. The validation process verifies the effectiveness of the margin/Clearing Fund model and specifications according to the prevailing market environment, and makes recommendations regarding revisions, as necessary. The results of the validations are reported to the Board of Directors and the advisory committees of each Clearing Business.

Key Consideration 6:

In conducting stress testing, a CCP should consider the effect of a wide range of relevant stress scenarios in terms of both defaulters' positions and possible price changes in liquidation periods. Scenarios should include relevant peak historic price volatilities, shifts in other market factors such as price determinants and yield curves, multiple defaults over various time horizons, simultaneous pressures in funding and asset markets, and a spectrum of forward-looking stress scenarios in a variety of extreme but plausible market conditions.

When conducting stress testing, JSCC considers a range of conservative scenarios that are extreme, but plausible. These scenarios are suitably set in accordance with the nature of each product, taking into account relevant historical market data.

For stress scenarios used in stress testing, to confirm sufficiency of loss compensation financial resources, JSCC uses both historical scenarios and hypothetical scenarios.

JSCC uses a range of historical scenarios including stress events that caused the largest historical fluctuations in each market related to the products eligible for clearing, over the previous 30-year period, such as Black Monday (1987), the Asian Financial Crisis (1997-1998), the bankruptcy of LTCM (1998), the September 11 attacks in the U.S. (2001), the Lehman Shock (2008), the Great East Japan Earthquake (2011), and the Swiss Franc Shock (2015).

In addition, JSCC employs hypothetical (forward-looking) scenarios that are generated by models, based on the "fat-tail" feature of price movement distributions, the autocorrelation of volatility fluctuations, the simultaneous distribution of price fluctuations of many products, and principal component analysis related to interest rate term structure changes, according to the features of each product eligible for clearing.

Holding periods are defined for each product in the Business Rules and subordinate rules, as the period required for position liquidation under stressed market conditions.

The assumptions for each Clearing Business includes the default of multiple Clearing Participants, including at least the 1 largest Clearing Participant (including any other Clearing Participant that is a Related Company of the defaulter). The CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses have a tear-up framework of all Clearing Participant positions, should losses exceed the loss compensation resources. In consideration of the large potential impact of implementing the tear-up framework, the assumption for these Clearing Businesses incorporates a greater number of defaults than that used in the Clearing Fund calculation, for the evaluation of the sufficiency of the total loss compensation financial resources (including additional contribution from Clearing Participants).

Key Consideration 7:

An FMI should establish explicit rules and procedures that address fully any credit losses it may face as a result of any individual or combined default among its participants with respect to any of their obligations to the FMI. These rules and procedures should address how potentially uncovered credit losses would be allocated, including the repayment of any funds an FMI may borrow from liquidity providers. These rules and procedures should also indicate the FMI's process to replenish any financial resources that the FMI may employ during a stress event, so that the FMI can continue to operate in a safe and sound manner.

Allocation of Credit Losses

JSCC's Business Rules clearly define the composition, calculation method, order of utilization of loss compensation resources, and the process for assessment for additional funds from Clearing Participants.

Losses which cannot be covered by a defaulting Clearing Participant's own funds would be covered by other financial resources, including the Clearing Fund of other Clearing Participants and JSCC's own resources. See Principle 13 (Participant-Default Rules and Procedures) for further details.

Replenishment of Financial Resources

In cases where the Clearing Fund of non-defaulting Clearing Participants is used for Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), JSCC requires that the non-defaulting Clearing Participants replenish the original amount on the following business day.

In the case of CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB, JSCC requires that the non-defaulting Clearing Participants replenish the recalculated Clearing Fund amount on the business day following the 30th day after the default. In cases where another default occurs during this period, this would be the 30th day after the second default, and so forth for successive defaults. (hereinafter referred to as "Capped Period").

To cover credit risk during the Capped Period, JSCC calculates the required Clearing Fund for each non-defaulting Clearing Participant on a daily basis. If the required Clearing Fund exceeds the required Clearing Fund for the day immediately preceding the first default, JSCC would call for deposit of the amount equal to such excess from the non-defaulting Clearing Participant ("Default Contingent Margin"). The Default Contingent Margin is a defaulter-pay type collateral to be used as financial resources to cover losses arising from the potential default of the Clearing Participant that deposited the Default Contingent Margin.

Principle 5: Collateral

An FMI that requires collateral to manage its or its participant's credit exposure should accept collateral with low credit, liquidity, and market risks. An FMI should also set and enforce appropriately conservative haircuts and concentration limits.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should generally limit the assets it (routinely) accepts as collateral to those with low credit, liquidity, and market risks.

Eligible Collateral

JSCC has a basic policy of only accepting collateral with low risk in relation to credit, liquidity, and market. The scope of eligible collateral for each Clearing Business is defined based on this basic policy.

JSCC accepts the following collateral from its Clearing Participants for Initial Margin and Clearing Fund deposits.

Principle 5 (Collateral) Key Consideration 1 IV-3 Eligible Collateral

(*4) Limited to those listed on a financial instruments exchange in Japan.

(*5) Limited to Initial Margin for customers (excluding Affiliates) of a Clearing Participant.

JSCC confirms that collateral is eligible at the time it is deposited by Clearing Participants. As such, it is not possible for Clearing Participants to post ineligible collateral.

Wrong-Way Risk

JSCC guards against specific wrong-way risk by not accepting securities issued by a Clearing Participant or its group affiliates as collateral.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should establish prudent valuation practices and develop haircuts that are regularly tested and take into account stressed market conditions.

Collateral Valuation

JSCC values collateral deposited by Clearing Participants, on a daily basis, using market prices and haircut ratios specified in the rules. JSCC maintains the right to change a valuation price at its discretion in cases such as considerable market fluctuations, as set forth in its rules.⁵⁷

Collateral Haircuts

For bonds, conservative haircuts are adopted by ensuring that haircuts are sufficient to cover 99% of price movements under stressed market conditions, derived from the largest historical 4-day price movement over the past 10 years. In addition, for foreign government bonds, JSCC takes into account foreign exchange risk.

IRS Clearing Business Rules Article 7
OTC JGB Clearing Business Rules Article 70-8, Paragraph 2

For equities, collateral is valued at 70% in accordance with the application of the haircut. The suitability of this haircut is verified to ensure it covers 99% of the largest historical 4-day price movements over the past 10 years.

For cash (USD), JSCC applies a collateral haircut that is sufficient to cover 99% of the 4-day movements in the foreign exchange rate over the past 10 years.

JSCC conducts daily backtesting to validate the appropriateness of the collateral haircuts. JSCC updates collateral haircuts quarterly to reflect the latest market environment. JSCC is able to change collateral haircuts on an ad-hoc basis.

Key Consideration 3:

In order to reduce the need for procyclical adjustments, an FMI should establish stable and conservative haircuts that are calibrated to include periods of stressed market conditions, to the extent practicable and prudent.

JSCC has established conservative collateral haircuts that are calibrated to cover extreme price movements observed during periods of stressed market conditions and regularly validated. Therefore, JSCC considers the necessity for adjusting on procyclicality is kept to a minimum. See Key Consideration 2 of this Principle for details on the establishment and calibration of haircuts.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should avoid concentrated holdings of certain assets where this would significantly impair the ability to liquidate such assets quickly without significant adverse price effects.

Concentration Limits

JSCC imposes limits to prevent undue concentration from certain collateral assets in order to protect against adverse price movements affecting its collateral holdings. For example, equity collateral (for Cash Products and Listed Derivatives Clearing) is capped at 5%⁵⁸ of the issued and outstanding shares of the issuer, for each Clearing Participant. For bond collateral (for Cash Products and Listed Derivatives Clearing), the value of certain predetermined securities⁵⁹ shall not exceed 20% of the total amount of clearing fund and Initial Margin for Cash Products, and the Initial Margin requirement for Listed Derivatives, on the Proprietary and Affiliate accounts.

Key Consideration 5:

An FMI that accepts cross-border collateral should mitigate the risks associated with its use and ensure that the collateral can be used in a timely manner.

The only cross-border collateral accepted for JSCC's Clearing Businesses are US dollar cash, US Treasuries, and the government bonds of UK, Germany and France, which have high market demand, high liquidity, and can be easily converted into Japanese yen.

For the Listed Derivatives Clearing Business, JSCC holds US Treasuries and the government bonds of UK, Germany and France at an overseas CSD (Euroclear Bank SA / NV) in JSCC's name. Smoother collateral transfer between JSCC and Clearing Participants would become possible by executing tri-party agreement among JSCC, the relevant Clearing Participant and CSD, if the Clearing Participant so desires. For both accounts, JSCC is recognized as the holder of such collateral. As such, JSCC is able to issue instructions regarding the liquidation of deposited foreign government bonds as necessary. US dollar cash is deposited with the Fund Settlement Bank satisfying the "Foreign Fund Settlement Banks Designation Guidelines" prescribed by JSCC at the proprietary account in the name of JSCC, and an instruction can be given, and liquidation can be processed, as necessary.

Additionally, US Treasuries deposited for the IRS and CDS Clearing Businesses are put into trust and held at a Japanese trust bank, with JSCC holding the authority under the Business Rules to issue instructions for the liquidation of them, if required.

Key Consideration 6:

An FMI should use a collateral management system that is well-designed and operationally flexible.

Collateral Management System Design

JSCC's collateral management system provides functionality for collateral eligibility checking, deposit and withdrawal processing, balance management, haircut management, and ⁵⁸ Equity collateral posted for the purposes listed below is capped at 2% of the issued and outstanding shares:

- clearing fund;
- Initial Margin for Cash Products;
- Initial Margin for Listed Derivatives on proprietary and Affiliate's book.

mark-to-market valuation.

By accessing the collateral management system, Clearing Participants are able to process the deposit and withdrawal of collateral and re-allocation of collateral deposited with JSCC.

Clearing Participants are able to access a collateral management system which provides real-time collateral information, such as types of eligible collateral assets, deposit balance and market price.

The collateral management systems used for each Clearing Business allow the deposit and withdrawal of collateral at any time during the operational hours specified in JSCC's Business Rules and operational procedures. It can restrict the deposit of ineligible collateral.

The collateral management system evaluates collateral daily and sets the scope for eligible assets by acquiring market data each day from external source (listed exchanges for equities, the Japan Securities Dealers Association ("JSDA") for JGB OTC trades, and key information vendors⁶⁰) and applying haircuts. Revisions to haircuts can be implemented in a timely manner via overnight batch processing.

In relation to re-using collateral, JGB collateral for initial margin deposited by Clearing Participants in relation to the OTC JGB Clearing Business may be re-hypothecated with the BOJ for seamless operation of JGB DVP settlement.

As most of the primary operations in the collateral management system, including deposit, withdrawal, and valuation are conducted via STP, operations in times of market stress (a high volume of collateral-related transactions), no additional resources are required to ensure seamless operations.

⁶⁰ The JSDA publishes daily market prices for OTC JGB trades based on quotes submitted by financial institutions.

Principle 6: Margin

A CCP should cover its credit exposures to its participants for all products through an effective margin system that is risk-based and regularly reviewed.

Key Consideration 1:

A CCP should have a margin system that establishes margin levels commensurate with the risks and particular attributes of each product, portfolio, and market it serves.

Margin Framework

JSCC clears the following products and uses different margin frameworks for each, depending on the nature of each product:

- Listed Cash Products
- Listed Derivatives (Futures and Options)
- CDS
- IRS
- OTC JGB

JSCC requires variation margin and initial margin to be deposited by all Clearing Participants, according to the nature of the products in each Clearing Business. For derivatives transactions, JSCC also requires the deposit of variation margin and initial margin from customers. Variation margin, which covers current exposure, and initial margin, which covers potential future exposure, are to provide coverage for the depositor's own potential losses, and the required amount of each is determined according to positions and market fluctuations.

Additionally, market liquidity is a factor when determining the required amount of margin for some products. The margin calculation methods for each Clearing Business are defined in JSCC's Business Rules and subordinate rules. (See Key Consideration 3 of this Principle for an overview.)

Provision of Information to Clearing Participants

For Cash Products, JSCC prescribes in its rules, and publishes, the margin requirement calculation methodology, distributes margin requirement information, and provides a margin simulation system.

For Listed Derivatives, JSCC prescribes in its rules the margin calculation method that uses the SPAN® methodology, and Clearing Participants can calculate their required margin using RPF provided by JSCC. In addition, by using the RPF provided by JSCC, Clearing Participants can perform margin simulations. (The RPF includes issues and parameters that will be applicable from the next business day, for the purpose of margin simulation.)

For IRS and CDS, JSCC prescribes in its rules, and publishes, the margin requirement calculation methodology, distributes margin requirement information, and provides margin simulation functionality. Clearing Participants may perform "what-if" margin simulations for their entire cleared portfolio, plus additional theoretical trades.

For OTC JGB, JSCC prescribes in its rules, and publishes, the margin requirement calculation methodology and distributes the margin requirement information.

Deposit and Withdrawal of Margin

JSCC calculates the required amount of variation margin and initial margin at least once daily at the close of business each day using the most recent market prices for each product, with deposits and payments occurring on either the date of calculation or the following business day.

For Listed Derivatives and IRS, Clearing Participants are required to deposit margin twice a day. Moreover, for each Clearing Business, Clearing Participants are required to deposit margin on an ad hoc basis in the event of a large price fluctuation. This margin framework ensures margin requirements are calculated based on recent market prices.

Additionally, when accepting new IRS transactions from Clearing Participants, JSCC requires the pre-funding of variation margin and initial margin required to cover the entire portfolio, including both the new transaction (if a new transaction is a part of a Package Trade⁶¹, then all new transactions under the relevant Package Trade) and cleared transactions, before clearing the new transaction. New trades which fail to fulfill this requirement are rejected.

In the case of transactions from customers outside of Japan, considering the difference of time zones, JSCC permits customers to deposit initial margin with a Clearing Participant by the business day following that on which the Clearing Participant deposited initial margin for such customer transactions with JSCC.⁶²

Key Consideration 2:

A CCP should have a reliable source of timely price data for its margin system. A CCP should also have procedures and sound valuation models for addressing circumstances in which pricing data are not readily available or reliable.

JSCC uses reliable price data in its margin calculations. JSCC's primary sources of price information are as follows, all of which use prices that reflect market conditions in a timely manner.

- Listed products: JSCC calculates margin using trade prices on the relevant exchanges, or prevailing market prices, such as final quotes or theoretical prices.
- CDS: Price quotes are provided by Clearing Participants. JSCC establishes prices based on the average of the quotes, having excluded the outliers. JSCC subjects Clearing Participants who submit outliers to the payment of additional Clearing Fees or mandatory trade execution based on the submitted quote in order to maintain the quality of submitted prices.
- IRS: Price quotes are provided by Clearing Participants. For highly liquid interest rate product, additional quotes are provided by third party inter-dealer brokers. JSCC establishes prices based on the average of the quotes, excluding the outliers. JSCC subjects Clearing Participants who submit outliers to the payment of additional Clearing Fees, thus maintaining the quality of prices submitted.
- OTC JGB: Prices are acquired by JSCC from the JSDA, which publicizes prevailing market prices of OTC JGBs based on quotes submitted by market participants, which are financial institutions participating in OTC JGB transactions.

For products which only rely on quotes, JSCC has procedures in place to ensure the accuracy of the price data, including averaging quotes with outliers excluded and applying penalties, such as additional Clearing Fees, to Clearing Participants that submit outliers.

⁶¹ JSCC's "Package Trade" functionality allows Clearing Participants to apply for clearing multiple Eligible IRS Transactions in bulk (Article 2.(4)-2 of Handling Procedures of Interest Rate Swap Business Rules).

⁶² IRS Clearing Business Rules Chapter 6
CDS Clearing Business Rules Chapter 6

Additionally, when handling new products that rely on quotes, prior to launch, JSCC confirms that Clearing Participants are able to submit reliable quotes.

Should it not be possible to acquire the latest market prices, the latest available price will be used for margin calculations. Overall validation of the margin model is conducted at least once a year by the Risk Management Division, independent from each Clearing Business. See Principle 6, Key Consideration 7 for details of model validation.

Key Consideration 3:

A CCP should adopt initial margin models and parameters that are risk-based and generate margin requirements sufficient to cover its potential future exposure to participants in the interval between the last margin collection and the close out of positions following a participant default. Initial margin should meet an established single-tailed confidence level of at least 99 percent with respect to the estimated distribution of future exposure. For a CCP that calculates margin at the portfolio level, this requirement applies to each portfolio's distribution of future exposure. For a CCP that calculates margin at more-granular levels, such as at the subportfolio level or by product, the requirement must be met for the corresponding distributions of future exposure. The model should (a) use a conservative estimate of the time horizons for the effective hedging or close out of the particular types of products cleared by the CCP (including in stressed market conditions), (b) have an appropriate method for measuring credit exposure that accounts for relevant product risk factors and portfolio effects across products, and (c) to the extent practicable and prudent, limit the need for destabilising, procyclical changes.

Margin Model

JSCC sets initial margin to cover potential future exposure under regular market conditions, primarily using the positions and market fluctuations for each product to determine required amounts. As such, JSCC's model seeks to cover regular price movements at a confidence level of 99%, or more for some products. The relevant holding period for each product, as prescribed in the Business Rules and their subordinate rules, is the period required to complete the liquidation of a defaulter's positions.

Additionally, JSCC may impose a Liquidity Charge, which takes account of market liquidity and position concentration according to the nature of each product.

JSCC also has prepared a framework to prevent procyclical changes in required initial margin amounts, by including stress scenarios in some of the margin calculations and setting a conservative floor for the required margin amount. The approach used may vary according to the nature of each product. However, when amending a margin model, JSCC ensures that a framework that mitigates procyclicality is applied.

Margin Calculation Method

(1) Listed Products: Cash Products

JSCC calculates the required initial margin amount for Cash Products by using the methodology outlined in 1) below, and when the aggregate risk amount of a Clearing Participant is considered excessive, JSCC will increase the required initial margin amount using the methodology outlined in 2) below.

1) Required Initial Margin

JSCC calculates the daily required initial margin amount for Cash Products based on the following:

- Mark-to-market value of each open position evaluated using the latest price; Separate payment/deposit of variation margin is not conducted for Cash Products, with an equivalent amount included in the initial margin calculations.
- Expected losses from open positions obtained by using a historical simulation (VaR) methodology based on the price fluctuation of unsettled open positions; Under the historical simulation (VaR) methodology JSCC employs for calibrating expected losses from open positions, the daily price movement is obtained, for each issue, by using scenarios generated during a predetermined period in the past, and the expected loss is set as the value to cover a certain confidence level. The parameters used for the calculation are a 250-days reference period, 99% confidence level, and a 1-day holding period.

2) Initial Margin Requirement Add-ons

JSCC has a rule in place to increase the required initial margin amount for Clearing Participants in accordance with risks associated with each Clearing Participant's open positions. If the expected loss of a Clearing Participant under stressed market conditions cannot be covered by the Clearing Participant's pre-funded financial resources, for Cash Product transactions, then JSCC will increase the required initial margin amount for the Clearing Participant in advance.

(2) Listed Products: Listed Derivatives

1) Initial Margin Requirement

JSCC determines the required amount of initial margin for Listed Derivatives⁶³ by applying the net option value to the amount calculated using Chicago Mercantile Exchange's ("CME") SPAN® methodology.

SPAN® methodology calculates the risk arising from a portfolio of futures and options on the Clearing Participant's house account and each client's account according to a sensitivity analysis, with consideration given to the nonlinear risk of option contracts. SPAN® margin calculation requires the definition of a Price Scan Range and a Volatility Scan Range, as well as a range of other parameters, including Intra-Commodity and Inter-Commodity correlations.

In order to reflect recent price fluctuations in a timely manner, JSCC employs a parameter determination method factoring in volatility index calculated from the option premium (1-day holding period, 99% confidence level), for the Price Scan Range. For products which do not involve options, a parameter determination method referencing historical price fluctuations is used (1-day holding period, reference period of 54 weeks, 99% confidence level).

For the Volatility Scan Range, which represents volatility fluctuations, JSCC uses a parameter determination method referencing past volatility fluctuations (1-day holding period, reference period of 54 weeks, 99% confidence level).

2) Initial Margin Increase

For Listed Derivatives, when the potential risk amount in the event of default of a Clearing Participant (including any other Clearing Participant that is a Related Company of the defaulting Clearing Participant), under stressed market conditions, exceeds the Clearing Participant's pre-funded financial resources plus its client margin⁶⁴), JSCC can increase the initial margin requirement for the relevant Clearing Participant to ensure such excess risk amount in collateralized.

⁶³ In principle, JSCC uses the SPAN® methodology for Initial Margin, but it employs a unique calculation method for add-on charges in the Initial Margin Requirement Add-on Charge Scheme.

Upon default of a Clearing Participant holding extremely large positions relative to other Clearing Participants, more time would be required for liquidation. In this scenario, the normal initial margin requirement may not be sufficient to cover any resulting losses. Therefore, JSCC charges an initial margin requirement add-on to any Clearing Participant, or client, holding large positions (Initial Margin Requirement Add-on Charge Scheme). Specifically, JSCC analyzes the house and client positions held by each Clearing Participant to decide if the add-on needs to be charged, according to liquidity and concentration criteria. When it is judged that the add-on is required, then the larger of the excess loss amounts calculated according to these criteria, is applied as the add-on charge.

Additionally, for JGB Futures contracts, in order to cover credit risk from the final positions of a Clearing Participant in the settlement by physical delivery and payment, JSCC separately requires a deposit of initial margin from Clearing Participants during the period from the last trading day of each contract month, to the day before the date of the settlement by physical delivery and payment. JSCC calculates this required initial margin amount as the sum total of the expected loss for each issue, based on the price movement of each JGB issue subject to the physical delivery and payment (120-day reference period, 99% confidence level).

(3) CDS

JSCC calculates initial margin for CDS transactions by applying a variety of additional charges in reflection of the nature of CDS transactions to the Initial Margin Base Amount obtained via historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology. These include a charge to cover the risk of the reference entity experiencing a credit event.

1) Initial Margin Base Amount

The Initial Margin Base Amount is calculated according to a historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology, in order to cover the risk from price fluctuations. Specifically, it is set to cover a certain level of NPV fluctuation determined using daily prices during a certain historical period for the CDS positions on the date of calculation. Calculation parameters include a reference period of 750 days, a confidence level of the average of the worst 1%, and a holding period of 5 days. In addition to data during the reference period, a stress scenario is included with double the regular holding period (10 days) for the largest historical fluctuation. These considerations take into account the tendency for CDS to experience sudden price fluctuations.

2) Short Charge and Bid/Ask Charge

The Short Charge is calculated to cover “jump-to-default” risk. Specifically, JSCC calculates net positions for each reference entity and obtains the Short Charge by multiplying the notional amount of the largest net short position by 0.18.

The Bid/Ask Charge is calculated to cover liquidity risk arising when liquidating positions following a Clearing Participant default. Specifically, JSCC calculates net positions for each issue and obtains the Bid/Ask Charge by multiplying the sensitivity of the net position by the bid/ask spread which JSCC sets based on the prevailing market condition.

3) Credit Event Margin and Single Name Margin

Credit Event Margin is added to initial margin to cover the risk arising from a reference entity which has experienced a credit event. Specifically, JSCC calculates the net short positions of trades referencing such reference entity, and obtains Credit Event Margin by multiplying the net positions by a ratio, applicable to the reference entity, which is prescribed by JSCC in consideration of market conditions.

Single Name Margin is added to initial margin to cover the risk of a reference entity that is a component of an Index CDS experiencing a restructuring credit event, if the settlement of the Single Name CDS has not yet occurred. Specifically, JSCC calculates net positions of transactions referencing such reference entity. For net short positions, JSCC obtains the Single Name Margin by multiplying the net position by a ratio, applicable to the reference entity, which is prescribed by JSCC dependent on market conditions. For net long positions, JSCC obtains the Single Name Margin by taking the present value of future cash flows for trades referencing the reference entity.

JSCC also applies a concentration charge to cover the risk of certain Clearing Participants with concentrated CDS positions. Specifically, JSCC increases the required initial margin of Clearing Participants which hold positions in excess of a level set based on market size. This measure acts to discourage Clearing Participants from taking excessive positions relative to the market size.

(4) IRS

JSCC calculates the required amount of initial margin for IRS transactions using historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology, and adding the amount determined in consideration of the liquidity risk of IRS transactions.

1) Initial Margin

The required amount of initial margin is calculated using historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology to cover risks from interest rate fluctuations. Specifically, it is set to cover a certain amount of an NPV fluctuation calculated using a daily yield curve fluctuation scenario for a given historical period.

Parameters used in the calculation include a reference period of 1,250 days, a confidence level of the average of the worst 1%, and a holding period of 5 days (7 days for customer transactions). In addition to the data from the reference period, data from the significant historical interest rate fluctuations are also used as stress scenarios. This is to prevent sudden changes in required initial margin when stress events are applied to or removed from the interest rate fluctuations during the reference period.

Additionally, JSCC has methodologies in place (Volatility Scaling methodology based in Exponentially Weighted Moving Average method) to revise the historical interest rate fluctuation scenarios, based on the latest interest rate environment in order to reflect current interest rate environment promptly.

JSCC provides a cross margining service, enabling the risk offset between JPY-denominated IRS and JGB Futures, to Clearing Participants, Affiliates and non-Affiliated customers of the IRS Clearing Business, for whom the Notification of Using Cross Margining has been submitted to JSCC (hereinafter referred to as "Cross Margining User"). JSCC calculates the required initial margin for them by using the same historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology as the IRS Clearing Business.

2) Liquidity Charge

Liquidity Charge is calculated to cover market liquidity risk arising from the liquidation of a defaulting Clearing Participant's positions. When the PV01 of positions for major tenor buckets of IRS transactions exceeds a certain level, a Liquidity Charge is imposed. This charge is calculated by multiplying the excess by an ask/bid spread derived from a market survey of Clearing Participants.

3) Holiday Margin

The settlement of variation margin and other cash settlements for foreign currency denominated IRS is difficult on a non-business day in the home jurisdiction of the relevant currency. However, the latest market movements in the relevant currency need to be properly captured in JSCC's risk management framework. Therefore, JSCC adjusts the Clearing Participant's required initial margin by an amount equivalent to the variation margin and other cash settlements, in the relevant currency.

When a market in the home jurisdiction of the relevant currency is open on a JSCC non-business day, JSCC increases the required initial margin for the relevant Clearing Participant on the day immediately preceding JSCC's non-business day, in order to cover expected interest rate and foreign exchange market risk.

(5) OTC JGB

JSCC requires initial margin for OTC JGBs to cover the risk of price fluctuations calculated using the delta method, with a variety of additional charges to take account of the specific nature of OTC JGBs.

1) Initial Margin

For OTC JGBs, initial margin is referred to as POMA (Post Offset Margin Amount). POMA is calculated using a delta method and based on historical price fluctuations during a given period, taking into account the correlations between issues. Parameters used in calculations include a reference period of 250 days, a confidence level of 99%, and a holding period of 3 days. Additionally, in order to reflect changes in positions due to intraday DVP settlement, Adjusted POMA is calculated according to the same method at the completion of intraday settlement.

In order to reflect large historical fluctuations in the market and positions, Average POMA is calculated by averaging a certain ratio of the top POMA for a given historical period. Though correlations between issues are used in POMA calculations, a minimum amount is set as a certain ratio of the risk before offsetting to prevent excessive offsetting. The greatest of POMA, Adjusted POMA, Average POMA, and the minimum amount is used to determine the initial margin required to cover actual market price fluctuations.

2) Other Charges

Charges added to initial margin include (a) initial margin to cover FOS (Fund Only Settlement) failure risk, (b) initial margin to cover repo rate fluctuation risk, and (c) market impact charge.

Initial margin to cover FOS failure risk is calculated to cover the loss arising from failure of Fund Only Settlement, including the payment/receipt of variation margin or JGB coupon, due to the default of a Clearing Participant. It is calculated by averaging a certain ratio of the top settlement amounts during a certain historical period.

Initial margin to cover repo rate fluctuation risk is calculated to cover the repo cost arising from executing repo transactions in the liquidation of the positions of a Clearing Participant which has defaulted. It is calculated by multiplying the repo trade amount needed to reconstruct the OTC JGB positions by the repo rate spread expected by JSCC. As with the initial margin calculation, the greatest of the risk amount, the average of a certain ratio of the top risk amounts for a given historical period, and the minimum amount are used.

The market impact charge is calculated to cover the market liquidity risk arising from the liquidation of a defaulted Clearing Participant's positions. Specifically, a bid/ask spread is determined based on a market survey of Clearing Participants for each JGB type, maturity, and terms to maturity. The relevant bid/ask spread is then multiplied by the position's interest rate sensitivity.

Key Consideration 4:

A CCP should mark participant positions to market and collect margin at least daily to limit the build-up of current exposures. A CCP should have the authority and operational capacity to make intraday margin calls and payments, both scheduled and unscheduled, to participants.

JSCC has adopted variation margin frameworks which aim to reduce current exposure for each of its Clearing Businesses. Variation margin is paid/received once per day. When calculating variation margin, positions are marked-to-market using the most recent market prices, and the difference between the prior valuation and the latest mark-to-market is paid/received.

For Listed Derivatives, JSCC recalculates margin requirements during the morning by using the most recent market prices, and may issue intraday margin calls if required, to cover any intraday shortfall on the same day. Moreover, a framework is in place to handle large price fluctuations, where additional intraday (afternoon) calculations are made using the most recent market prices, and JSCC may issue intraday margin calls, if required, to cover any intraday shortfall on the same day.

For IRS, JSCC recalculates the margin requirements at noon based on the most recent positions of each Clearing Participant, and may issue intraday margin calls, if required, to cover any intraday shortfall on the same day. Moreover, a framework is also in place to handle large price fluctuations, under which additional margin calculations are made, and JSCC may issue additional intraday margin calls, if required.

For Cash Products, OTC JGB and CDS, a framework is in place to handle large price fluctuations, where additional intraday margin calculations are made using the most recent market prices, and JSCC may issue intraday margin calls, if required, to cover any intraday shortfall on the same day. For intraday margin calculations, the most recent market prices during the day are used for Cash Products and CDS, but for OTC JGB, as intraday market prices are difficult to acquire, JSCC applies a predetermined ratio to the required margin calculation based on positions at the previous day's close of business.

Key Consideration 5:

In calculating margin requirements, a CCP may allow offsets or reductions in required margin across products that it clears or between products that it and another CCP clear, if the risk of one product is significantly and reliably correlated with the risk of the other product. Where two or more CCPs are authorised to offer cross-margining, they must have appropriate safeguards and harmonized overall risk-management systems.

Portfolio margining

JSCC calculates the required amount of initial margin for each type of transaction for each proprietary and customer account of Clearing Participants based on the portfolio of positions belonging to each account.

For Cash Products, JSCC calculates initial margin by applying a historical simulation (VaR) methodology, to take account of correlations between the price movements of different issues.

When calculating initial margin for Listed Derivatives (futures/options), JSCC uses the SPAN® methodology. Within that, JSCC allows margin offsetting for positions in the same product but different contract months based on price fluctuation correlations, as well as margin offsetting between products with high correlation.

For CDS transactions, JSCC calculates initial margin by applying a historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology, to take account of price fluctuation correlation for positions in different reference entities and different terms to maturity.

For IRS transactions, JSCC calculates initial margin by applying a historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology, to take account of interest rate fluctuation correlation for positions in different rate types and tenors. JSCC has introduced a cross margining mechanism for initial margin, which enables risk offset between JPY-denominated IRS and JGB Futures. For a Cross Margining User, the required initial margin is calculated, for both JPY-denominated IRS and JGB Futures, by using the same historical simulation (expected shortfall) methodology as the IRS Clearing Business.

For OTC JGBs, JSCC calculates margin using offset ratios based on price fluctuation correlation for positions in issues with different terms to maturity.

Cross-margining

JSCC does not offer cross-margining arrangements with any other CCPs.

Among eligible products for JSCC's clearing, JSCC conducts cross margining across multiple types of products. As both products exhibit similar risk characteristics (i.e., interest rate risk), JSCC provides an optional cross margining service to Clearing Participants and their customers that enables the offsetting of initial margin between JPY-denominated IRS and JGB Futures.

Robustness of Margin Model

JSCC conducts daily backtesting to verify the robustness of its margin model.

Parameters used to calculate required margin are regularly revised, with additional revisions made for times of market stress.

Additionally, correlation parameters used in margin calculations for Listed Derivatives and OTC JGBs are reviewed on a weekly basis. JSCC also updates historical data on price fluctuations for margin calculation of Cash Product transactions, CDS and IRS transactions using a historical simulation method, on a daily basis. As such, correlated fluctuations are reflected in margin calculations in a timely manner.

Key Consideration 6:

A CCP should analyse and monitor its model performance and overall margin coverage by conducting rigorous daily backtesting – and at least monthly, and more-frequent where appropriate, sensitivity analysis. A CCP should regularly conduct an assessment of the theoretical and empirical properties of its margin model for all products it clears. In conducting sensitivity analysis of the model's coverage, a CCP should take into account a wide range of parameters and assumptions that reflect possible market conditions, including the most-volatile periods that have been experienced by the markets it serves and extreme changes in the correlations between prices.

Backtesting

JSCC performs daily backtesting, comparing the margin requirement for each account and the actual losses arising from positions in the account, on a daily basis, and using statistical analysis to confirm that the target confidence level prescribed in the Risk Management Policy is achieved.

If the target confidence level has not been achieved, JSCC will analyze the cause, and examine appropriate measures, such as revisions to the margin model or parameters, as needed.

JSCC reports backtesting results to the Risk Oversight Committee on a monthly basis, to the Board of Directors on a quarterly basis, and to Clearing Participants via the advisory committees of each Clearing Business on an annual basis.

Key Consideration 7: A CCP should regularly review and validate its margin system.

The Risk Management Division, which is independent from Clearing Business divisions, reviews and validates its overall margining models at least annually. Within these reviews, JSCC evaluates the policies and calculation methods of the risk management framework, including margining, and validates their sufficiency and propriety based on backtesting and stress testing results. JSCC adds or revises margin models, as necessary, when implementing new products. The addition or revision of any margin models is subject to validation by the Risk Management Division.

The results of the overall review and validation of the margin model are presented annually to the Board of Directors and to Clearing Participants via the advisory committees of each Clearing Business.

Principle 7: Liquidity Risk

An FMI should effectively measure, monitor, and manage its liquidity risk. An FMI should maintain sufficient liquid resources in all relevant currencies to effect same-day and, where appropriate, intraday and multiday settlement of payment obligations with a high degree of confidence under a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the participant and its affiliates that would generate the largest aggregate liquidity obligation for the FMI in extreme but plausible market conditions.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should have a robust framework to manage its liquidity risks from its participants, settlement banks, nostro agents, custodian banks, liquidity providers, and other entities.

The primary potential source of liquidity risk is the default of a Clearing Participant. When a Clearing Participant defaults, JSCC will first use cash deposited as collateral by the defaulting Clearing Participant and cash withheld from payments to the defaulting Clearing Participant to perform fund settlement. In preparation for cases where these funds are insufficient, in addition to its proprietary assets, JSCC has secured yen-denominated and foreign currency denominated Liquidity Supply Facilities from multiple commercial banks that have been designated as Fund Settlement Banks.

Each of JSCC's Fund Settlement Banks is also a Clearing Participant, and thus plays multiple roles in relation to JSCC. However, in order to ensure the supply of liquidity even in the case of a Fund Settlement Bank's default, JSCC has secured Liquidity Supply Facilities from multiple Fund Settlement Banks.

Moreover, in addition to Liquidity Supply Facilities from the Fund Settlement Banks, JSCC has secured its own funds and Liquidity Supply Facilities from its parent company, JPX, to secure liquidity supply from a diverse range of entities.

In addition to this, because a large amount of liquidity is expected to be required if an OTC JGB Clearing Participant defaults, due to the large settlement amount associated with the settlement of notional amount, JSCC has established a framework to procure liquidity via JGB repo transactions with Clearing Participants and other financial institutions.

Furthermore, for Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), JSCC has a framework in place that allows for the temporary use of the Japanese yen cash⁶⁵ portion of the clearing fund deposited by non-defaulting Clearing Participants, following settlement failure by a Clearing Participant.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should have effective operational and analytical tools to identify, measure, and monitor its settlement and funding flows on an ongoing and timely basis, including its use of intraday liquidity.

In the fund settlement for each of its Clearing Businesses, JSCC has established a framework whereby payments from JSCC are made to receiving Clearing Participants after funds are received by JSCC from paying Clearing Participants. As such, there is no need to procure intraday liquidity for fund settlement, except in the event of a paying Clearing Participant default. Therefore, JSCC continuously monitors the status of payments from paying Clearing Participants.

Additionally, JSCC regularly receives information on Clearing Participant cash flow. If, for example, the expected amount of funds needed for daily fund settlement by a Clearing Participant exceeds either that Clearing Participant's fund settlement capability or the largest historical levels of fund settlement, JSCC will contact that Clearing Participant to discuss the situation.

Key Consideration 3:

A payment system or SSS, including one employing a DNS mechanism, should maintain sufficient liquid resources in all relevant currencies to effect same-day settlement, and where appropriate intraday or multiday settlement, of payment obligations with a high degree of confidence under a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the participant and its affiliates that would generate the largest aggregate payment obligation in extreme but plausible market conditions.

This consideration is not applicable to JSCC, as JSCC does not provide any payment system or SSS functionality.

Key Consideration 4:

A CCP should maintain sufficient liquid resources in all relevant currencies to settle securities-related payments, make required variation margin payments, and meet other payment obligations on time with a high degree of confidence under a wide range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the participant and its affiliates that would generate the largest aggregate payment obligation to the CCP in extreme but plausible market conditions. In addition, a CCP that is involved in activities with a more-complex risk profile or that is systemically important in multiple jurisdictions should consider maintaining additional liquidity resources sufficient to cover a wider range of potential stress scenarios that should include, but not be limited to, the default of the two participants and their affiliates that would generate the largest aggregate payment obligation to the CCP in extreme, but plausible market conditions.

JSCC has secured Liquidity Supply Facilities from multiple Fund Settlement Banks, for Japanese yen and each applicable currency other than Japanese yen designated as the settlement currency for foreign currency denominated IRS, and from its parent, JPX, for Japanese yen, to ensure fund settlement.

For Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), JSCC has a framework in place that allows for the temporary use of the Japanese yen cash⁶⁶ portion of the clearing fund deposited by a non-defaulting Clearing Participants, following settlement failure by a Clearing Participant.

JSCC conducts daily stress tests to confirm the sufficiency of its liquidity resources, for all settlement currencies.

JSCC has established a framework for procuring liquidity via repo transactions with Clearing Participants or non-Participant financial institutions for OTC JGBs and is not dependent on Liquidity Supply Facilities. As such, the stress testing of the sufficiency of Liquidity Supply Facilities applies for all products, except OTC JGBs. See Key Consideration 9 of this Principle for liquidity stress testing for OTC JGBs.

In stress testing, JSCC calculates and totals, per stress scenario, the stress risk arising from each transaction subject to clearing. JSCC calculates stress risk based on extreme but plausible price fluctuations, such as the largest observed historical price fluctuation for each market.

A large amount of cash equity transactions are executed to liquidate arbitrage transactions on the day following the final trading date of each contract month ("SQ Date") of index futures/options. This results in a significant increase in the liquidity requirement. To account for this, JSCC uses the largest historical fund settlement payment, including SQ Dates, in the stress risk amount.

The number of simultaneous defaults used in the stress risk calculations is 2 Clearing Participants for CDS transactions (including any other Clearing Participant that is an Affiliate of a defaulting Clearing Participant), due to the complexity of “jump-to-default” risk, and 1 Clearing Participant for all other Clearing Businesses (including any other Clearing Participant that is an Affiliate of the defaulting Clearing Participant).

Additionally, JSCC monitors the stress risk amount using coverage of the 2 largest Clearing Participants (including any other Clearing Participant that is an Affiliate of a defaulting Clearing Participant) among all of Clearing Businesses, in order to promptly identify the emergence of liquidity risk.

These stress risk calculations assume the largest loss in simultaneous stress scenarios occurring in separate Clearing Businesses. However, since it is unlikely that the individual scenarios assumed for each Clearing Business would be realized simultaneously, JSCC also calculates stress risk based on stress scenarios which cover across all Clearing Businesses (excluding OTC JGBs).

In addition to scenarios based on historical data, JSCC also calculates stress risk based on hypothetical forward-looking scenarios and conducts reverse stress tests to cover a wider range of cases and allow for more varied analysis.

Key Consideration 5:

For the purpose of meeting its minimum liquid resource requirement, an FMI's qualifying liquid resources in each currency include cash at the central bank of issue and at creditworthy commercial banks, committed lines of credit, committed foreign exchange swaps, and committed repos, as well as highly marketable collateral held in custody and investments that are readily available and convertible into cash with prearranged and highly reliable funding arrangements, even in extreme but plausible market conditions. If an FMI has access to routine credit at the central bank of issue, the FMI may count such access as part of the minimum requirement to the extent it has collateral that is eligible for pledging to (or for conducting other appropriate forms of transaction with) the relevant central bank. All such resources should be available when needed.

JSCC has prepared the following qualifying liquid resources to meet its liquidity needs:

- Cash deposited by a defaulting Clearing Participant as margin or Clearing Fund;
- Liquidity Supply Facilities;
- JSCC's proprietary assets; and
- Japanese yen cash deposited by non-defaulting Clearing Participants for Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives).

In addition to the above, JSCC has established a liquidity framework via JGB repo transactions with Clearing Participants and other financial institutions, for OTC JGBs.

Moreover, JSCC is able to use cash collateral deposited as margin and Clearing Fund by a defaulting Clearing Participant on the day when it becomes necessary.

Liquidity Supply Facilities are provided by commercial banks which have been designated as Fund Settlement Banks and JSCC's parent company, JPX. Pursuant to agreements with each Fund Settlement Bank and JPX, funds should be made available on the date of application, if the application is made prior to a pre-agreed cut-off time.

JGB repo transactions, which are utilized to meet any funding needs in the OTC JGB Clearing Business, are highly liquid and JSCC expects it can procure the necessary funds on an intraday basis.

When the need arises for JSCC to procure liquidity in times of stress, JSCC expects that it is able to procure the required amount using these qualifying liquid resources.

Key Consideration 6:

An FMI may supplement its qualifying liquid resources with other forms of liquid resources. If the FMI does so, then these liquid resources should be in the form of assets that are likely to be saleable or acceptable as collateral for lines of credit, swaps, or repos on an ad hoc basis following a default, even if this cannot be reliably prearranged or guaranteed in extreme market conditions. Even if an FMI does not have access to routine central bank credit, it should still take account of what collateral is typically accepted by the relevant central bank, as such assets may be more likely to be liquid in stressed circumstances. An FMI should not assume the availability of emergency central bank credit as part of its liquidity plan.

As in Key Consideration 5 of this Principle, JSCC expects that it is able to procure the required amount of liquidity using qualifying liquid resources. When necessary, JSCC is also able to supplementarily use liquid resources secured by JSCC besides its own assets set aside as qualifying liquid resources.

Key Consideration 7:

An FMI should obtain a high degree of confidence, through rigorous due diligence, that each provider of its minimum required qualifying liquid resources, whether a participant of the FMI or an external party, has sufficient information to understand and to manage its associated liquidity risks, and that it has the capacity to perform as required under its commitment. Where relevant to assessing a liquidity provider's performance reliability with respect to a particular currency, a liquidity provider's potential access to credit from the central bank of issue may be taken into account. An FMI should regularly test its procedures for accessing its liquid resources at a liquidity provider.

Liquid Resources

JSCC's qualifying liquid resources are composed of cash deposited as margin or Clearing Fund by a defaulting Clearing Participant, Liquidity Supply Facilities and JSCC's proprietary assets. Additionally, JSCC has established a liquidity framework via JGB repo transactions with Clearing Participants and other financial institutions for OTC JGBs. Furthermore, for Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), JSCC has a framework in place that allows for the temporary use of the Japanese yen cash⁶⁷ portion of the clearing fund deposited by non-defaulting Clearing Participants, following settlement failure by a Clearing Participant.

Reliability of Liquidity Providers

JSCC diversifies its liquidity sources by receiving Liquidity Supply Facilities from 6 Fund Settlement Banks for Japanese yen and 2 Fund Settlement Banks for other currencies. The concentration status of liquidity provider resources is monitored on a monthly basis. Moreover, to further diversify its liquidity suppliers, JSCC has obtained a yen-denominated Liquidity Supply Facilities from its parent company, JPX.

JSCC considers the Liquidity Supply Facilities from each Fund Settlement Bank and JPX are sufficient for performing its commitment in proportion to the Fund Settlement Bank's and JPX's balance sheet. During the 2008 Financial Crisis, JSCC was able to access Liquidity Supply Facilities without issue.

All of the Japanese yen Fund Settlement Banks operate under the supervision of the JFSA and are currently eligible counterparties in a BOJ's fund provision operation. All of the Fund Settlement Banks which are the liquidity supply providers for other currencies operate under the supervision of the JFSA or financial regulators in the countries of their establishment. Moreover, JPX, which is JPY-denominated liquidity supplier, is subject to financial requirements under the FIEA as a Financial Instruments Exchange, and operates under the supervision of the JFSA. JSCC continuously monitors the financial soundness of these banks by receiving regular reports on their financial status.

JSCC has established a liquidity framework via JGB repo transactions with Clearing Participants and other financial institutions for OTC JGBs. This framework assumes that, when procuring liquidity from the market is difficult, Clearing Participants will access the supplementary lending of the BOJ, which uses JGBs as collateral, ensuring its effectiveness.

For Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), if it is difficult to facilitate the settlement by utilising funding from the Liquidity Supply Facilities and JSCC's own funds, JSCC may temporarily use the Japanese yen cash⁶⁸ portion of the clearing fund deposited by non-defaulting Clearing Participants. To ensure effectiveness of this framework, JSCC requires that Clearing Participants deposit a predetermined portion of the clearing fund requirement in Japanese yen cash.

JSCC confirms the effectiveness of its access to the liquid resources of liquidity providers in default settlement fire drills that are conducted at least annually.

Key Consideration 8:

An FMI with access to central bank accounts, payment services, or securities services should use these services, where practical, to enhance its management of liquidity risk.

JSCC utilizes an account at the BOJ for the settlement of funds for each of its Clearing Businesses, to the extent possible. Specifically, all Japanese Yen fund settlements for the CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses are conducted through a BOJ account.

For the IRS Clearing Business, funds to be settled in other currencies, in relation to foreign currency denominated IRS, are settled through accounts of commercial banks.

For the Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business, because of the diverse composition of Clearing Participants, accounts at both the BOJ and commercial banks are used, based on each Clearing Participant's needs.

⁶⁸ Limited to the amount of the clearing fund of which deposit in Japanese yen cash is required.

Key Consideration 9:

An FMI should determine the amount and regularly test the sufficiency of its liquid resources through rigorous stress testing. An FMI should have clear procedures to report the results of its stress tests to appropriate decision makers at the FMI and to use these results to evaluate the adequacy of and adjust its liquidity risk-management framework. In conducting stress testing, an FMI should consider a wide range of relevant scenarios. Scenarios should include relevant peak historic price volatilities, shifts in other market factors such as price determinants and yield curves, multiple defaults over various time horizons, simultaneous pressure in funding and asset markets, and a spectrum of forward-looking stress scenarios in a variety of extreme but plausible market conditions. Scenarios should also take into account the design and operation of the FMI, include all entities that might pose material liquidity risks to the FMI (such as settlement banks, nostro agents, custodian banks, liquidity providers, and linked FMIs), and where appropriate, cover a multiday period. In all cases, an FMI should document its supporting rationale for, and should have appropriate governance arrangements relating to, the amount and form of total liquid resources it maintains.

Stress Testing of Liquidity

JSCC conducts stress testing for Japanese Yen that is a settlement currency for all Clearing Businesses, as well as other settlement currencies related to foreign currency denominated IRS, at least once a day, to verify that Liquidity Supply Facilities and JSCC's proprietary assets are sufficient for potential liquidity needs.

JSCC's stress testing framework includes a range of scenarios including the largest historical price fluctuations and extreme but plausible hypothetical scenarios.

The results of daily stress tests are reported to the CRO, the President and CEO and other executive directors, and the heads of related divisions. Additionally, as part of compliance with the Risk Management Policy in relation to liquidity risk, reports are made to the Risk Oversight Committee on a monthly basis, and to the Board of Directors on a quarterly and annual basis. If a problem with Liquidity Supply Facilities is identified as a result of stress testing, JSCC will examine a necessary measure, including revisions to the framework.

The liquidity framework via JGB repo transactions for OTC JGBs utilizes Clearing Participants and is based upon an assumption that, when procuring liquidity from the market is difficult, Clearing Participants will access the supplementary lending of the BOJ. As haircuts are applied to JGBs when Clearing Participants access the supplementary lending of the BOJ, Clearing Participants may also select repo transactions with JSCC with haircuts applied. At such times, because Clearing Participant initial margin covers the equivalent haircut, JSCC confirms daily that it can cover equivalent haircuts with initial margin deposits, under stressed market conditions, even in the case where all Clearing Participants select repo transactions with haircuts applied.

The results of this confirmation are reported via the same framework as the stress tests of Liquidity Supply Facilities, above.

Stress scenario

JSCC conducts stress tests according to various extreme but plausible scenarios. The scenarios are conservative and reference related historical market data.

For stress scenarios used to confirm the sufficiency of the liquid resources, JSCC uses historical scenarios as a base, and establishes other appropriate scenarios based on the nature of the products involved.

JSCC uses a range of historical scenarios including stress events that caused the largest fluctuations in each market relevant to the eligible products for clearing, over the previous 30-year period, such as Black Monday (1987), the Asian Financial Crisis (1997-1998), LTCM's bankruptcy (1998), the September 11th attacks in the U.S. (2001), the Financial Crisis (the Lehman collapse) (2008), the Great East Japan Earthquake (2011), and the Swiss Franc Shock (2015).

In addition, JSCC employs hypothetical (forward-looking) stress scenarios that are generated by models, based on the "fat-tail" feature of price fluctuation distributions, the autocorrelation of volatility, the simultaneous distribution of price fluctuations of many products, and principal component analysis related to interest rate term structure changes, according to the features of each product eligible for clearing.

Moreover, in the stress testing to confirm sufficiency of the liquidity resources, JSCC uses cross-product scenarios where forward-looking hypothetical stress scenarios are defined in light of the correlations between products.

JSCC assumes the default of the largest Clearing Participant (including any other Clearing Participant that is a Related Company of the defaulting Clearing Participant) for each of its Clearing Businesses, except for CDS, where it assumes the simultaneous default of the largest 2 Clearing Participants (including any other Clearing Participant that is a Related Company of the defaulting Clearing Participants) due to the complexity of the product.

Review and Validation of Stress Scenarios

JSCC validates the scenarios, models, and parameters used in stress testing of Liquidity Supply Facilities at least monthly. JSCC ensures that stress scenarios reflect the most recent market prices and positions.

The Risk Management Division the overall risk management model, including Liquidity Supply Facilities, on at least an annual basis, and makes recommendations regarding revisions to be considered. The results of these validations are reported to the Board of Directors.

Key Consideration 10:

An FMI should establish explicit rules and procedures that enable the FMI to effect same-day and, where appropriate, intraday and multiday settlement of payment obligations on time following any individual or combined default among its participants. These rules and procedures should address unforeseen and potentially uncovered liquidity shortfalls and should aim to avoid unwinding, revoking, or delaying the same-day settlement of payment obligations. These rules and procedures should also indicate the FMI's process to replenish any liquidity resources it may employ during a stress event so that it can continue to operate in a safe and sound manner.

JSCC has comprehensive rules⁶⁹ concerning a change of settlement cut-off times and deferment of settlement. Under these rules, however, settlement cut-off times cannot be changed nor can settlement be deferred, even in the default of one or more Clearing Participant. JSCC assumes that settlement will be conducted according to the times prescribed in its rules. This is supported by sufficient and timely access to Liquid Supply Facilities and liquidity via JGB repo transactions.

⁶⁹ Listed Products Clearing Business Rules Article 80

OTC JGB Clearing Business Rules Article 91

Settlement

Principle 8: Settlement Finality

An FMI should provide clear and certain final settlement, at a minimum by the end of the value date. Where necessary or preferable, an FMI should provide final settlement intraday or in real time.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI's rules and procedures should clearly define the point at which settlement is final.

Point of Settlement Finality

JSCC conducts settlement via 2 methods: securities settlement and fund settlement. For both methods, the point of settlement finality is when the transfer has been made from the Clearing Participant's account with a CSD or Fund Settlement Bank. For fund settlement in a currency other than Japanese yen, the point of settlement finality is when either the intrabank transfer has been made from the Clearing Participant's account at the Fund Settlement Bank, or the credit to JSCC's account is made in the settlement process between different Fund Settlement Banks.

Fulfillment of Obligations pertaining to Settlement

Settlement methods between JSCC and Clearing Participants are specified in JSCC's Business Rules, and obligations are fulfilled at the point where settlement has been conducted according to the Business Rules.

Legal Certainty of Finality

JSCC specifies in its Operational Procedures that securities settlement or fund settlement are irrevocable after the completion of the book-entry transfer. The Operational Procedures prescribe procedures to be observed by Clearing Participants based on JSCC's Business Rules, and are legally binding on Clearing Participants. This ensures the legal certainty for settlement finality.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should complete final settlement no later than the end of the value date, and preferably intraday or in real time, to reduce settlement risk. An LVPS or SSS should consider adopting RTGS or multiple-batch processing during the settlement day.

The processes and operations of each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses are designed to provide for final settlement no later than the end of the value date or on the day the receipt/payment is due by specifying the settlement date and settlement cut-off time therein.

JSCC has never experienced an incident where the final settlement is deferred past the scheduled settlement date.

Settlement is made on a real-time basis during the day. The settlement is final when JSCC's payment instructions have been carried out in a Clearing Participant's Fund Settlement Bank or CSD. Clearing Participants can confirm fulfillment of final settlement via JSCC's clearing system or a CSD's system as necessary.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should clearly define the point after which unsettled payments, transfer instructions, or other obligations may not be revoked by a participant.

JSCC has Operational Procedures in place for each Clearing Business. The Operational Procedures prescribe operational procedures for Clearing Participants based on JSCC's Business Rules, and the point when transfer instructions become irrevocable.

Settlement instructions to JSCC may not be revoked after completion.

Provisions and authority regarding revocation of transfer instructions prior to the completion of a transfer are prescribed in the rules and procedures of each CSD.

Principle 9: Money Settlements

An FMI should conduct its money settlements in central bank money where practical and available. If central bank money is not used, an FMI should minimise and strictly control the credit and liquidity risk arising from the use of commercial bank money.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should conduct its money settlements in central bank money, where practical and available, to avoid credit and liquidity risks.

For Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), CDS and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses, JSCC only uses Japanese Yen for settlement. For IRS Clearing Business, in addition to Japanese yen, JSCC uses currencies for the settlement of foreign currency denominated IRS.

For each of its Clearing Businesses, JSCC uses an account with the BOJ, the central bank, whenever possible. Specifically, all JPY settlements for the CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses are conducted through a BOJ account.

For the IRS Clearing Business, fund settlement in non-JPY currencies are performed through an account of a commercial bank. JSCC designated two commercial banks as Fund Settlement Banks for fund settlements in foreign currencies, and Clearing Participants may select to perform fund settlement through an account at either of those Fund Settlement Banks.

For the Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business, due to the diversity of Clearing Participants, settlement is possible through either a BOJ account or an account at one of six commercial banks designated by JSCC as Fund Settlement Banks for fund settlement in Japanese yen, based on the choice of each Clearing Participant.

For Japanese yen fund settlement, JSCC holds a settlement account in its own name at the six aforementioned Fund Settlement Banks and BOJ. Settlement between each Clearing Participant and JSCC is conducted via book-entry transfer between the accounts of the Clearing Participant and JSCC, at the bank designated by the Clearing Participant. This book-entry transfer is conducted between accounts at the same bank, either with BOJ or any of the Fund Settlement Banks, and is not performed between different banks.

For settlement in currencies other than Japanese yen, JSCC holds a settlement account in the two above-mentioned Fund Settlement Banks, and fund settlement between a Clearing Participant and JSCC is conducted via account transfer between the Clearing Participant's account and JSCC's account, at the bank selected by the Clearing Participant.

Key Consideration 2:

If central bank money is not used, an FMI should conduct its money settlements using a settlement asset with little or no credit or liquidity risk.

JSCC only designates commercial banks which satisfy its "Policies for Designation of Japanese Yen Fund Settlement Banks" and "Policies for Designation of Foreign Currency Fund Settlement Banks" as Fund Settlement Banks. Fund Settlement Banks approved by JSCC are those with a presence in Japan, with sufficient capitalization and high credit. Furthermore, all Fund Settlement Banks are subject to supervision by the JFSA and monitoring by BOJ, or supervision by financial regulators at the countries of their establishment.

Key Consideration 3:

If an FMI settles in commercial bank money, it should monitor, manage, and limit its credit and liquidity risks arising from the commercial settlement banks. In particular, an FMI should establish and monitor adherence to strict criteria for its settlement banks that take account of, among other things, their regulation and supervision, creditworthiness, capitalisation, access to liquidity, and operational reliability. An FMI should also monitor and manage the concentration of credit and liquidity exposures to its commercial settlement banks.

In order to eliminate settlement risk arising from credit risk, accompanying the use of commercial bank money, to the extent possible, JSCC designates Fund Settlement Banks according to the “Policies for Designation of Japanese Yen Fund Settlement Banks” and “Policies for Designation of Foreign Currency Fund Settlement Banks,” as mentioned in Key Consideration 2 of this Principle, selecting commercial banks with sufficient capitalization and high credit.

Within the “Policies for Designation of Japanese Yen Fund Settlement Banks” and “Policies for Designation of Foreign Currency Fund Settlement Banks,” JSCC requires banks to be subject to the supervision of a regulator, maintain stable business operations and profitability, and have sufficient capitalization and high credit above a predetermined level.

JSCC confirms the soundness of Fund Settlement Bank finances by receiving regular reports from each commercial bank designated as a Fund Settlement Bank on their financial conditions and confirming their daily settlement operations run smoothly. In this way, JSCC continuously monitors the banks’ compliance with the “Policies for Designation of Japanese Yen Fund Settlement Banks” and “Policies for Designation of Foreign Currency Fund Settlement Banks.”

Furthermore, by designating the BOJ and six Fund Settlement Banks for Japanese yen and two Fund Settlement Banks for currencies other than Japanese yen, JSCC has distributed the risk of being unable to conduct settlement operations due to a Fund Settlement Bank’s bankruptcy. JSCC also monitors the status of concentration of settlement across the Fund Settlement Banks on a monthly basis.

All accounts held by JSCC at Fund Settlement Banks are covered by the Japanese Deposit Insurance System, thereby limiting credit risk arising from the commercial banks.

Key Consideration 4:

If an FMI conducts money settlements on its own books, it should minimise and strictly control its credit and liquidity risks.

JSCC conducts all money settlements through Fund Settlement Banks and BOJ. No money settlement is conducted on its own books.

Key Consideration 5:

An FMI’s legal agreements with any settlement banks should state clearly when transfers on the books of individual settlement banks are expected to occur, that transfers are to be final when effected, and that funds received should be transferable as soon as possible, at a minimum by the end of the day and ideally intraday, in order to enable the FMI and its participants to manage credit and liquidity risks.

Central Bank Money Settlement

For settlement at the central bank, BOJ’s “Rules on Current Deposit Account” Article 5, Paragraph 3 states that “instruction of fund transfer shall be irrevocable.” Therefore, such transfers are final upon completion of the transfer process in the BOJ Financial Network System (“BOJ-NET”).

Commercial Bank Money Settlement

For settlement using Fund Settlement Banks, transfers between JSCC and Clearing Participants are conducted by wire-transfer. The agreements between JSCC and Fund Settlement Banks specify the time at which funds shall be transferred to the relevant JSCC account for Japanese yen fund settlement. For fund settlement in foreign currencies, Clearing Participants are required to send fund transfer instructions to the Fund Settlement Bank in time so the transfer instructions will arrive by the remittance instruction receipt cutoff time designated by JSCC.

This is the established approach for fund settlement in the Japanese financial market, which JSCC views as a safe and robust settlement system.

Settlement is considered to be final and irrevocable once the funds are credited to the receiver’s bank account. JSCC understands that these arrangements are supported by Japanese laws and regulations.

Principle 10: Physical Deliveries

An FMI should clearly state its obligations with respect to the delivery of physical instruments or commodities and should identify, monitor, and manage the risks associated with such physical deliveries.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI's rules should clearly state its obligations with respect to the delivery of physical instruments or commodities.

JSCC conducts most of the securities settlement via the book-entry transfer system of the CSD. Currently, the only product subject to physical delivery between JSCC and Clearing Participants are Investment Securities issued by the BOJ.

JSCC's Business Rules prescribe that Investment Securities issued by the BOJ are to be physically delivered between a Clearing Participant and JSCC and specify the settlement cut-off time for such to fulfill delivery obligations.⁷⁰

JSCC's Business Rules are publicly available through its website.

In addition to the Business Rules, JSCC provides Clearing Participants with the "Operational Procedures for Non-DVP Settlement," which prescribe detailed operational procedures related to physical delivery. This facilitates Clearing Participants to conduct operations with a full understanding of the physical delivery process.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should identify, monitor, and manage the risks and costs associated with the storage and delivery of physical instruments or commodities.

Storage/Delivery Risk related to Physical Instruments

JSCC views (1) principal risk, (2) risk of theft/destruction, and (3) forgery risk to be the primary risks associated with storage/delivery of physical securities (securities certificates). Measures for these risks are outlined below.

Measures for Principal Risk

The aforementioned "Operational Procedures for Non-DVP Settlement" prescribe that receiving participants must pay settlement funds to JSCC prior to receiving securities from JSCC, and that delivering participants must deliver securities to JSCC before receiving payment from JSCC. Through this process, JSCC eliminates the principal risk associated with physical delivery.

Risk of Theft/Destruction

The process for receipt and delivery of securities from the delivering participant to JSCC and from JSCC to the receiving participant is completed on the same day. As such, the period that JSCC holds the securities is extremely short and the risk of theft/destruction is limited. Securities received are locked in a fireproof safe to reduce the risk of theft and destruction.

⁷⁰ Listed Products Clearing Business Rules Articles 47, 48, and 56

Forgery Risk

In order to reduce the risk of forgeries, JSCC confirms the authenticity of the certificates at the time of transfer and records the serial number of transferred certificates to enable tracking.

CSDs and Exchange-of-Value Settlement Systems

Principle 11: Central Securities Depositories

A CSD should have appropriate rules and procedures to help ensure the integrity of securities issues and minimise and manage the risk associated with the safekeeping and transfer of securities. A CSD should maintain securities in an immobilized or dematerialized form for their transfer by book entry.

Because JSCC is not a central securities depository, this principle does not apply.

Principle 12: Exchange-of-Value Settlement Systems

If an FMI settles transactions that involve the settlement of two linked obligations (for example, securities or foreign exchange transaction), it should eliminate principal risk by conditioning the final settlement of one obligation upon the final settlement of the other.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI that is an exchange-of-value settlement system should eliminate principal risk by ensuring that the final settlement of one obligation occurs if and only if the final settlement of the linked obligation also occurs, regardless of whether the FMI settles on a gross or net basis and when finality occurs.

Use of DVP Settlement

JSCC uses a DVP settlement framework which links the delivery of securities with payment for the settlement of listed cash securities (excluding Investment Securities issued by the BOJ), listed JGBs, and OTC JGBs, between JSCC and Clearing Participants. This framework eliminates principal risk associated with the settlement of cash securities.

(1) DVP Settlement of Listed Cash Securities (Net-Net)

JSCC uses Net-Net DVP settlement for listed cash securities (Model 3 in CPSS's "Delivery Versus Payment in Securities Settlement System"). Under this scheme, the value of securities JSCC delivers to a Clearing Participant is limited to the value of funds and securities received by JSCC from such Clearing Participant. This prevents JSCC from fulfilling obligations to the Clearing Participant in excess of that which the Clearing Participant fulfills toward JSCC, thereby eliminating the principal risk of a Clearing Participant default.

Transfer of funds and securities according to this scheme is conducted between the accounts of a Clearing Participant and JSCC, with such transfers being final at the point they are executed. (Please see Principle 8 (Settlement Finality).) Additionally, when delivery of securities to a Clearing Participant is withheld, such securities are held within JSCC's account until delivery in order to protect them from third-party claims, such as the creditors of the Clearing Participant.

(2) DVP Settlement of JGBs (Gross-Gross)

For settlement of listed JGBs and OTC JGBs, JSCC uses the Gross-Gross (Model 1 in CPSS's "Delivery Versus Payment in Securities Settlement System" (1992)) DVP settlement (RTGS (Real-Time Gross Settlement)) provided by BOJ, in its role as the CSD for JGBs, as a BOJ participant. Under this scheme, settlement of cash and securities between a Clearing Participant and JSCC is fulfilled simultaneously on a gross basis and is final at the time of transfer. (Please see Principle 8 (Settlement Finality).)

Default Procedures

Principle 13: Participant-Default Rules and Procedures

An FMI should have effective and clearly defined rules and procedures to manage a participant default. These rules and procedures should be designed to ensure that the FMI can take timely action to contain losses and liquidity pressures and continue to meet its obligations.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should have default rules and procedures that enable the FMI to continue to meet its obligations in the event of a participant default and that address the replenishment of resources following default.

Clearing Participant Default

JSCC's rules set out the details of the default management procedures, including the events constituting a default, the sequencing of the process and obligations of parties involved. JSCC will declare that a Clearing Participant is in default if such participant is, or is likely to be, unable to perform its obligations, according to the determination of JSCC's senior management. If a default is declared, JSCC can take actions to contain losses by halting clearing of new transactions from the defaulter and liquidating the defaulter's positions.

JSCC's methods for disposing of positions vary according to the nature of the product for each Clearing Business. Specifically, offsetting transactions in the market and an auction involving non-defaulting Clearing Participants (when necessary) is used for Listed Products, and an auction involving non-defaulting Clearing Participants is used for CDS, IRS, and OTC JGBs. In addition, for Listed Products, CDS and IRS, hedge transactions can be promptly executed for the defaulter's portfolio to minimise the risk of losses prior to the disposal of the defaulter's positions. Hedge transactions for CDS and IRS are executed based on the advice of the related Clearing Business's advisory committee (CDS Default Management Committee, IRS Default Management Committee). If a defaulting Clearing Participant holds positions in foreign currency denominated IRS, the default management process, including hedge transactions, will be conducted for each currency.

When disposing of positions, customer positions and collateral related to Listed Derivatives, CDS, and IRS transactions are able to be transferred to non-defaulting Clearing Participants. JSCC does not receive deposits of customer collateral for listed Cash Products. Moreover, for OTC JGBs, currently no Clearing Participant has a non-Affiliated customer. JSCC uses its loss compensation financial resources according to its rules to cover losses arising in the default process.

Even when a Clearing Participant default occurs, JSCC will fulfill settlement according to the regular schedule. In order to fulfill settlement in this manner, JSCC maintains Liquidity Supply Facilities for procuring necessary liquidity. For Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives), JSCC has a framework in place that allows for the temporary use of the Japanese yen cash portion of the clearing fund deposited by non-defaulting Clearing Participants, to facilitate fund settlement. Additionally, JSCC has established a framework for liquidity via JGB repo transactions with Clearing Participants for OTC JGBs. See Principle 7 (Liquidity Risk) for further details.

Composition of Loss Compensation Financial Resources

JSCC has established a loss compensation framework for each Clearing Business. This prevents losses from a single Clearing Business impacting the others.

Below is an overview of the loss compensation financial resources for each Clearing Business.

(1) Listed Products Loss Compensation

For the Listed Product (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business, losses resulting from a Clearing Participant default will be covered in the following order:

- 1) The defaulting Clearing Participant's margin, Clearing Fund, and other collateral deposited for its proprietary book (including collateral deposited for other Clearing Businesses, if any remains)
*See Principle 6 (Margin) for margin and Principle 4 (Credit Risk) for Clearing Fund.
- 2) Contribution from the relevant market operator
 - The market operators of the listed products which JSCC clears (exchange/PTS) contributes funds to cover losses arising from such products according to an agreement with JSCC.
- 3) Contribution from JSCC
- 4) Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants
 - Non-defaulting Clearing Participants Clearing Fund contributions are consumed on a pro rata basis according to the risk amount of each participant.
 - When an auction is held to dispose of a defaulting Clearing Participant's positions, the clearing fund of the Clearing Participant that wins the default auction is used after the clearing fund of other Clearing Participants.
 - If a loss consumes all or part of the Clearing Fund contributions from a non-defaulting Clearing Participant, such contribution shall be replenished by the business day following such consumption.
- 5) Additional contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants
 - If the loss resulting from a Clearing Participant default exceeds the sum of all the preceding financial resources, the non-defaulting Clearing Participants are required to cover any remaining losses by an additional contribution called a "Special Clearing Charge." The Special Clearing Charge is calculated separately for Securities Clearing Qualification, JGB Futures Clearing Qualification, and Index Futures Clearing Qualification, and the total amount is distributed on a pro rata basis among Clearing Participants holding such qualifications, based on their relevant clearing fund requirements.

(2) CDS/IRS Loss Compensation

For the CDS and IRS Clearing Businesses, losses resulting from a Clearing Participant default in each Clearing Business will be covered in the following order:

- 1) The defaulting Clearing Participant's margin, and Clearing Fund (including collateral deposited for other Clearing Businesses, if any remains)
*See Principle 6 (Margin) for margin and Principle 4 (Credit Risk) for Clearing Fund.
- 2) Contribution from JSCC

- JSCC contributes funds in this second tier, and the third tier (below).
- 3) Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants and an additional contribution from JSCC
- Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants and JSCC's additional contribution are consumed on a pro rata basis.
 - Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants are consumed according to the risk amount of each participant.
 - The Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants are capped at a certain level. For further defaults occurring during the Capped Period, such contributions are capped at the required Clearing Fund amount immediately preceding the initial default.
 - The amount of Clearing Fund contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants consumed is determined according to the quality of participation in the auction for disposing of the defaulter's positions. The Clearing Fund contributions of Clearing Participants with a lower level of auction participation will be consumed first.
 - If a loss consumes all or part of the Clearing Fund contributions from the non-defaulting Clearing Participants, then contributions shall be replenished following the end of the Capped Period. To cover credit risk during the Capped Period, JSCC calculates the required Clearing Fund for each non-defaulting Clearing Participant on a daily basis. If the required Clearing Fund exceeds the required Clearing Fund for the day immediately preceding the first default, JSCC will call for the additional amount as Default Contingent Margin. The Default Contingent Margin is a defaulter-pay type collateral to be used as financial resources to cover losses arising from the potential default of the Clearing Participant that deposited the Default Contingent Margin.
- 4) Additional contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants
- If the loss resulting from a Clearing Participant default exceeds the sum of all the preceding financial resources, an additional contribution called a "Special Clearing Charge" is required from the non-defaulting Clearing Participants. The Special Clearing Charge for defaults occurring during a Capped Period is capped at the required amount of Clearing Fund immediately preceding the first default.
 - The Special Clearing Charge shall be applied according to quality of participation the auction for disposing of the defaulter's positions. The charge will be first applied to Clearing Participants with lower level of auction participation.
- 5) Variation Margin Haircutting
- If the loss resulting from a Clearing Participant default exceeds the sum of all the preceding financial resources, all non-defaulting Clearing Participants with positive variation margin (variation margin receiver) from the default date are required to compensate the loss through Variation Margin Haircutting, to a maximum of the relevant variation margin amount.

If a defaulting Clearing Participant holds positions in foreign currency denominated IRS, the loss compensation financial resources are allocated for each currency. The allocated loss compensation financial resources are applied in the order mentioned above, for each currency. If there is any surplus in the loss compensation financial resources allocated to each currency, the surplus will be re-allocated to other currencies.

If a defaulting Clearing Participant is using cross margining, the gain/loss from cross margined JGB Futures are covered by the loss compensation financial resources under the IRS Clearing Business. However, if a loss remains after the application of the loss compensation financial resources up to Tier 4, any remaining loss shall be allocated to IRS and JGB Futures according to the final loss from the position in JPY-denominated IRS and the position in cross margined JGB Futures. After such allocation, any loss related to JPYdenominated IRS will be covered by Tier 5, with losses related to the position in JGB Futures being covered according to the Listed Products Loss Compensation, described in (1) above.

(3) OTC JGB Loss Compensation

For the OTC JGB Clearing Business, losses resulting from a Clearing Participant default will be covered by loss compensation financial resources in the following order:

- 1) The defaulting Clearing Participant's margin, and Clearing Fund (including collateral deposited for other Clearing Businesses, if any remains)
 - *See Principle 6 (Margin) for margin and Principle 4 (Credit Risk) for Clearing Fund.
- 2) Contribution from JSCC
 - JSCC contributes funds in this second tier, and the third and fifth tiers (below).
- 3) Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants and an additional contribution from JSCC
 - The losses allocated to non-defaulting Clearing Participants and JSCC will be pro-rated based on their proportion of the total level of combined resources in this tier.
 - The Clearing Fund contributions of non-defaulting Clearing Participants will be allocated according to losses ("Trust Losses") based on transactions ("Trust Transactions") pertaining to trusts where the Clearing Participant is the trust bank, and other losses ("Non-Trust Losses"). The allotment of Trust Losses will be made based on the ratio of the defaulter's positions made up by Trust Transactions on an underlying transaction basis. The remaining losses after the allocation of Trust Losses shall be the Non-Trust Losses. The Trust Losses and Non-Trust Losses will be allocated to non-defaulting Clearing Participants according to the following method:
 - Trust Losses shall be allocated to each relevant non-defaulting Clearing Participant pro-rata, based on their ratio of underlying transactions with the defaulting Clearing Participant.
 - Non-Trust Losses shall be allocated to each relevant non-defaulting Clearing Participant pro-rata, based on their Clearing Fund contribution.
 - The amount of loss borne by non-defaulting Clearing Participants' Clearing Fund contributions under this third tier is capped. Specifically, for defaults during the Capped Period, the cap shall be the required amount of Clearing Fund immediately preceding the first default. However, the amount of loss allocated to the Clearing Fund contributions related to Trust Losses under the third tier is capped at the amount allocated to each Trust Bank according to the underlying transactions. If any Clearing Fund contribution in respect of Trust Losses under this third tier remains unused, non-defaulting Clearing Participants holding Trust Transactions are required to contribute the unused amount in the fifth tier (below).
 - The amount of Clearing Fund contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants consumed is determined according to the quality of participation in the auction for disposing of the defaulter's positions. The Clearing Fund contributions of Clearing Participants with a lower level of auction participation will be consumed first.
 - If a loss consumes all or part of the Clearing Fund contributions from the non-defaulting Clearing Participants, then contributions shall be replenished following the end of the Capped Period. To cover credit risk during the Capped Period, JSCC calculates the required Clearing Fund for each non-defaulting Clearing Participant on a daily basis. If the required Clearing Fund exceeds the required Clearing Fund for the day immediately preceding the first default, JSCC will call for the additional amount as Default Contingent Margin. The Default Contingent Margin is a defaulter-pay type collateral to be used as financial resources to cover losses arising from the default of the Clearing Participant that deposited that Default Contingent Margin.

- 4) Additional contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants
 - In cases where the losses allocated as Trust Losses and Non-Trust Losses exceed the compensation resources of non-defaulting Clearing Participants in the third tier (above), JSCC will charge an additional contribution called a “Special Clearing Charge” to the relevant non-defaulting Clearing Participants, to cover any remaining losses. The “Special Clearing Charge” will be allocated pro-rata to each non-defaulting Clearing Participant, according to the following method to cover any remaining losses after consumption of the third tier financial resources (above):
 - The “Special Clearing Charge” for Trust Losses shall be allocated to each relevant non-defaulting Clearing Participant based on their ratio of underlying transactions with the defaulting Clearing Participant.
 - The “Special Clearing Charge” for non-Trust Losses shall be allocated to each relevant non-defaulting Clearing Participant based on their required amount of Clearing Fund. Contributions from each non-defaulting Clearing Participant will be capped at their clearing fund requirement immediately preceding the first default during the Capped Period.
 - If, in respect of Trust Losses, the “Special Clearing Charge” contribution under this fourth tier is less than the required Clearing Fund, further contributions of “Special Clearing Charge” up to the difference of the required Clearing Fund and the amount used in this fourth tier will be required in the sixth tier (below).
- 5) Clearing Fund contributions from non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions and an additional contribution from JSCC
 - The losses borne by the Clearing Fund contribution of non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions and the contribution of JSCC will be pro-rated based on their proportion of the total level of combined resources in this tier.
 - The losses borne by the Clearing Fund contribution of non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions shall be allocated pro-rata, based on the ratio of each Clearing Participant’s remaining Clearing Fund contribution after use in the third tier (above).
 - The sum total of the losses borne by the Clearing Fund contribution of non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions under the third tier (above) and this fifth tier is capped. For defaults during the Capped Period, the cap shall be the required amount of Clearing Fund immediately preceding the first default.
 - The amount of Clearing Fund contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions consumed is determined according to the quality of participation in the auction for disposing of the defaulter’s positions. The Clearing Fund contributions of Clearing Participants with a lower level of auction participation will be consumed first.
- 6) Additional contribution from non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions
 - In cases where the losses resulting from the Clearing Participants default exceed the compensation resources up to the fifth tier (above), JSCC will charge an additional contribution called a “Special Clearing Charge” to non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions.
 - The “Special Clearing Charge” shall be allocated to non-defaulting Clearing Participants with Trust Transactions pro-rata, based on their ratio of “Special Clearing Charge” remaining after use under the fourth tier (above). In such cases, the sum total of the “Special Clearing Charge” under the fourth tier (above) and this sixth tier allocated to each non-defaulting Clearing Participant shall be capped at the required amount of Clearing Fund immediately preceding the first default during the Capped Period.
- 7) Additional Loss Recovery
 - If the loss resulting from a Clearing Participant default exceeds the sum of all the preceding financial resources, all non-defaulting Clearing Participants with positive variation margin (variation margin receiver) from the default date are required to additionally compensate the loss, to a maximum of the relevant positive variation margin amount.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should be well prepared to implement its default rules and procedures, including any appropriate discretionary procedures provided for in its rules.

JSCC provides for default procedures in its rules and manuals. These rules and manuals specify procedures including determination of default, liquidation of the defaulting Clearing Participant's positions, loss compensation resources, and measures for such procedures.

These procedures also provide for information sharing related to the default, including communications with regulators, notices to Clearing Participants, and public announcement of information. The procedures also specify the role and responsibility of each of JSCC's divisions and involvement of officers.

Additionally for the CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses, JSCC has established a framework requiring the participation of non-defaulting Clearing Participants in the liquidation of the defaulting Clearing Participant's positions. Roles and responsibilities of non-defaulting Clearing Participants in default procedures are set out in JSCC's rules.

In order to ensure the effectiveness of default procedures, JSCC conducts fire-drills at least once a year. Based on the results, JSCC will revise rules and manuals as necessary. Some of JSCC's Clearing Businesses require Clearing Participant involvement in default procedures, including fire drills, where JSCC provides the results as feedback.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should publicly disclose key aspects of its default rules and procedures.

JSCC's default procedures are provided for in the rules for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses. These rules are available on JSCC's website.

When a Clearing Participant defaults, JSCC discloses important information pertaining to the default procedures including the halt of clearing for the defaulting Clearing Participant, position liquidation method, handling of customer positions, and results of allocation of any losses arising from the Clearing Participant's default.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should involve its participants and other stakeholders in the testing and review of the FMI's default procedures, including any close-out procedures. Such testing and review should be conducted at least annually or following material changes to the rules and procedures to ensure that they are practical and effective.

In order to ensure the effectiveness of default procedures, JSCC conducts fire-drills for each Clearing Business at least once a year. All related parties, including Clearing Participants, participate in these fire-drills. Based on the results, JSCC will revise rules and manuals as necessary.

Additionally, JSCC will revise rules and manuals related to default when there have been significant revisions to business operations. The results of fire-drills are reported to the Risk Oversight Committee and the Board of Directors.

Principle 14: Segregation and Portability

A CCP should have rules and procedures that enable the segregation and portability of positions of a participant's customers and the collateral provided to the CCP with respect to those positions.

Key Consideration 1:

A CCP should, at a minimum, have segregation and portability arrangements that effectively protect a participant's customers' positions and related collateral from the default or insolvency of that participant. If the CCP additionally offers protection of such customer positions and collateral against the concurrent default of the participant and a fellow customer, the CCP should take steps to ensure that such protection is effective.

Segregated Management of Customer Positions and Margin

For each Clearing Business, JSCC has adopted differing segregation arrangements for customer protection.

For CDS and IRS transactions, JSCC segregates Clearing Participant's proprietary positions/margin and the positions/margin of each Customer. Specifically, the positions/margin of each customer is segregated in individual customer accounts with JSCC at all times, regardless of whether or not the customer is an Affiliate of the Clearing Participant. JSCC has established this framework to protect margin related to the positions of each customer from the default or insolvency of a Clearing Participant.

For Listed Derivatives in the Listed Products Clearing Business, JSCC manages customer positions/margin separately from each Clearing Participant's proprietary account, either on a gross basis in an omnibus account, or separately in individual customer accounts, as elected by each Clearing Participant.

When a Clearing Participant elects for management in an omnibus client account, the positions/margin of multiple customers are managed in a single omnibus account at the JSCC, but the positions/margin of each customer are separately managed by the Clearing Participant. In such cases, the Clearing Participant reports the position details of each customer to JSCC, on a daily basis, and JSCC calculates the margin requirement for each customer based on this information. When a Clearing Participant elects for management in an individual client account, the positions/margin for each individual client is managed separately in each individual client account at JSCC.

For both omnibus client accounts and individual client accounts, a Clearing Participant may elect the management method at JSCC for each customer of a customer (hereinafter referred to as "Indirect Customer"). If the customers of a Clearing Participant includes an Affiliate of the Clearing Participant, then the Clearing Participant is required to segregate at JSCC, the positions/margin of the Affiliate from the positions/margin of non-Affiliated customers.

In addition, for the Listed Derivatives in the Listed Product Clearing Business, JSCC has the authority to request that Clearing Participants submit the positions/margin information of individual customers if required⁷¹. Through these frameworks, JSCC protects customer positions and related margin from the default or insolvency of a Clearing Participant. See the following "Transfer of Positions/Margin" section for further details.

⁷¹ Rules on Margins, etc. for Futures and Option Contracts Article 26.

For the OTC JGB Clearing Business, Clearing Participant's proprietary positions/margin, and the positions/margin of each customer, are managed on a gross basis. The positions/margin of each customer are segregated in individual customer accounts at JSCC, at all times, regardless of whether or not the customer is an Affiliate of the Clearing Participant. In terms of customer protection arrangements, the FIEA requires each Clearing Participant to conduct the segregated management of customer securities and cash.

For listed Cash Products, JSCC would conduct netting for all of a defaulting Clearing Participant's transactions. JSCC only receives collateral deposits from Clearing Participants, but not from customers. In such cases, the FIEA requires each Clearing Participant to conduct the segregated management of customer securities and cash. Also, the protection of a customers' securities and cash related to open positions is achieved under alternative schemes in Japan. Specifically, the Japan Investor Protection Fund, established according to the FIEA, provides a customer protection scheme for small-scale customers of the Financial Instruments Business Operators (kinnyushohin-torihiki-gyosha). In addition, JASDEC DVP Clearing Corporation provides DVP Settlement Services for NETDs (non-exchange transaction deliveries) for large-scale (professional) customers. These schemes provide a means of eliminating principal risk.

Transfer of Positions/Margin

JSCC has adopted position transfer arrangements for customer protection, in accordance with the nature of the products it clears.

For clearing of Listed Derivatives, CDS, and IRS, when a Clearing Participant defaults, customers may transfer their own positions and margin to another Clearing Participant without the consent of the defaulting Clearing Participant. In such case, agreement is necessary from the Clearing Participant receiving the transfer of positions/margin.

For Listed Derivatives, the Clearing Participant receiving the transfer is required to express its consent to the exchange and to follow the exchange's prescribed procedures, after which JSCC conducts the transfer based on the exchange's decision⁷². For CDS and IRS, the customer applies to JSCC via the Clearing Participant receiving the transfer, after which JSCC will confirm that the required amount of margin pertaining to the transferring positions has been deposited by such Clearing Participant. After this confirmation, JSCC transfers the positions and margin of the relevant customer⁷³.

For Listed Derivatives, CDS, and IRS clearing businesses, the transferee Clearing Participants may determine whether they accept a transfer of positions and margin based on an agreement with the transferring customer.

There are no customer positions for transfer in relation to the Cash Products.

For OTC JGBs, currently no Clearing Participant has a non-Affiliated customer.

Protection from Fellow Customer Risk

JSCC has adopted arrangements to protect customers from the risk of default by another

⁷² OSE Rules on Margin and Transfer of Unsettled Contracts Pertaining to Futures/Options Contract Chapter 3, Section 3
Rules on Margins, etc. for Futures and Option Contracts Articles 28 and 30

customer using the same Clearing Participant (“Fellow Customer Risk”), according to the nature of the products it clears.

For Listed Derivatives, when a Clearing Participant elects to manage customer margin through an individual client account, each customer’s margin is managed in separate accounts opened at JSCC⁷⁴. Where a Clearing Participant further elects to manage individual client accounts for Indirect Customers, the margin for each Indirect Customer is managed in separate accounts opened at JSCC. However, if a Clearing Participant elects to manage customer margin through an omnibus account, the margin for multiple customers is managed on a gross basis. In each case, the right of a customer to request return of its own margin is specified in JSCC’s Business Rules⁷⁵. These arrangements eliminate Fellow Customer Risk.

Japanese laws and regulations, JSCC’s Business Rules, and the subordinate rules⁷⁶ require Clearing Participants to deposit customer margin with JSCC on a gross basis as an agent for their customers. This means that Clearing Participants are unable to offset the positions of each customer with those of other customers when depositing margin.

In order to facilitate the smooth transfer of customer positions/margin or return of customer margin at the time of a Clearing Participant’s default, Clearing Participants are obligated by JSCC’s rules to promptly provide details regarding customer positions/margin deposited with JSCC in response to JSCC’s request (including in times of market stress)⁷⁷. JSCC regularly conducts reviews to ensure Clearing Participants are able to comply with this requirement.

For the CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses, customer margin is individually segregated in accounts for each customer⁷⁸ at JSCC, on a gross basis. Clearing Participants must deposit the full amount of customer margin with JSCC. JSCC has no rule that allows for the netting of positions recorded in a customer account, with those in the account of another customer using the same Clearing Participant, upon default of a customer.

Legal Basis for Customer Protection

Japanese law stipulates that in the event of a Clearing Participant default, JSCC’s rules shall be applied in preference to general Japanese Bankruptcy Act, for the management of outstanding positions, between the defaulting Clearing Participant and JSCC⁷⁹.

Therefore, JSCC has the legal powers to liquidate the proprietary positions of a defaulting Clearing Participant and to transfer or liquidate the customer positions of a defaulting Clearing Participant, as stipulated in JSCC’s rules.

⁷⁴ Business Rules Articles 46-3 and 46-4.

⁷⁵ Article 24 of the Rules on Margins, etc. for Futures and Option Contracts specifies that each customer has a right to claim refund of initial margin (referred to as “Margin” in the Business Rules concerning listed derivatives) deposited with JSCC through a Clearing Participant, which is acting as an agent. The amount of initial margin which each customer has a right to claim refund for is specified as the amount of initial margin deposited with JSCC less the unfulfilled obligations pertaining to futures/options contracts owed by the customer to the Clearing Participant. This means that the margin each customer deposits with JSCC will not be used to compensate the losses of other customers.

⁷⁹ FIEA Article 156-11-2

In the event of the commencement of insolvency proceedings in a foreign jurisdiction against a Clearing Participant, the effect of such insolvency proceedings extend to Japan only upon a Japanese court's order of recognition of such proceedings, based on the provisions of the "Act on Recognition of and Assistance for Foreign Insolvency Proceedings."

Such proceedings in a foreign jurisdiction shall only apply to the properties of a defaulting Clearing Participant upon the issuance of an assistance order by a Japanese court. As this order will be issued if the relevant proceedings should not be a major obstacle for the bankruptcy proceedings in Japan, such proceedings in a foreign jurisdiction are expected to be similar to those of Japan.

Key Consideration 2:

A CCP should employ an account structure that enables it readily to identify positions of a participant's customers and to segregate related collateral. A CCP should maintain customer positions and collateral in individual customer accounts or in omnibus customer accounts.

Please see Key Consideration 1 of this Principle for how customer positions/margin are segregated from those of Clearing Participants.

JSCC requires the deposit of margin based on customer positions for CDS, IRS, and Listed Derivatives transactions. For CDS and IRS transactions, customers are required to deposit the amount required for initial margin and variation margin. For Listed Derivatives, they are required to deposit the amount required for initial margin.

JSCC manages customer positions for OTC JGBs, CDS, and IRS transactions in individual accounts, and those for Listed Derivatives in an omnibus account, or an individual client account, as elected by the Clearing Participant. Customer margin is required to be deposited via Clearing Participants acting as agents to JSCC on a gross basis.

As in Key Consideration 1 of this Principle, customer margin is protected from Fellow Customer Risk by segregated management as required by the FIEA, JSCC's Business Rules, and subordinate rules.

Key Consideration 3:

A CCP should structure its portability arrangements in a way that makes it highly likely that the positions and collateral of a defaulting participant's customers will be transferred to one or more other participants.

As in the preceding Key Consideration 1, JSCC allows for the transfer of customer positions/margin. In addition to such procedures being stipulated in JSCC's Business Rules and their subordinate rules, the process is publicly disclosed when a Clearing Participant defaults. Furthermore, the effectiveness of JSCC's transfer arrangements was demonstrated during the 2008 Lehman Brothers Crisis.

Key Consideration 4:

A CCP should disclose its rules, policies, and procedures relating to the segregation and portability of a participant's customers' positions and related collateral. In particular, the CCP should disclose whether customer collateral is protected on an individual or omnibus basis. In addition, a CCP should disclose any constraints, such as legal or operational constraints, that may impair its ability to segregate or port a participant's customers' positions and related collateral.

The details of the segregated management and position/margin transfer arrangements for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses are specified in its Business Rules, their subordinate rules and related rules (for Listed Derivatives, including the exchange's rules). These rules are publicly available on JSCC's and the exchange's websites. Customer margin is protected from the risk of a Clearing Participant default and Fellow Customer Risk (See Key Considerations 2 through 3 of this Principle).

Japanese law stipulates that in the event of a Clearing Participant default, JSCC's rules shall be applied in preference to general Japanese Bankruptcy Act, for the management of outstanding positions, between the defaulting Clearing Participant and JSCC. As such, JSCC views the risk, cost and uncertainty related to segregated management and position/margin transfer arrangements to be extremely limited.

Business Risk Management and Operation Risk Management

Principle 15: General Business Risk

An FMI should identify, monitor, and manage its general business risk and hold sufficient liquid net assets funded by equity to cover potential general business losses so that it can continue operations and services as a going concern if those losses materialize. Further, liquid net assets should at all times be sufficient to ensure a recovery or orderly wind-down of critical operations and services.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should have robust management and control systems to identify, monitor, and manage general business risks, including losses from poor execution of business strategy, negative cash flows, or unexpected and excessively large operating expenses.

General business risks at JSCC are the risks and potential losses that may arise from JSCC's administration and operation and that are not related to the default of a Clearing Participant, nor are separately covered under credit or liquidity risk management framework.

These risks could result in losses from poor execution of business strategy, operational risk (including IT system risk and other operational risk), investment risk, negative cash flows, or unexpected and excessively large operating expenses.

In addition to continuously confirming the execution of business plans and financial conditions, JSCC monitors operational risk (including IT system risk and other operational risk) and investment risk on a monthly basis within the comprehensive risk management operation outlined in Principle 3 (Framework for the Comprehensive Management of Risks).

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should hold liquid net assets funded by equity (such as common stock, disclosed reserves, or other retained earnings) so that it can continue operations and services as a going concern if it incurs general business losses. The amount of liquid net assets funded by equity an FMI should hold should be determined by its general business risk profile and the length of time required to achieve a recovery of orderly wind-down, as appropriate, of its critical operations and services if such action is taken.

JSCC holds sufficient liquid net assets funded by equity to continue operations and service provision even if it incurs general business losses.

JSCC considers that the above liquid net assets funded by equity must be sufficient to cover a minimum of six months of operating expenses, to cover JSCC's operational risk (including IT system risk and other operational risk) and investment risk.

JSCC monitors the sufficiency of the above liquid net assets on a monthly basis within the comprehensive risk management operation outlined in Principle 3 (Framework for the Comprehensive Management of Risks).

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should maintain a viable recovery or orderly wind-down plan and should hold sufficient liquid net assets funded by equity equal to at least six months of current operating expenses. These assets are in addition to resources held to cover participant defaults or other risks covered under the financial resources principles. However, equity held under international risk-based capital standards can be included where relevant and appropriate to avoid duplicate capital requirements.

As mentioned above, JSCC holds sufficient liquid net assets funded by equity to cover operating expenses for 6 months. These liquid assets are managed separately from the resources used when a Clearing Participant defaults. Therefore, even in the event of JSCC's recovery or orderly wind-down, Clearing Participants would have sufficient time to address the transition in their operations.

Furthermore, JSCC has a capital recovery plan which lists the measures to address the situation during a 6-month period in the event of losing revenues due to an unexpected event, including system failure or inappropriate operations.

With regard to recovery and resolution, JSCC will revise its recovery plan, if necessary, based on continuing discussions with regulators, Clearing Participants, and other related parties regarding the international standards for FMI recovery and orderly resolution published by CPMI-IOSCO and the Financial Stability Board ("FSB").

Key Consideration 4:

Assets held to cover general business risk should be of high quality and sufficiently liquid in order to allow the FMI to meet its current and projected operating expenses under a range of scenarios, including in adverse market conditions.

JSCC's liquid net assets funded by equity are held in the form of Japanese Yen cash (deposited in settlement accounts, or on term deposit), JGBs, and government guaranteed bonds. These are of high quality and highly liquid, even in stressed market conditions. The settlement accounts held by JSCC are entirely covered by the Japanese Deposit Insurance System.

Japanese yen cash is held at banks which meet JSCC's specific criteria for investment risk. (See Principle 16 (Custody and Investment Risks) for further details.)

Key Consideration 5:

An FMI should maintain a viable plan for raising additional equity should its equity fall close to or below the amount needed. This plan should be approved by the board of directors and updated regularly.

JSCC's capital recovery plan details the actions which JSCC may take if its capital decreases significantly, or if it falls below the level required to cover 6 months of operating expenses. These actions may include:

- Comprehensive review of all expenses, including salaries and compensation;
- Revision of Clearing Fee;
- Revision of JSCC's Business Plan;
- Discussions with stakeholders, such as parent company and other shareholders, regarding an injection of additional capital; and
- Reassessment and restructuring of JSCC's businesses and operations.

JSCC reviews the Capital Recovery Plan at least once a year, and conducts revisions as necessary. When conducting revisions, the details of the revisions are reported to and approved by the Board of Directors as necessary.

Principle 16: Custody and Investment Risks

An FMI should safeguard its own and its participants' assets and minimise the risk of loss on and delay in access to these assets. An FMI's investments should be in instruments with minimal credit, market, and liquidity risks.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should hold its own and its participants' assets at supervised and regulated entities that have robust accounting practices, safekeeping procedures, and internal controls that fully protect these assets.

Custodian for JSCC's Assets

The scope of eligible investment products for JSCC's own assets is limited to term deposit, JGBs, and government guaranteed bonds, in accordance with JSCC's "Policies for Fund Management of Own Assets."

The custodians for deposit in settlement account and term deposit are limited to banks designated based on criteria specified by JSCC. See Principle 4 (Credit Risk) for further details.

JGBs and government guaranteed bonds are held in the customer accounts of the financial institutions from which JSCC purchased them. Even in the event of the default of such financial institutions, the customer account assets are protected by the "Act on Book-Entry Transfer of Company Bonds, Shares, etc."

Custody for Clearing Participant and Customer Assets

Custody of the collateral of Clearing Participants and their customers is limited to CSDs that are subject to the PFMI, and the central bank, as well as custodians that satisfy the criteria specified in JSCC's "Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral."

Management of Custodian Risk

Commercial banks holding JSCC's own assets are limited to those which satisfy JSCC's criteria. Banks holding assets of Clearing Participants and their customers posted as collateral are limited to CSDs, subject to the PFMI, and the central bank, as well as custodians that satisfy the "Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral."

The relevant criteria and guidelines require custodians, other than CSDs and the central bank, to be subject to regulatory supervision, have stable business processing capability, stable profitability, and a certain level of financial strength and credit.

JSCC regularly monitors all custodians from an operational risk perspective, and all custodians other than the central bank from a financial standing perspective.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should have prompt access to its assets and the assets provided by participants, when required.

Access to JSCC's Own Assets

JSCC holds its own assets in accounts under its own name, thus allowing for prompt access to such assets when necessary.

Access to Clearing Participant and Customer Deposited Assets

Collateral deposited by Clearing Participants and customers is held in accounts for the purpose of collateral custody under JSCC's name, thus allowing for JSCC's prompt access to such assets when necessary.

US Treasuries, deposited for the IRS Clearing Business and the CDS Clearing Business, are held in JSCC's account with a custodian located in the U.S., and foreign government bonds (US Treasuries and government bonds of UK, Germany, and France), deposited for the Listed Derivatives Clearing Business, are held in JSCC's account with an overseas CSD (Euroclear Bank SA/NV), and can be accessed promptly.

Legal Basis

Japanese law provides a sound legal basis for the rights of an account holder to access its assets.

The legal basis for access to the overseas CSD (Euroclear Bank SA/NV) that is the custodian for US Treasuries and the government bonds of UK, Germany, and France, has been confirmed in the course of the due diligence conducted on these entities as a part of the contract execution process.

The FIEA states that, in the event of a Clearing Participant default, with a prescription in a CCP's Business Rules, a defaulting Clearing Participant's collateral can be applied to the fulfillment of obligations with the CCP in preference to general bankruptcy proceedings, ensuring JSCC's stable access to collateral. (See Principle 1 (Legal Basis) for the handling of cross-border collateral.)

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should evaluate and understand its exposures to its custodian banks, taking into account the full scope of its relationships with each.

With a view to eliminating credit risk of custodians where collateral is deposited for Clearing Participants and their customers to the extent possible, as described in Key Consideration 1 of this Principle, custodians are limited to CSDs that are subject to the PFMI, the central bank, and commercial banks satisfying the criteria set forth in the "Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral." In the "Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral," JSCC requires custodians to have stable profitability, a certain level of financial strength and credit, and stable operational processing capabilities.

JSCC continuously monitors that custodians satisfy the "Policies for Designation of Custodians of Posted Collateral" by regularly receiving reports on the financial conditions of custodians and confirming the smooth execution of daily custody operations.

Additionally, JSCC has designated multiple banks as custodians of cash collateral. JSCC monitors the concentration status on a monthly basis.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI's investment strategy should be consistent with its overall risk-management strategy and fully disclosed to its participants, and investments should be secured by, or be claims on, high-quality obligors. These investments should allow for quick liquidation with little, if any, adverse price effect.

JSCC's basic investment policy is stipulated in the Risk Management Policy, which is subject to approval by the Board of Directors and Risk Oversight Committee. The scope of eligible products is restricted to ensure funds are invested only in the highly stable and liquid products. Specifics are specified in the "Policies for Fund Management of Own Assets" and "Policies for Management of Posted Collateral."

In accordance with these policies, JSCC limits the scope of eligible products for investment of collateral to ordinary deposits, lending to bank accounts of Trust Banks, and secured call loans on JGBs, and limits the scope of eligible products for investment of its own assets to term deposits, JGBs, and government guaranteed bonds. Only banks satisfying certain criteria are used as banks accepting ordinary deposit, term deposit, or lending to bank accounts of Trust Banks. Thereby credit risk related to asset management is mitigated, to the extent possible.

These policies are publicly available on JSCC's website.

Principle 17: Operational Risk

An FMI should identify the plausible sources of operational risk, both internal and external, and mitigate their impact through the use of appropriate systems, policies, procedures, and controls. Systems should be designed to ensure a high degree of security and operational reliability and should have adequate, scalable capacity. Business continuity management should aim for timely recovery of operations and fulfilment of the FMI's obligations, including in the event of a wide-scale or major disruption.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should establish a robust operational risk-management framework with appropriate systems, policies, procedures, and controls to identify, monitor, and manage operational risks.

JSCC's Risk Management Policy establishes a framework for internal controls to identify, monitor, and manage all operational risks across JSCC's Clearing Businesses. See Principle 3 (Framework for the Comprehensive Management of Risks) for further details.

Identification and Management of Operational Risk

JSCC's Risk Management Policy identifies the following risks and prescribes processes to manage them:

- General Operation Risk: operational mistakes, insufficient human resources, outsourcing risks
- System Risk: computer system failure, system malfunctions, improper usage of computers

In addition to these risks, the Risk Management Policy provides for basic policies for business continuity and related management methods in order to restore and continue operations as soon as possible in the event of a terrorist attack or large scale natural disaster.

JSCC manages operational risk within the comprehensive risk management operation. Specifically, reports are given to the Risk Oversight Committee on a monthly basis, regarding compliance with the Risk Management Policy related to General Operational Risk, System Risk, and the business continuity framework. Additionally, JSCC reports the same information to the Board of Directors on a quarterly basis. At least once a year, JSCC reviews the Risk Management Policy, including a review of the management policy for operational risk. See Principle 3 (Framework for the Comprehensive Management of Risks).

General Operation Risk Management

JSCC's Risk Management Policy stipulates basic policies for managing General Operation Risk. These include:

- Securing sufficient capacity for operations;
- Establishing an internal control framework to prevent operational errors;
- Establishing information security measures; and
- Managing outsourcing arrangements.

Based on the basic policies, JSCC stipulates the details of these within the following rules:

- Rules on Management of Operational Process;
- Information Security Basic Policies;
- Information Security Countermeasure Standards; and
- Outsourcing Management Rules.

As part of its internal control framework to prevent operational errors, when establishing operational flows, JSCC uses Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) methods to identify potential risks and devises measures to prevent and control them in advance. The risks arising from each business are identified via the ERM framework on a regular and company-wide basis, and appropriate measures are planned to prevent their occurrence, based on frequency and severity. Through this process, when changing rules or introducing new products, JSCC enables stable and continuous operations which do not rely on specific staff, by accumulating the knowledge among operational staff and outsourced personnel.

Additionally, each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses verify their manuals/checklists at least once a year, and conduct revisions as necessary when introducing new products and changing rules.

In the event operational errors occur for one of the Clearing Businesses, JSCC will investigate the cause and devise measures to prevent reoccurrence which are reported to the Risk Oversight Committee, depending on significance and impact. Through this process, JSCC continuously controls General Operation Risks.

System Risk Management

JSCC's Risk Management Policy stipulates the basic policies for managing System Risk. These include:

- Secure sufficient system processing capacity;
- Conduct system development based on an appropriate plan with sufficient testing;
- Prepare a contingency plan for the occurrence of system failures and cyber security incidents;
- Establish information security measures; and
- Manage outsourcing arrangements.

Based on the basic policies, JSCC stipulates the details of these in the:

- System Risk Management Policy;
- System Risk Management Rules;
- Information Security Basic Policies;
- Information Security Countermeasures Standards;
- Outsourcing Management Rules; and
- Manual for Handling Incidents Suspected of Cyberterrorism

JSCC outsources primary system processes for its Clearing Businesses. JSCC evaluates the associated risks according to the "Outsourcing Management Rules" and "Outsourcing Selection Criteria."

Should an unexpected event occur, such as a system failure, JSCC will investigate the cause and devise measures to prevent reoccurrence which are to be reported to the Risk Management Committee, depending on significance and impact. In addition to this, JSCC reports system capacity and processing capabilities, system development status, and outsourcing management status to the Risk Oversight Committee. Through this process, JSCC continuously controls System Risk.

Potential Single Points of Failure

Within the system development process for its Clearing Businesses, JSCC identifies single points of failure in advance, and incorporates redundant configurations. Additionally, JSCC verifies whether failovers occur as expected in system testing. As such, JSCC does not view there to be any potential single points of failure in its IT systems operating Clearing Businesses.

Business Continuity Plan

JSCC's Risk Management Policy stipulates the basic policies and management methods related to the business continuity framework. These include:

- Preparing redundancy within IT systems;
- Securing a back-up data center and back-up office;
- Preparing a Business Continuity Plan; and
- Aiming to restore business operations within 2 hours.

Based on the basic policies, JSCC stipulates the details of these in the "BCP Basic Plan." Furthermore the two hour target for restoring business operations is in line with the business continuity target set by the Securities Market BCP Forum, which is a conference for the Japanese securities industry.

In the event a risk occurs which threatens JSCC's business continuity, JSCC will take measures based on the "BCP Basic Plan" to prevent and control factors which harm business continuity.

JSCC has equipped its systems with redundancy and established a back-up data center and back-up office, the effectiveness of which it regularly verifies. The specific verification framework includes synchronization between primary and back-up centers, regular data center switching drills, maintenance of back-up office equipment and facilities, executing operations from the back-up office, updating manuals based on the "BCP Basic Plan" and staff BCP education.

JSCC reports the progress of the above to the Risk Oversight Committee. Through this process, JSCC confirms the effectiveness of its BCP.

Framework to Secure Necessary Personnel and Personnel Compliance

JSCC continuously strives to secure human resources with the ability to execute its Clearing Businesses and perform risk management.

Specifically, to reduce the risk of losing key personnel, JSCC employs individuals with the necessary operational and risk management knowledge for each Clearing Business, and cultivates employee knowledge and capabilities via education and training.

JSCC's Risk Management Policy stipulates the basic policies for managing compliance risk. These include establishing a compliance framework based on a compliance program including a code of conduct, and keeping staff informed of the program's details. Based on these basic policies, JSCC stipulates the Code of Conduct setting forth common standards for officers and employees, the arrangement concerning management of internal information and the Compliance Program, for which it continuously conducts employee education and training. JSCC reports risk management conditions related to compliance to the Risk Oversight Committee as necessary. Through this process, JSCC prevents misconduct.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI's board of directors should clearly define the roles and responsibilities for addressing operational risk and should endorse the FMI's operational risk-management framework. Systems, operational policies, procedures, and controls should be reviewed, audited, and tested periodically and after significant changes.

JSCC's Board of Directors has final responsibility in relation to JSCC's operational risk management. Through the comprehensive risk management operation, JSCC manages operational risk. Revisions of the Risk Management Policy, which provides for basic risk management policies, are made via resolution by the Board of Directors. JSCC validates the Risk Management Policy at least once a year. The process and the results of this validation are reported to the Board of Directors. See Principle 2 (Governance) for more details on the roles of JSCC senior management and the Board of Directors.

JSCC's Board of Directors receives reports regarding compliance with the Risk Management Policy for operational risk on a quarterly basis. JSCC provides the Operational Procedures to realize smooth clearing operations with Clearing Participants. Additionally, JSCC provides System Connection Specifications to realize stable system operations with Clearing Participants. These Operational Procedures and System Specifications clarify operational details and deadlines to avoid misunderstanding with Clearing Participants, and facilitate operational risk management. When changing operational procedures and implementing new products, these documents are revised as necessary and system testing is performed with Clearing Participants in advance, thus allowing for verification and evaluation.

Furthermore, for replacement of critical systems, or similar large development projects, JSCC will seek evaluation by external experts, when necessary.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should have clearly defined operational reliability objectives and should have policies in place that are designed to achieve those objectives.

JSCC's Risk Management Policies clearly define their objective to "establish robust and comprehensive risk management frameworks, ensure steady provision of the Clearing Businesses, and prevent a loss of JSCC's capital."

To achieve this objective, JSCC regularly confirms that all critical systems have sufficient processing capacity for current levels of utilization and forecasted future requirements. Capacity targets and actual performance data are presented in the monthly Risk Oversight Committee, and the sufficiency of system capacity and processing capabilities is confirmed.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should ensure that it has scalable capacity adequate to handle increasing stress volumes and to achieve its service-level objectives.

JSCC has put in place the following measures to ensure its systems have sufficient processing capabilities:

- All critical systems are required to have sufficient processing capacity to handle a steep increase in processing volume; and
- A warning threshold is implemented into monitoring procedures, which triggers if utilization exceeds certain threshold set according to the features of each system. This is to ensure that measures can be implemented to increase the system capacity well in advance of the required time frame.

Key Consideration 5:

An FMI should have comprehensive physical and information security policies that address all potential vulnerabilities and threats.

Physical Security

The primary data center which houses JSCC's clearing system satisfies all the requirements of "The Center for Financial Industry Information Systems: Security Guidelines on Computer Systems for Banking and Related Financial Institutions," which is the standard for Japanese financial market safety, and has received ISMS certification.

For continuous certification, ISMS conducts ongoing review and examination for certification renewal, once a year and once each three years, respectively. Risk mitigation measures are taken if necessary as a result of such review.

In addition, JSCC has established the “Information Security Basic Policies” and “Information Security Countermeasure Standards” as internal rules, under which measures against physical vulnerability and threats have been implemented.

Information Security

JSCC’s “Information Security Basic Policies” provides basic policies and a management framework for appropriately handling information assets. In the “Information Security Countermeasure Standards,” which is based on the “Information Security Basic Policies,” JSCC stipulates matters to be handled from the viewpoint of information security in relation to its information and information systems. These include management of connections to external networks, anti-virus measures, and the establishment of system access procedures.

When establishing the “Information Security Basic Policies” and “Information Security Countermeasure Standards,” JSCC consulted with experts on industry standards.

The Division responsible for JSCC’s information security confirms compliance conditions with the “Information Security Basic Policies” and “Information Security Countermeasure Standards” on an annual basis. If it is determined that the current criteria are not appropriate, as a result of this check, due to a change in industry standards, advancement of technology, or other reasons, the criteria shall be revised and updated.

Additionally, JSCC has confirmed that the outsourcee for the clearing system has stipulated technology security objectives for JSCC’s clearing system, and satisfies the certification criteria of ISO27001/ISMS.

Key Consideration 6:

An FMI should have a business continuity plan that addresses events posing a significant risk of disrupting operations, including events that could cause a wide-scale or major disruption. The plan should incorporate the use of a secondary site and should be designed to ensure that critical information technology (IT) systems can resume operations within two hours following disruptive events. The plan should be designed to enable the FMI to complete settlement by the end of the day of the disruption, even in case of extreme circumstances. The FMI should regularly test these arrangements.

Objectives of BCP Basic Plan

The purpose of JSCC’s “BCP Basic Plan” is to restore and resume JSCC’s business operations, following a terrorist attack or natural disaster.

Design of BCP Basic Plan

JSCC’s “BCP Basic Plan” stipulates that even if an event which causes entire or partial operation interruption occurs (risk event), measures shall be taken to enable prompt recovery and resumption of material business operations, and the detailed measures thereof. These include employment of secure system redundancy, establishment of back-up data centers, and back-up offices.

JSCC’s “BCP Basic Plan” is designed to enable full recovery of its business operations within 2 hours of the occurrence of a terrorist attack, natural disaster, or other risk events. It also sets forth communication flow with internal and external critical stakeholders and regulators.

Secondary Site

JSCC maintains a secondary site in addition to its primary site. Clearing systems are located at both sites and are equipped with the same level of processing capacity.

The secondary site is maintained as an active site, which allows for swift switchover from the primary site. Full-time system operations personnel are assigned to the secondary site.

JSCC's primary and secondary sites are geographically separated with different power and communications infrastructure. JSCC sees an extremely low probability of both sites simultaneously being affected by a disaster. A full detailed analysis of the risk profile was conducted at the time the secondary site was selected.

Data synchronization between JSCC's primary and secondary centers runs on a semi-real-time basis (1-minute intervals). Therefore JSCC considers that the possibility of data loss is extremely low.

In the unlikely event of data loss in the clearing system, JSCC would be able to recover lost data by employing processes such as data acquisition from, and reconciliation with, other market operators and financial institutions.

Review and Testing

In order to verify the adequacy and effectiveness of JSCC's "BCP Basic Plan," JSCC conducts BCP fire-drills at least once a year. These fire-drills include data synchronization to the back-up data center, regular data center switchover tests, back-up office maintenance, running operations from the back-up center, updating manuals based on the "BCP Basic Plan," and staff BCP education.

JSCC participates, alongside other FMIs, such as the BOJ and JASDEC, in an industry-wide BCP exercise organized by the JSDA and Japanese Bankers Association, or BCP exercise organized by another FMI, at least once per year.

These exercises assume a wide-area disaster and involve a broad scope of institutions.

Based on the results and opinions/recommendations arising from these exercises, JSCC will amend the "BCP Basic Plan" as necessary.

JSCC makes reports regarding the matters above to the Risk Oversight Committee. Through this process, JSCC continually confirms the effectiveness of its business continuity framework.

Key Consideration 7:

An FMI should identify, monitor, and manage the risks that key participants, other FMIs, and service and utility providers might pose to its operations. In addition, an FMI should identify, monitor, and manage the risks its operations might pose to other FMIs.

Risks to JSCC's Operations from outside entities

Within JSCC's "BCP Basic Plan" and "Guidelines for Handling upon System Failure," JSCC provides contingency plans for cases of a system failure on the side of other FMIs, market operators, or Clearing Participants with which JSCC has connection. The effectiveness of these plans is confirmed through the BCP exercise process detailed above.

JSCC identifies risks related to system development and operations on the side of outsourcees and regularly confirms the status of response measures, in addition to confirming the satisfaction of reliability and contingency criteria by regularly holding switchover drills with such outsourcees.

Risks that JSCC may pose to other FMI

Should JSCC experience an operational risk event, JSCC has formulated arrangements with other FMIs to deal with such situations in the “BCP Basic Plan.” This ensures that an operational risk event at JSCC does not have a systemic impact on other FMI.

Principle 18: Access and Participation Requirements

An FMI should have objective, risk-based, and publicly disclosed criteria for participation, which permit fair and open access.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should allow for fair and open access to its services, including by direct and, where relevant, indirect participants and other FMIs, based on reasonable risk-related participation requirements.

JSCC has established criteria for the acquisition and maintenance of Clearing Qualification for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses⁸⁰. Each Clearing Business's criteria are rationally aligned with the risks and nature of that business, do not impose excessive restrictions on entities eligibility for participation, and ensures open access to those applying for Clearing Qualification. JSCC has established no limitations on the attributes of Clearing Participant customers and does not charge fees that operate to overly limit participation.

Based on the assumption that an applicant is an entity registered with the JFSA, participation criteria broadly cover the following requirements:

- Management Structure;
- Financial Requirements; and
- Business Structure.

The participation criteria are stipulated in the Business Rules of each Clearing Business and have been approved by the JFSA. This approval is based on the FIEA's prohibition of discriminatory treatment, and affirms the open access which the criteria provide⁸¹. The participation criteria are publicly available.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI's participation requirements should be justified in terms of the safety and efficiency of the FMI and the markets it serves, be tailored to and commensurate with the FMI's specific risks, and publicly disclosed. Subject to maintaining acceptable risk control standards, an FMI should endeavor to set requirements that have the least restrictive impact on access that circumstances permit.

JSCC has established participation criteria that are rationally aligned with the relevant risks, the nature of each Clearing Business, and the attributes of Clearing Participants. JSCC considers the criteria to feature minimum and sufficient requirements for maintaining the stability and efficiency of its Clearing Businesses.

Participation in the Listed Products (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business or OTC JGB Clearing Business is divided into Principal and Agency. The participation criteria for Agency Clearing Participants, which are able to provide clearing access to other entities, are stricter than those for Principal Clearing Participants. When Clearing Participants for the IRS Clearing Business provide clearing services to non-Affiliate customers, JSCC requires the maintenance of a structure for properly managing customer risk and preventing improper infringement of customer interests. Entities eligible to be JSCC Clearing Participants include Financial Instrument Business Operators, banks, or insurance companies. JSCC has established eligibility criteria based on indicators of financial soundness appropriate for these entities.

The participation criteria are publicly available, and can be accessed by all current and potential Clearing Participants. The participation criteria are amended as needed according to changes in the regulatory environment and general market conditions.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should monitor compliance with its participation requirements on an ongoing basis and have clearly defined and publicly disclosed procedures for facilitating the suspension and orderly exit of a participant that breaches, or no longer meets, the participation requirements.

Monitoring Participant Compliance

JSCC continuously monitors Clearing Participants for ongoing compliance with the participation criteria for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses.

(1) Monitoring Compliance with Financial Criteria

JSCC receives reports on Clearing Participant finances monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, and annually to monitor the soundness of Clearing Participant finances. The reports Clearing Participants submit to JSCC are the same as those submitted to regulators. Additionally, JSCC monitors daily news for information on Clearing Participant finances, as well as credit ratings, market information (stock prices, CDS/bond spreads).

(2) Monitoring Compliance with Management/Business Structure Criteria

JSCC requires Clearing Participants to submit a report when there is a change in executive officer or major shareholder in order to monitor the soundness of their management. JSCC also monitors daily news for information on Clearing Participant management, and business structure, such as office transfers or reductions in operations. JSCC also conducts monitoring of daily clearing operations, including payments, securities deliveries, and whether collateral is deposited on time.

Measures against Clearing Participants

When JSCC determines that a Clearing Participant does not satisfy participation criteria or has violated JSCC rules, JSCC will take disciplinary measures against the Clearing Participant according to the methods prescribed in the Business Rules of each Clearing Business⁸².

Before determining the measures, JSCC will consult the Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee regarding the appropriateness of the measures. The Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee is composed of multiple experts, including lawyers and academics, and is independent from JSCC. The Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee Rules stipulates that a committee member having any special interest in an agenda item is not allowed to participate in the relevant deliberation.

These measures include issuing instructions on business structure or position improvement, the suspension of all or part of its clearing services and revocation of Clearing Qualification for the relevant Clearing Participant. Prior to these measures, JSCC may request the submission of materials or conduct an on-site examination to gain a better understanding of the Clearing Participant's finances, management, and business structure, if JSCC deems such a request necessary to ensure the stable operations of the Clearing Business. In order to promote improvement at the Clearing Participant, JSCC may recommend appropriate measures based on its rules.

In cases where a Clearing Participant withdraws from the Clearing Business due to revocation of qualifications, such Clearing Participant is required to dissolve its positions and fulfill its obligations before its qualifications are revoked. As such, JSCC ensures the withdrawal of a Clearing Participant is conducted in an orderly manner.

If JSCC suspends clearing for a Clearing Participant or revokes a Clearing Participant's Clearing Qualification, it will notify all relevant stakeholders, including other Clearing Participants and market operators, and make a public announcement.

Principle 19: Tiered Participation Arrangements

An FMI should identify, monitor, and manage the material risks to the FMI arising from tiered participation arrangements.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should ensure that its rules, procedures, and agreements allow it to gather basic information about indirect participation in order to identify, monitor, and manage any material risks to the FMI arising from such tiered participation arrangements.

Clearing Participants are direct participants of JSCC with access to JSCC's Clearing Businesses.

Entities that are not Clearing Participants may access JSCC's clearing services through a Clearing Participant, as a customer of such Clearing Participant, in accordance with a contract with such Clearing Participant ("Indirect Participant"). The scope of Indirect Participants may vary by Clearing Business, and includes brokers, banks, asset managers, pension funds, hedge funds, non-financial corporate entities, and individuals.

For each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses, the following Indirect Participants are accepted:

- Listed Products Clearing Business: Customers (including Indirect Customers) of Clearing Participants, Trading Participants of Exchanges (non-JSCC Clearing Participants) and customers (including Indirect Customers) of Trading Participants⁸³
- CDS Clearing Business: Affiliates of Clearing Participant
- IRS Clearing Business: Customers of Clearing Participant⁸⁴
- OTC JGB Clearing Business: Affiliates of Clearing Participant

(1) Rules/Agreements for Gathering Indirect Participant Information

JSCC's Business Rules, subordinate rules, and Clearing Brokerage Agreements authorize it to gather information on the nature of Indirect Participants via Clearing Participants.

The rules for JSCC's Listed Product (Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) Clearing Business state that, when JSCC requests, a Clearing Participant must provide information relating to the position of Indirect Participants, allowing JSCC to maintain an understanding of each Indirect Participant's positions⁸⁵. For the Listed Derivatives, the Clearing Participants are allowed, under the rules, to elect for the management of each Customer, or Indirect Customer, in individual client accounts. In this case, JSCC has full disclosure of the positions of the Customers and Indirect Customers⁸⁶. When a Clearing Participant elects for the management of its Customers using an omnibus client account, the Clearing Participant is required to report the position details to JSCC, for each customer or Indirect Customer, on a daily basis, according to the customer position management style. In both cases, if a client's position are considered to be excessive, JSCC may request that the Clearing Participant report additional information relating to the position, such as the margin requirement related to the position, the margin deposit status concerning that position, and the Clearing Participant's status of management of the relevant customer or Indirect Customer. If, despite JSCC's request, the Clearing Participant fails to submit this additional information, JSCC may increase the Initial Margin requirement for the relevant Clearing Participant, or issue an instruction to reduce the position⁸⁷. Thereby, JSCC has effective knowledge of the positions of each Indirect Participant.

The Business Rules and subordinate rules for JSCC's CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses provide that separate accounts should be maintained for each Indirect Participant at JSCC. This allows JSCC to maintain an understanding of each Indirect Participant's positions⁸⁸.

(2) Risks to JSCC arising from Tiered Participation

Please see Key Consideration 3 of this Principle for the risks to JSCC arising from tiered participation arrangements and the management of such.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should identify material dependencies between direct and Indirect Participants that might affect the FMI.

By monitoring the position risk of Clearing Participants, JSCC is able to identify dependencies between Clearing Participants and Indirect Participants. Specifically, in order to avoid a customer's default having a significant impact on such customer's Clearing Participant, JSCC will, as necessary, request information from a Clearing Participant regarding the positions of individual Indirect Participants and their risk management, and confirm whether there are any issues in comparison to the financial strength of such Clearing Participant.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should identify Indirect Participants responsible for a significant proportion of transactions processed by the FMI and Indirect Participants whose transaction volumes or values are large relative to the capacity of the direct participants through which they access the FMI in order to manage the risks arising from these transactions.

Clearing Participants are responsible for their related Indirect Participants' financial obligations to JSCC, even when such Indirect Participants do not fulfill such obligations. As such, JSCC monitors whether Clearing Participants have excessive exposure to Indirect Participants in comparison to their financial strength at least once a day for all products, and more frequently for certain products.

Additionally, under the Business Rules and subordinate rules, JSCC may acquire additional information from Clearing Participants on each Indirect Participant as necessary, allowing it to maintain an understanding of detailed position information and risk management of Indirect Participants, and identify Indirect Participants which may have a significant impact on Clearing Participant risk management. Through these measures JSCC conducts its risk management.

Based on this monitoring, JSCC may take additional risk reduction measures, such as requiring additional collateral or a reduction of positions.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should regularly review risks arising from tiered participation arrangements and should take mitigating action when appropriate.

When determining to take the risk reduction measures mentioned in Key Consideration 3 of this Principle, JSCC consults with the Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee to ensure the objective propriety of such measures. The Disciplinary Measures Assessment Committee is composed of 5 members, including lawyers, academics, and other experts, and maintains independence from JSCC.

Principle 20: FMI Links

An FMI that establishes a link with one or more FMIs should identify, monitor, and manage link-related risks.

Key Consideration 1:

Before entering into a link arrangement and on an ongoing basis once the link is established, an FMI should identify, monitor, and manage all potential sources of risk arising from the link arrangement. Link arrangements should be designed such that each FMI is able to observe the other principles in this report.

JSCC conducts an assessment of potential risks prior to establishing a proposed link arrangement, including those related to trading and clearing. In this assessment, JSCC examines the potential risks relating to legal, credit, liquidity, regulatory, and operational areas that may have an impact on JSCC.

Currently, JSCC only has FMI links with the following entities:

- JASDEC, as custodian of securities settlement and collateral in municipal and corporate bonds, listed stocks, ETF, REIT, CB and non-exchange traded investment trusts for the Listed Product Clearing Business.
- BOJ, as a Fund Settlement Bank for money settlement and a custodian of JGB settlement and collateral.
- Euroclear Bank SA / NV as custodian for foreign government bonds (US Treasuries, government bonds of UK, Germany and France)
- DTCC Data Repository (U.S.) LLC, as a trade repository of trade information under CFTC Regulations for the IRS Clearing Business.
- Hong Kong Trade Repository (hereinafter referred to as "HKTR"), an OTC derivatives trade repository operated by the Hong Kong Monetary Authority, as an organization to which trade information shall be reported under the SFO for the IRS Clearing Business.

These links are established by JSCC's participation in the systems of each FMI. Each FMI is subject to the PFMI, and therefore any potential sources of risk (such as legal, credit, liquidity, custody, and operational risk) are expected to be properly managed.

Key Consideration 2:

A link should have a well-founded legal basis, in all relevant jurisdictions, that supports its design and provides adequate protection to the FMIs involved in the link.

All links currently maintained by JSCC are with Japanese FMIs, except for Euroclear Bank SA / NV, DTCC Data Repository (U.S.) LLC and HKTR, and are implemented under Japanese law. Links with Euroclear Bank SA / NV are implemented under the laws of the United Kingdom and Belgium. Links with DTCC Data Repository (U.S.) LLC are implemented under the laws of the United States. Links with HKTR are implemented under the laws of Hong Kong.

Euroclear Bank SA / NV is an overseas CSD subject to the PFMI, and its legal basis for provision of appropriate protection to FMI was confirmed as part of the due diligence conducted in the course of the contract execution.

DTCC Data Repository (U.S.) LLC is registered as a Swap Data Repository ("SDR") under CFTC Regulations, and thus is confirmed to have a well-founded legal basis providing appropriate protection to FMIs.

HKTR is an OTC derivatives trade repository operated by the Hong Kong Monetary Authority under the Exchange Fund Ordinance, and is confirmed to have a well-founded legal basis providing appropriate protection on FMIs.

Key Consideration 3:

Linked CSDs should measure, monitor, and manage the credit and liquidity risks arising from each other. Any credit extensions between CSDs should be covered fully with high-quality collateral and be subject to limits.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC is not a CSD.

Key Consideration 4:

Provisional transfers of securities between linked CSDs should be prohibited or, at a minimum, the retransfer of provisionally transferred securities should be prohibited prior to the transfer becoming final.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC is not a CSD.

Key Consideration 5:

An investor CSD should only establish a link with an issuer CSD if the arrangement provides a high level of protection for the rights of the investor CSD's participants.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC is not a CSD.

Key Consideration 6:

An investor CSD that uses an intermediary to operate a link with an issuer CSD should measure, monitor, and manage the additional risks (including custody, credit, legal, and operational risks) arising from the use of the intermediary.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC is not a CSD.

Key Consideration 7:

Before entering into a link with another CCP, a CCP should identify and manage the potential spill-over effects from the default of the linked CCP. If a link has three or more CCPs, each CCP should identify, assess, and manage the risk of the collective link arrangement.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC has not established a link with another CCP.

Key Consideration 8:

Each CCP in a CCP link arrangement should be able to cover, at least on a daily basis, its current and potential future exposures to the linked CCP and its participants, if any, fully with a high degree of confidence without reducing the CCP's ability to fulfil its obligations to its own participants at any time.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC has not established a link with another CCP.

Key Consideration 9:

A TR should carefully assess the additional operational risks related to its links to ensure the scalability and reliability of IT and related resources.

This consideration is not applicable as JSCC is not a TR.

Efficiency

Principle 21: Efficiency and Effectiveness

An FMI should be efficient and effective in meeting the requirements of its participants and the markets it serves.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should be designed to meet the needs of its participants and the markets it serves, in particular, with regard to choice of a clearing and settlement arrangement; operating structure; scope of products clearing, settled, order recorded; and use of technology and procedures.

JSCC has formal processes involving Clearing Participants to ensure its development of products and services is in-line with market needs. JSCC has established advisory committees for each Clearing Business for this purpose, specifically the Listed Products Management Committee, CDS Management Committee, IRS Management Committee, and OTC JGB Management Committee. These committees are composed of the members, including those from Clearing Participants, and are consulted with regarding major clearing/settlement frameworks, operational processing frameworks, and product development, before such matters are decided upon by the Board of Directors.

For the CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses, in order to accurately reflect Clearing Participant opinions, JSCC has established subordinate committees for those mentioned above. These include committees for risk management, operational, and legal areas.

Additionally, JSCC receives feedback related to rules/procedure revisions of clearing/settlement frameworks, operational processing frameworks, and product development via public comments and informal discussions with Clearing Participants and customers. These arrangements aim to ensure a broad range of opinions are considered in the process of establishing a properly functioning market between a diverse range of Clearing Participants and customers.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should have clearly defined goals and objectives that are measurable and achievable, such as in the areas of minimum services levels, risk-management expectations, and business priorities.

JSCC provides in its Corporate Philosophy:

“JSCC, with a solid risk-management framework, aims to enhance the competitiveness of Japanese financial and capital markets by improving the efficiency, serviceability and safety of financial market post-trade processing infrastructure.”

JSCC has defined 2 basic policies to achieve its Corporate Philosophy, namely “reinforcement of Clearing Functions, Risk Management and IT Systems towards Service Quality Improvement,” “reinforcement of the Company’s Role as Core Infrastructure through Expansion of the Scope of Services.”⁸⁹

⁸⁹ <https://www.jpx.co.jp/jsccl/en/company/philosophy.html>

In order to achieve its objectives, JSCC establishes a medium-term management plan to realize specific policies based on the surrounding environment, and reports the progress on a quarterly-basis to senior management and on at least an annual-basis to the Board of Directors, thereby ensuring it is measurable and attainable.

JSCC has established a comprehensive risk management framework in order to achieve the “with solid risk-management framework” in its Corporate Philosophy, under which JSCC identifies, monitors, and manages the risks it faces.

Within the comprehensive risk management, for system risk management, JSCC has set targets for system processing capacity and time required for system processing. JSCC also manages the level of financial resources it should hold.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should have established mechanisms for the regular review of its efficiency and effectiveness.

As above, JSCC has established a framework for confirming the progress of the medium-term management plan and a framework for business management to systematically manage various risks. Within the regular review of these frameworks, JSCC conducts reviews of measures which have been implemented from the perspective of systems, operations, and costs.

Principle 22: Communications Procedures and Standards

An FMI should use, or at a minimum accommodate, relevant internationally accepted communication procedures and standards in order to facilitate efficient payment, clearing, settlement, and recording.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should use, or at a minimum accommodate, internationally accepted communication procedures and standards.

JSCC uses widely accepted communication procedures and standards for communications with Clearing Participants, Fund Settlement Banks, and linked FMIs. JSCC uses the following procedures and standards for external communications.

Procedures/Standards for Communication with Clearing Participants

(1) Listed Products Clearing Business (Clearing Business concerning Cash Products and Listed Derivatives)

JSCC provides dedicated terminals to Clearing Participants for everyday clearing operations. Additionally, Clearing Participants are able to use an API provided by JSCC to directly access JSCC's clearing system. JSCC also provides connection specifications for the JSCC clearing system to Clearing Participants that request them.

(2) CDS/IRS Clearing Businesses

JSCC provides trade data and other services via various portal sites, FTP (File Transfer Protocol), MQ messaging, and FpML (Financial Products Markup Language) format.

For the CDS Clearing Business, JSCC processes applications for clearing from Clearing Participants via the Trade Information Warehouse provided by The Warehouse Trust Company LLC.

For the IRS Clearing Business, JSCC processes applications for clearing from Clearing Participants through MarkitWire, provided by MarkitSERV Limited, electronic trading platforms (i.e., VCON (Voice Confirmation) function or ETP (Electronic Trading Platform) function, provided by Bloomberg Tradebook Japan Limited, QUICK-Confirmation provided by QUICK Corp. and Clear Markets Japan ETP (Electronic Trading Platform) provided by Clearing Markets Japan, Inc.) and electronic trade affirmation platforms designated by JSCC.

(3) OTC JGB Clearing Business

OTC JGB Clearing Business Communications between JSCC and Clearing Participants are conducted over TCP/IP (Transmission Control Protocol/Internet Protocol) using the Pre-Settlement Matching System provided by JASDEC, with processing based on ISO20022 messaging.

Procedures/Standards for Communication with Fund Settlement Banks

JSCC uses BOJ-NET for its JPY-settlement at the central bank.

Additionally, for the transfer of Japanese Yen collateral for the Listed Products Clearing Business (Clearing Business concerning Cash Products and Listed Derivatives) through commercial banks, JSCC processes the transfer of funds through the firm banking system based on Japanese Bankers Association procedures.

JSCC processes payment/receipt of funds in non-JPY currencies, for the settlement under the IRS Clearing Business, through commercial banks using the SWIFT financial messaging service.

Procedures/Standards for Communication with CSD

Connection with BOJ (CSD for JGBs)

For book-entry transfer/DVP settlement of JGBs at BOJ, JSCC conducts operational procedures based on system connection specifications using ISO20022XML message, provided by BOJ.

Connection with JASDEC (CSD for stocks)

For book-entry transfer/DVP settlement of stocks at JASDEC, JSCC conducts operational procedures via access to JASDEC's network system, using ISO20022 XML messaging as the connection specifications.

Transparency

Principle 23: Disclosure of Rules, Key Procedures, and Market Data

An FMI should have clear and comprehensive rules and procedures and should provide sufficient information to enable participants to have an accurate understanding of the risks, fees, and other material costs they incur by participating in the FMI. All relevant rules and key procedures should be public disclosed.

Key Consideration 1:

An FMI should adopt clear and comprehensive rules and procedures that are fully disclosed to participants. Relevant rules and key procedures should also be publicly disclosed.

Business Rules

The Business Rules and subordinate rules for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses are fully disclosed on JSCC's website, in Japanese and English. The Business Rules comprehensively provide details under normal conditions of the responsibilities of Clearing Participants, Clearing Participant default procedures, responses to system failures, and emergency measures during natural disasters. Additionally, JSCC has established contingency plans which specify responses, procedures, and arrangements for each product eligible for clearing during times of emergency. All of these are disclosed on JSCC's website.

In cases where JSCC must add a revision to the Business Rules or subordinate rules, JSCC consults the advisory committee of the relevant Clearing Business regarding the details of the revision in advance, excluding insignificant revisions. See Principle 2 (Governance) for details on the advisory committees.

In cases where a revision to the Business Rules or subordinate rules would impact investors, JSCC compiles an outline of the proposed revision and submits it for public comment. This process allows Clearing Participants and investors to understand the aim of the revision and its impact.

General Information

JSCC's website is publicly accessible and provides the following information related to clearing and settlement:

- JSCC's background, company overview, and corporate philosophy;
- Governance;
- Risk Appetite Statement;
- Clearing Participant criteria and list of Clearing Participants;
- Clearing business framework;
- Details on eligible collateral, custody and investment status;
- Margin, Clearing Fund, and loss compensation framework;
- Participant default procedures;
- Statistical Information; and
- Clearing fees.

Key Consideration 2:

An FMI should disclose clear descriptions of the system's design and operations, as well as the FMI's and participant's rights and obligations, so that participants can assess the risks they would incur by participating in the FMI.

Descriptions of JSCC's Clearing Business framework, including the claims and obligations between JSCC and Clearing Participants and operational procedures, are stipulated in the Business Rules and subordinate rules for each Clearing Business. JSCC's Business Rules and subordinate rules are publicly available via its website.

The details which compose the core of JSCC's Clearing Business framework are stipulated in the Business Rules and subordinate rules. When revising these rules, as in Key Consideration 1 of this Principle, JSCC provides the details of the revisions to interested parties via consultation with Clearing Business advisory committees and a public comment process.

Additionally, the Business Rules and subordinate rules stipulate the scope of matters that JSCC is able to determine at its discretion in the course of its Clearing Business operations.

JSCC provides a wide range of information to Clearing Participants, to enable Clearing Participants to evaluate the risks and costs pertaining to participation in JSCC, including the following:

- Eligible products for clearing and details of the requirements for clearing;
- Eligible collateral and applicable haircuts;
- Management of Clearing Participant default and measures to be taken for it, including available financial resources; and
- Loss Compensation Scheme (Risk Waterfall) for each Clearing Business.

This information is included in JSCC's Business Rules and subordinate rules, which are public documents. JSCC also provides the "Operational Procedures," which stipulate details for the operations of each Clearing Business, to Clearing Participants.

Key Consideration 3:

An FMI should provide all necessary and appropriate documentation and training to facilitate participants' understanding of the FMI's rules and procedures and the risks they face from participating in the FMI.

JSCC holds explanatory sessions for new Clearing Participants, to facilitate their understanding of the clearing framework and procedures before granting Clearing Qualifications. JSCC makes efforts to familiarize Clearing Participants with JSCC's rules and procedures in explanatory sessions on Clearing Businesses when required, such as when revising rules or introducing new products.

For the CDS, IRS, and OTC JGB Clearing Businesses, JSCC holds regular default management fire-drills, to familiarize Clearing Participants with the Clearing Participant default management procedures, which would apply to non-defaulting Clearing Participants.

To promote disclosure to its Clearing Participants, JSCC distributes a "Risk Profile Report" which contains key information related to risk management, including the status of collateral deposited by Clearing Participants and the status of the adequacy of loss compensation financial resources.

Clearing Participants' ongoing compliance with JSCC's rules and procedures demonstrates their understanding, and confirms that the rules and procedures are clear and comprehensive.

JSCC's Business Rules provide for issuing improvement orders when JSCC recognizes a deficiency in a Clearing Participant's business execution structure. Through this, JSCC is capable of issuing corrective measures to the Clearing Participant demonstrating a deficiency in understanding of JSCC's rules and procedures and the risks pertaining to participation.

Key Consideration 4:

An FMI should publicly disclose its fees at the level of individual services it offers as well as its policies on any available discounts. The FMI should provide clear descriptions of priced services for comparability purposes.

JSCC publicly discloses the clearing fee structure on its website. Rules relating to fees, including details of fee rates for each product and the details of discounts, are set forth in the rules for each of JSCC's Clearing Businesses.

In cases of revisions to the clearing fee structure, JSCC will consult with advisory committees, such as the Listed Products Management Committee, the CDS Management Committee, the IRS Management Committee, and the OTC JGB Management Committee, which are composed of the members including those from Clearing Participants, and conduct consultation procedures, including public disclosure of an outline of the revisions and publication of details of rule revisions on JSCC's website.

JSCC provides information on its system design, technology, and communication specifications to existing Clearing Participants and firms seeking to become Clearing Participants, thereby enabling such parties to estimate the costs related to participation.

Key Consideration 5:

An FMI should complete regularly and disclose publicly responses to the CPSS-IOSCO disclosure framework for financial market infrastructures. An FMI also should, at a minimum, disclose basic data on transaction volumes and values.

This document is JSCC's disclosure pursuant to the CPSS-IOSCO "Principles for Financial Market Infrastructures: Disclosure Framework and Assessment Methodology." JSCC will update this disclosure document if there are any significant changes, or at a minimum every two years.

JSCC also publishes on its website, quantitative information pursuant to the "Public quantitative disclosure standards for central counterparties" published by CPMI-IOSCO.

Additionally, JSCC discloses statistical information for each of its Clearing Businesses in English and Japanese on its website. This information includes the following:

- Cleared volume and value for Listed Products;
- Cleared value and trade counts for CDS;
- Cleared value and trade counts for IRS; and
- Cleared volume, value and trade counts for OTC JGB.

JSCC discloses a wide range of other information in English and Japanese on its website. This information includes the following:

- Eligible products for Clearing;
- Clearing Participant qualification criteria;
- Existing Clearing Participants;
- Information about JSCC's clearing and settlement operations; and
- Outline of overall risk management system (including margin framework).

Principle 24: Disclosure of Market Data by Trade Repositories

A TR should provide timely and accurate data to relevant authorities and the public in line with their respective needs.

Exhibit A-1

Description of the following for the foreign board of trade: location, history, size, ownership and corporate structure, governance and committee structure, current or anticipated presence of offices or staff in the United States, and anticipated volume of business emanating from members and other participants that will be provided direct access to the foreign board of trade’s trading system.

History

Osaka Exchange, Inc. (“OSE” or the “Exchange”), formerly known as “Osaka Securities Exchange Co., Ltd.”, was established on April 1, 1949, as a nonprofit membership organization under Japan’s Securities and Exchange Law (Law No. 25 of 1948, as amended) (the “Securities and Exchange Law”). Its predecessor was the Osaka Stock Exchange Co., Ltd. established in 1878. Under the Securities and Exchange Law, the establishment of a securities exchange as a joint-stock corporation was not allowed. However, pursuant to the December 2000 amendment of the Securities and Exchange Law, it became possible to convert a securities exchange composed of its members into a joint-stock corporation, and OSE converted its membership organization into a joint-stock corporation on April 1, 2001.

OSE was the first financial instruments exchange to trade equity derivatives in Japan, and currently is the largest derivatives exchange in Japan measured by trading volume and contract values. OSE is licensed to act as a financial instruments exchange by the Prime Minister of Japan under the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (“FIEA”).¹ As a licensed financial instruments exchange, OSE is authorized to conduct a market for transactions in derivatives.

The derivatives products authorized for trading include futures and options on indexes, futures on government bond and options on government bond futures, and options on securities.²

On January 1, 2013, OSE entered into a business combination with Tokyo Stock Exchange Group, Inc., and as a result, Japan Exchange Group, Inc. (JPX) was established.³ In the process of the business combination, the former OSE implemented an “Absorption-Type Split” with new OSE, under which all businesses of the former OSE (including the exchange for derivatives products) were succeeded by new OSE, a subsidiary of JPX. JPX is a holding company that conducts business management of the financial instruments exchanges and the business incidental to such management. Its subsidiary companies are OSE, Tokyo Stock Exchange (TSE), Japan Exchange Regulation (JPX-R)⁴ and Japan Securities Clearing Corporation (JSCC). JPX is a publicly traded company. Following its establishment, JPX listed on the JASDAQ market, on which the former OSE listed, and on the first section of the TSE market. Based on the development of the listing rules in connection with the integration of cash markets between OSE and TSE, JPX is listed only on the first section of the TSE market on and after July 16, 2013.

As a result of restructuring of functions in JPX, OSE integrated cash markets with TSE and the clearing function with JSCC on July 16, 2013. Due to the integration of cash markets with TSE, securities transactions are no longer conducted on OSE, but only derivatives transactions are conducted on the OSE markets. In addition, due to the integration of the clearing function with JSCC, OSE abolished financial instruments assumption services, and derivatives transactions on the OSE markets are cleared by JSCC. Also, OSE abolished the Self-regulation Committee, and instead, has entrusted self-regulatory operations to JPX-R since July 16, 2013. As indicated in Exhibit G-3 of this submission, OSE still has responsibility for promulgating rules concerning self-regulation of its markets and taking disciplinary actions against Trading Participants, while JPX-R is responsible for, among other things, investigating potential rule violations and recommending disciplinary actions.

³ OSE notified the Commission of this corporate action under Commission Rule 30.13(l) by letter dated March 12, 2014.

⁴ Its corporate name was changed from “Tokyo Stock Exchange Regulation” on April 1, 2014.

As the second phase in its restructuring, the derivatives markets of OSE and TSE were integrated on March 24, 2014. Following the integration, OSE became the sole surviving derivatives exchange in JPX and was the successor in interest of the derivatives markets of TSE. On the same date, the corporate name “Osaka Securities Exchange Co., Ltd.” was changed to “Osaka Exchange, Inc.”

Market Size

In contrast to TSE, which deals in spot trading, OSE is the leading exchange for derivatives products in Japan and its trading volume is the largest among the four Japanese exchanges handling derivatives products. The Nikkei 225 Futures, introduced at OSE in 1988, is now an internationally recognized index futures. The daily average trading volume in fiscal year 2015(from April 2015 to March 2016) is 1,374,489 units for index futures, 34,772 units for government bond futures and 4,185 units for options on government bond futures. As of November 30, 2016, the number of Trading Participants for futures and options trading is 108.

Location

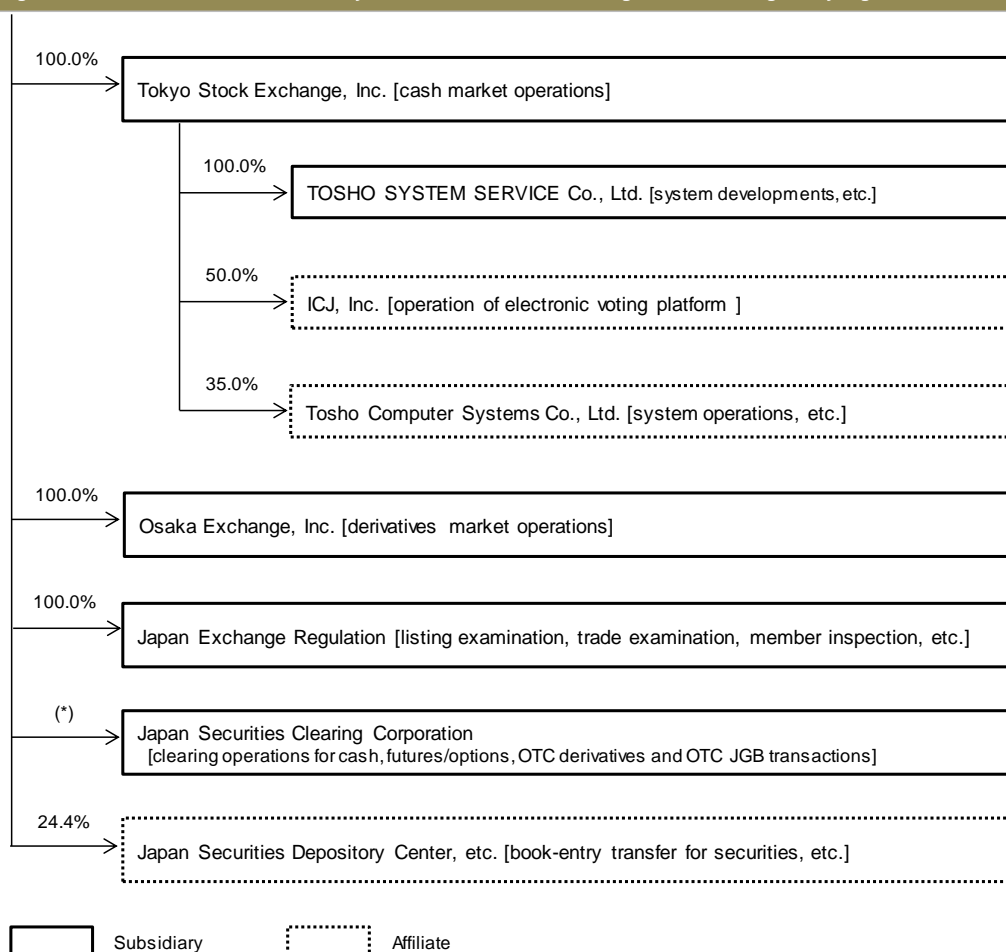

The executive offices and headquarters of OSE are located at: 8-16, Kitahama 1-chome, Chuo-ku, Osaka 541-0041 Japan.

Organization

OSE is wholly owned by JPX and was capitalized in the amount of ¥4.723 billion (approximately $40.5 million). The company structure chart of JPX is as follows:

OSE has a Board of Directors composed of three individuals. It should be noted that both OSE and JPX have separate Boards. OSE's board is responsible for making decisions on the execution of the derivatives exchange's operations, while JPX's board is responsible for supervising the execution of the operations regarding its subsidiary's management including OSE, etc.⁵ Also, OSE employs a statutory auditor system to monitor management and has a

⁵ Under the Companies Act (Act No. 86 of July 26, 2005), OSE is classified into "Company with Board of Directors", while JPX is classified into "Company with Nominating Committee, etc.". A Company with

Board of Auditors composed of three auditors, two of which are outside auditors. The directors and auditors of OSE are as follows.

(As of June 21, 2016)

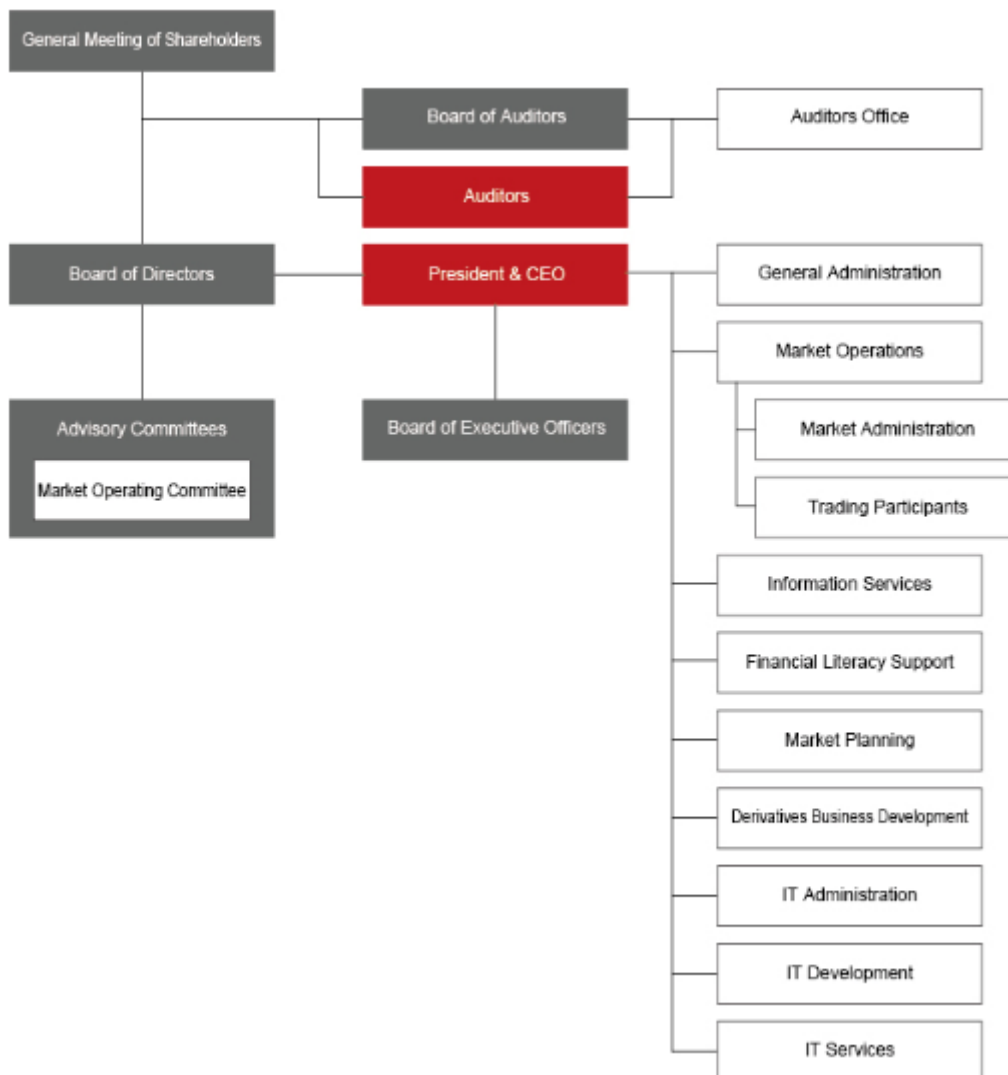

Members of the Board
Position	Name
President & CEO	Hiromi Yamaji
Senior Executive Vice President	Kotaro Yamazawa
Director	Yoshinori Karino
Auditors
Standing Statutory Auditor	Masahiko Maruyama
Outside Statutory Auditor	Hiroshi Iwaki (Lawyer)
Outside Statutory Auditor	Yasuhiko Ogawa (Certified Public Accountant, Certified Tax Accountant)

In addition, the Board of Directors established the Market Operating Committee. The committee assists the Board of Directors in discussing proposals and recommending policies on market operations of OSE, such as listing of new products and revisions to the rules for futures and options trading and its brokerage and for Trading Participants to be adopted and actions to be taken by the Board.

OSE has a staff of 131 people as of November 30, 2016.⁶ The organization chart of OSE is as follows:

Nominating Committee, etc. shall establish a Nominating Committee, an Audit Committee and a Compensation Committee (hereinafter referred to as “Committees”) in addition to a Board of Directors. Members of each of the Committees shall be selected from Board members and the majority shall be outside directors. As of July 26, 2016, JPX’s boards consist of 13 individuals, nine of which are outside directors.

⁶ It should be noted that the number of employees of OSE is reduced from that when OSE was an independent exchange. However, clearing and self-regulatory functions are carried out by OSE’s affiliates. The number of employees in OSE affiliates, that are carrying out OSE-related clearing and SRO functions are not included in this number.

JPX’s English-language website is located at: <http://www.jpx.co.jp/english/>. It posts information on JPX and its wholly owned subsidiaries including OSE. The website includes general information relating to the Exchange, its corporate organization, the contracts traded thereon and on various market mechanisms, such as give-ups, non-auction transactions, circuit breaker rules and market maker programs. Moreover, it provides the public with access to various market data, including in the “Daily Official List” daily open, high, low, close, volume, open interest, last quotation, net change and settlement price. It also includes historical archived volume information.

OSE's U.S. Activities

OSE established a representative office in New York in October 2014. Following the establishment of Japan Exchange Group, the representative office of TSE, which is affiliated company of OSE, was registered as OSE, TSE and JPX. There are three staff (as of November 1, 2016) in the office and all of the staff belong to these three companies. Its activities as OSE are to provide information on OSE and its trading products in the U.S and to carry out representational activities with the Commission and the press. The representative office does not provide investment advice or technical support from the U.S. Nor does it solicit, receive or direct orders with respect to the products traded on the Exchange from such a representative office.

Its other activities in the U.S. are to participate in various widely-attended industry conferences and trade shows. It may also conduct seminars relating to trading on OSE. Upon issuance of Order of Registration, it may also hold informational meetings in the U.S. for potential participants desiring to access the OSE market directly. Although OSE has in effect a FBOT no-action letter, no entity currently operates with direct access to the OSE market from the U.S.. Although OSE has no estimates or projections at this time, however, it is hopeful that U.S. firms will make use of direct access following FBOT registration.

Attach an undertaking of OSE to notify the Commission staff if any material representation ceases to be true and complete.

EXHIBIT B – MEMBERSHIP CRITERIA

(1) Description of the categories of membership and participation in the foreign board of trade and the access and trading privileges provided by the foreign board of trade. The description should include any restrictions applicable to members and other participants to which the foreign board of trade intends to grant direct access to its trading system.

In order to ensure fair and efficient transactions in derivatives on its market, as well as to ensure the financial integrity of its market, only those entities with access privileges may trade directly on the OSE markets. As a result of demutualization, OSE no longer provides trading privileges to “members.” Rather, as have other demutualized exchanges, it has separated ownership interests in the Exchange from access privileges. OSE permits access to those that qualify as “Trading Participants”.

OSE has three types of Trading Participants (“TPs”): Futures, etc. Trading Participants; Government Bond Futures, etc. Trading Participants; and Foreign Exchange Trading Participants.⁹ Every entity wishing to become a TP must acquire a Trading Qualification (“TQ”) prior to conducting transactions on the OSE markets. A “Futures, etc. Trading Qualification” is needed to conduct index futures transactions.¹⁰ A Government Bond Futures, etc. Trading Qualification or a Futures, etc. Trading Qualification is required to conduct government bond futures (JGB futures) and options on JGB futures. A TP is not allowed to hold Government Bond Futures, etc. Trading Qualification and Futures, etc. Trading Qualification at the same time.

(2) Description of all requirements for each category of membership and participation on the trading system and the manner in which members and other participants are required to demonstrate their compliance with these requirements.

An entity who intends to acquire Futures, etc. Trading Qualification or Government Bond Futures, etc. Trading Qualification must be a type-I Financial Instruments Business Operator¹¹ or an Authorized Transaction-at-Exchange Operator as defined in the FIEA. Also, a Registered Financial Institution is allowed to acquire Government Bond Futures, etc. Trading Qualification. It is a financial institution other than securities companies and that is allowed to engage in part of financial instruments business, such as some banks and insurance companies. An Authorized Transaction-at-Exchange Operator is a Foreign Securities Broker that has obtained a permission of the Prime Minister to engage in sale and purchase of Securities and Market Transactions of Derivatives on a Financial Instruments Exchange (“Transaction-at-Exchange Operation”).¹² Hereinafter, an Authorized Transaction-at-Exchange Operator that has a TQ is called as a “Remote Trading Participant” or “Remote TP”. A Financial Instruments Business Operator or a Registered Financial Institution that has a TQ is called as a “TP in Japan” and a Remote TP and a TP in Japan are collectively called as a “TP”.

As is the same with TPs in Japan, a Remote TP may trade for its own account or on behalf of customers. However, a Remote TP may not trade on behalf of customers in Japan.¹³ In addition, when accepting entrustment of orders on the OSE markets from customers residing in a foreign country, a Remote TP shall apply to OSE in advance and obtain the approval of OSE.¹⁴

TPs that do not have a Clearing Qualification of JSCC (“Non-Clearing Participants”) must enter into a clearing relationship with an Agency Clearing Participant of JSCC by concluding the ¹¹ A type-I Financial Instruments Business Operator is an entity registered by the Prime Minister that conducts type-I Financial Instruments Business prescribed in Article 28 of the FIEA. Article 29-4 of the FIEA stipulates the criteria for refusal of such registration.

¹² Article 60-3 of the FIEA stipulates the criteria for refusal of the permission for Transaction-at-Exchange Operation.

¹³ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 20-2, Paragraph 1

“Contract for Commissioning Clearance” prescribed by JSCC. A Non-Clearing Participant opens an account with the Agency Clearing Participant in its own name for clearing of its trades including the trades based on entrustment of its customers. Accordingly, Remote TPs who are FCMs would clear their customers’ positions through an omnibus account with an Agency Clearing Participant. A Remote TP may not obtain a clearing qualification according to laws and regulations in Japan; therefore, it must appoint an Agency Clearing Participant.

To acquire a TQ, an entity wishing to become a TP must submit an application, be subject to examination as prescribed by OSE and pay a qualification examination fee.¹⁵ Upon application, the applicant must submit documents containing its company profile, financial condition, etc. Such documents include annual reports for past three fiscal years, descriptions of business operations and status of its property, and the internal rules regarding methods of controlling potential loss or business operations, etc. Since OSE entrusts the examination for acquiring a TQ to JPX-R, JPX-R examines based on such documents whether the applicant satisfies the following requirements for acquiring a TQ that are prescribed by OSE. The department of JPX-R responsible for the examination is “Participants Examination & Inspection” (Refer to Exhibit G-1 for the size and experienced level of the department). Its staff checks the applicant’s conformance to the requirements through examination based on the submitted documents, hearings based on the documents, visits to main and branch offices and interviews with executive officers.

The applicant, to trade futures and related instruments, must have a stated capital amount of no less than ¥300 million (approximately $2.6 million), a net asset of no less than ¥500 million (approximately $4.3 million) and more than its stated capital amount, and a capital adequacy ratio of no less than 200%. Remote TPs will not be subject to the Japanese capital adequacy ratio. Rather, OSE will rely on the capital rules that Remote TPs are subject to by their home-country regulators.¹⁶ Additionally, the applicant must have a sound management structure and appropriate system for business operation. Furthermore, the applicant is expected

After obtaining the OSE's approval, which is based on JPX-R's decision that the applicant meets the criteria above, in order to become a TP, the entity must pay a Trading Participation Fee, execute a Trading Participant Agreement, undertake procedures to acquire any Clearing Qualifications or establish a clearing relationship with a Clearing Participant, deposit Guarantee Funds and Trading Participant Security Money and execute any other procedures for acquiring TQs stipulated by OSE.¹⁸ In addition, TPs must pay basic fees, trading fees, give-up fees, derivatives trading system connection fees and cancellation fees on a monthly basis.¹⁹

TPs must deposit ¥3 million (approximately $25.7 thousands) (or securities in lieu of cash²⁰) with OSE as a Guarantee Fund.^{21,22} If specifically considered necessary, upon resolution of the Board of Directors, OSE can raise the Guarantee Fund amount and/or limit the securities eligible to be deposited in lieu of cash.²³ The Guarantee Fund, to which TPs are required to contribute, ensures the settlement of contracts for the TP's customers. Thus, a TP's customers who have entrusted market transactions in derivatives to the TP have the right to receive, in preference over other creditors, payment from the Guarantee Funds of the TP with regard to claims incurred under such entrustment.²⁴ As of March 31, 2016, the Guarantee Fund holds deposits of ¥1.053 billion (approximately $9.0 million).²⁵ Furthermore, TPs cannot request the return of the Guarantee Funds until 6 months after the date from which its TQ is withdrawn. Moreover, TPs cannot assign or offer for collateral the right to claim the return of the Guarantee Funds.²⁶ OSE holds the Guarantee Funds separately from its own assets and manages them in the following ways: (i) purchase of government bonds or municipal bonds; (ii) bank deposits or (iii) monetary trust²⁷ with a bank engaging in trust business.

TPs must deposit Trading Participant Security Money with OSE in cash or securities in order to ensure that TPs fulfill their obligations relating to the payment of trading participant fees.^{28,29} The required amount of Trading Participant Security Money will be the sum of the following: (a) the sum of the basic fee and the derivatives trading system connection fee of such TP for one month as of the end of the most recent fiscal year; and (b) the sum of the amount for two months of an average monthly amount of trading fees and give-up fees of such TP for the most recent fiscal year (in case of the fiscal year including the date on which newly obtain Trading Qualification, the amount specified by OSE based on the actual and expected trading activities by such TP).³⁰ As is the same with Guarantee Fund, if specifically considered necessary, upon resolution of the Board of Directors, OSE may raise the Trading Participant Security Money amount and/or limit the securities eligible to be deposited in lieu of cash.³¹ TPs cannot request the return of the Trading Participant Security Money until 2 months after the date from which its TQ is withdrawn.

In addition, there are a number of formal notification requirements with which a TP must comply. For example, TPs are required to notify OSE of either a representative director or executive officer (a “Trading Participant Representative”) to represent the TP at the OSE. Although only the Trading Participant Representative may represent the TP in the relationship between the TP and OSE, routine business the scope of which has been determined in advance can be carried out by an agent notified to OSE.³² Similarly, TPs must notify OSE of one office, which is conveniently located for liaising with OSE, from among its head office, other business offices or principal administrative offices.³³ Remote TPs are required to register its representative person and the address in Japan with OSE, as prescribed in Article 60-2, Paragraph 1 of the FIEA.³⁴

In addition to qualifications, fees and notification requirements, TPs must comply with several self-regulation requirements and OSE mandates. For example, TPs must establish transaction management procedures which help prevent unfair trading³⁵ and establish order management procedures to prevent acceptance and placement of erroneous orders.³⁶ Furthermore, TPs must ensure fair pricing and smooth circulation on the OSE markets and make best efforts to preserve and improve the function of OSE as a financial instrument exchange market.³⁷ Additionally, TPs must notify OSE in advance, and in some cases seek OSE approval, when terminating the business, merging with another legal entity, dissolving, transferring the whole business, changing the corporate name, or changing directors.³⁸ Lastly, TPs must submit documents in response to OSE's requests regarding investigations into the financial condition of the TP, investigations for purposes of maintaining fairness in transactions or where the OSE considers it appropriate.³⁹

A TP may trade for its own account, or on behalf of others, though there are specific requirements relating to trading on behalf of another, referred to in OSE rules as "acceptance of entrusted transactions."⁴⁰ TPs that accept entrustment for transactions on the OSE markets are required to comply with the Brokerage Agreement Standards stipulated by OSE, and the TPs must conduct an investigation in advance of opening a customer account to verify the customer's name and various other matters.⁴¹

In addition to these self-regulation and compliance requirements, OSE reserves emergency authority which allows OSE to impose necessary and appropriate restrictions on the business of TPs when OSE considers there is an urgent need⁴², and OSE may take disciplinary action(s), including suspension of trading and not more than ¥500 million fines, against a TP for violations of laws and regulations, dispositions of government authorities thereunder or OSE rules, or for behaving contrary to the just and equitable principles of trades.⁴³

(1) Description of the requirements applicable to membership on the governing board and significant committees of the foreign board of trade.

(2) Description of the process by which the foreign board of trade ensures that potential governing board and committee members/other participants meet these standards.

(3) Description of the provisions to minimize and resolve conflicts of interest with respect to membership on the governing board and significant committees of the foreign board of trade.

(4) Description of the rules with respect to the disclosure of material non-public information obtained as a result of a member's or other participant's performance on the governing board or significant committee.

Board of Directors

OSE elects thirteen or less directors (three as of June 21, 2016) at a general meeting of shareholders.⁴⁴ The resolution on the election of directors shall be made by a majority of the voting rights held by the shareholders present at the shareholders meeting, where the shareholders holding one third (1/3) or more of the voting rights of the shareholders entitled to exercise their voting rights are present.⁴⁵

OSE requires those who have accepted their office to submit a pledge saying that they do not fall under the disqualification criteria⁴⁶ set forth in the law. OSE confirms that a director does not fall under the disqualification criteria prescribed in the law by said pledge. In regard to provisions to minimize and resolve conflicts of interest, directors who engage in daily business of OSE are not allowed to engage in financial instruments business during the term of office.⁴⁷ Also, directors who have a special interest in the resolution of the Board of Directors may not participate in the vote.⁴⁸

⁴⁵ Articles of Incorporation, Article 19, Paragraph 2.

⁴⁶ See Article 82, Paragraph 2, Item 3 (a) through (f) of the FIEA and Article 331, Paragraph 1, Item 3 of the Companies Act.

Market Operating Committee

OSE has the Market Operating Committee as an advisory committee of the Board of Directors. The Market Operating Committee consists of twenty or less members (twelve as of June 21, 2016). Members of the committee shall be commissioned to serve by the Board of Directors from: (a) the board members, executive officers or employees of Trading Participants; and (b) persons who possess insights into the financial instruments exchange market, other than persons engaged in the daily business at a company carrying out business directly related to financial instruments business. The Market Operating Committee may provide advice in response to consultation by the Board of Directors or state its opinion to the Board of Directors on material issues on operation of the financial instrument markets established by OSE.

Rules on Disclosure of Material Non-public Information

The FIEA prohibits officers and employees of a Financial Instruments Exchange, self-regulatory organization and Financial Instruments Clearing Organization from divulging or misappropriating any secret learned in the course of duty.⁴⁹

In regard to treatment on the disclosure of material non-public information, pursuant to the rules for timely disclosure of information etc. imposed on listed companies, JPX discloses the material information, including the resolutions of the Board of Directors in the subsidiary companies including OSE, that may have a significant impact on investment decisions, promptly after the occurrence of the fact or the resolution made by the Board of Directors, through the timely disclosure network. Also, JPX established the internal rules applicable to all of the group companies, including OSE, on management of insider information and disclosure, etc. In accordance with said internal rules, JPX established a system to appoint a person in charge of insider information management for all of the group companies, and make the officers, including directors, and employees to report to said person in charge of information management when obtaining insider information. The person in charge of information management will disclose such information through the media, according to the type of information with approval of the Group CEO and Group COO of JPX. By way of clarification, it should be noted that both OSE and JPX have separate Boards. OSE's board is responsible for making decisions on the execution of the derivatives exchange's operations, while JPX's board is responsible for supervising the execution of the operations regarding its subsidiary's management including OSE, etc. Since JPX is a listed company, it prescribes treatment on material information for JPX group companies.

⁴⁸ See Article 369, Item 2 of the Companies Act.

⁴⁹ FIEA, Article 87-8 and Article 156-8.

EXHIBIT D – THE AUTOMATED TRADING SYSTEM

(1) The order matching/trade execution system, including a complete description of all permitted ways in which members or other participants (or their customers) may connect to the trade matching/execution system and the related requirements (for example, authorization agreements)

The OSE Trading System, called “J-GATE,” was developed by using “Genium INET,” a trading system for exchanges powered by Nasdaq.⁵⁰ OSE provides its TPs with certain components of the system, while requiring them to purchase other elements. Specifically, OSE supplies the central order processing facilities of the system (known as the “Central System,” located in Japan); and a library of application program interfaces (“API Kit”) for the online interface, through which a Trading Participant’s front-end trading application (“API Client”) communicates with the Central System. OSE TPs choose their own, and are responsible for their own use of, communication equipment, lines and a connection configuration from the communication equipment and access line products, which include for example, provider, line type, and bandwidth.

TPs shall submit an application form to OSE in advance for connecting their system to J-GATE. The application confirms that TPs accept the terms and conditions on connection to J-GATE prescribed by OSE. The terms and conditions includes but not limited to matters concerning approval/disapproval of connectivity application, system connection fees, compliance rules on connection methods, prohibited actions, obligations of confidentiality. TPs shall only use the API connection for the purpose of connection to and use of J-GATE and related matters, and have to conform to the connection specifications defined by OSE.

to the exchange's site) provided separately by Tosho System Service ("TSS") or co-location service provided separately by TSE to connect their system to J-GATE, and abide by the rules set separately by TSS or TSE.

(2) The architecture of the systems, including hardware and distribution network, as well as any pre- and post-trade risk-management controls that are made available to system users

System Overview

OSE TP's systems communicate with the Central System of J-GATE by connecting to the network gateway ("NG") through arrownet. An overview diagram is as follows:

* "AP" stands for access point.

Central System

The Central System performs the security, order processing, and connection monitoring functions of the J-GATE. Among other things, the Central System maintains a database of currently authorized OSE Traders, validates a trader's authority to trade on OSE, processes and records all orders, validates requests for order modifications and cancellations, matches orders, maintains the central order book, sends market broadcast data messages (i.e. order book information, open, high, low and close prices and the data on trading suspension, etc.) to API Client, and monitors the status of the system connections between the Central System and the API Client. The Central System underwent comprehensive business and technical testing before it was declared operational.

API Client

The API Client is the software to connect to the Central System by using the API Kit provided by OSE. Currently, OSE TPs may use the API Client developed by their own or an application provided by independent software vendors (“ISVs”) to access the Central System.

arrownet

The arrownet is a redundant ring network, which connects TP’s systems to the sites of the exchange’s system including OSE and TSE, with the access points. It replaces the former network system dedicated for J-GATE, called GATENET. Users can connect to J-GATE by connecting to the access points via carrier lines.

The arrownet enables a single physical carrier line to have several logical lines, so that users can share a carrier line with systems other than J-GATE. The arrownet has several access points, so that users can diversify the risk of a failure in one access point by adopting a redundant configuration that allows users to connect to either access point.

When OSE adopts Remote TPs in the future, the arrownet may be expanded to connect TPs outside of Japan to the Central System. In this case, hubs in major financial centers, including hubs located in the United States, will connect to the Central System located in Japan. Orders of Remote TPs (including U.S. Remote TPs) arriving at the Central System from the new hubs will not be treated any differently or disadvantaged by the Central System from those of OSE's TPs located in Japan.

Co-location Service

The co-location service common to OSE and TSE is available for use by TPs including U.S. Remote TPs, information vendors and ISVs. It is provided by TSE on a uniform and non-discriminatory basis in terms of availability and fees. The service provides its users with spaces to install devices with trading programs, etc. in the primary site of OSE and TSE. The users can, through the service, connect to all trading systems and market information system of OSE and TSE. A TP wishing to use the co-location service must submit an application form to and enter into a user agreement with TSE.

Risk Management Control

Considering the issues arising from erroneous orders and market participant's demand to the operators of market infrastructures, OSE has taken measures for enhancing stability and credibility of trading in its markets. For instance, the OSE trading system rejects an order with its size more than the value specified by OSE. In addition, OSE requires TPs to establish order and risk management system and related internal rules.

Following further advance of information technology, an impact of failure to operate order and risk management of TPs has grown significant. Based on such circumstance, OSE determined to adopt Genium INET TradeGuard application (hereafter "TradeGuard") at the upgrade of J-GATE in July 2016, and started to offer TPs order and risk management function. TradeGuard has additional functions such as mass cancel⁵¹ and manual block⁵², and TPs may use those functions. In the following part, order and risk management function of TradeGuard, "pre-trade risk check function" and "at-trade risk check function", will be described.

a. Handling Unit of TradeGuard

⁵¹ It is a function that cancels all orders placed from trading users in a Pre-trade Limit Group("PTLG") at the same time.

⁵² It is a function that forces new orders and order amendment to be rejected.

i. Pre-Trade Limits Group (PTLG)

“PTLG” refers to a group of J-GATE users for trading (hereafter “trading users”) belonging to Sponsoring Participants (meaning Sub-Participants⁵³ for administration) and Sponsored Participants (meaning normal Sub-Participants). TPs must make all trading users belong to any PTLG, because TradeGuard applies only to orders⁵⁴ placed from trading users within PTLGs.

ii. Tradable

“Tradable” refers to a set of instruments traded in J-GATE for administrating the cumulative risk values. The exposure of each PTLG to a Tradable is monitored and limited by TradeGuard.

iii. Calculation Method

The method of risk check may be selected from among “quantity-based”, “volume-based (quantity x contract multiplier)” and “value-based (quantity x contract multiplier x price)”.

b. Pre-trade risk check

In light of ensuring that TPs enforce pre-trade risk check thoroughly, OSE has obligated all TPs to implement such check by using TradeGuard.⁵⁵ Each TP has to decide the specific value of the relevant parameters based on its rules on credit management to customers, etc.

Pre-trade risk check function is comprised of “max size control function” and “restricted instrument function”. The max size control function is for rejecting order-book registration of a new or modified order with its size not less than the max size set by TPs per Tradable. On the other hand, the restricted instrument function enables TPs to configure whether to reject orders for the instruments except those set as Tradable.

c. At-trade risk check

Contrary to the pre-trade risk check function, TPs may choose whether to use the at-trade check function. The function is used for administrating the number of orders per unit time and the cumulative value⁵⁶ concerning orders that have registered on the order books and executed trades. If a risk value monitored through at-trade risk check function exceeds the limits, such information transmits to the pre-trade risk check function and a new or modified order is rejected in the pre-trade risk check unless lifting the restriction manually.

⁵³ A Sub-Participant is a handling unit of J-GATE set in advance within a TP.

⁵⁵ Rules Concerning Order Management Systems at Trading Participants, Rule 6, Item 1.

(3) The security features of the systems.

The J-GATE includes a security system that provides for authentication and confidentiality. The essential purpose is to prevent unauthorized use during API Client. It also ensures the integrity of the J-GATE by using features embedded in the API that cannot be accessed externally. The security system is responsible for: (i) maintaining the database of currently certified users; (ii) authenticating certified users as they log on; and (iii) distributing session keys as part of the login process. The J-GATE maintains a list of currently logged-in users on a real time basis through the market management terminal. A list of logged-in users at a particular time in the past may be created by using the past log data.

OSE assigns a unique participant code and user ID to each TP, and each TP creates a password for login to connect to the Central System. While logged into the Central System, concurrent login to the Central System using the same user ID through other API Client is not allowed.

(4) The length of time such systems have been operated.

J-GATE launched on February 14, 2011, and the based package system upgraded from “Click XT” to “Genium INET” on July 19, 2016.

(5) Any significant system failure or interruptions.

⁵⁶ The limits configurable are as follows: (i) open buy orders, (ii) open sell orders, (iii) executed buy trades, (iv) executed sell trades, (v) net trades ($iii - iv$, absolute), (vi) total buy ($i + iii$), (vii) total sell ($ii + iv$), (viii) total net buy ($iii - iv + i$), (viiii) total net sell ($iv - iii + ii$).

The significant system failure and interruption occurred since the launch of J-GATE are as follows:

- (a) On March 4, 2013, a defect of the software that serves order processing in J-GATE was detected in Nikkei 225 Options trading. At that time, OSE suspended trading in all the futures contracts and Nikkei 225 Options contracts for around four hours at the longest.
- (b) On March 4, 2014, OSE suspended trading in Nikkei 225 futures, Nikkei 225 mini and Nikkei 225 Options contracts for around 25 minutes due to operational error.

(6) The nature of any technical review of the order matching/trade execution system performed by the foreign board of trade, the home country regulator, or a third party.

OSE sets up IT general control as one of the internal control system and an auditing firm reviews the status of the execution every year. No defect has been pointed out in the review so far.

(7) Trading hours.

The trading hours⁵⁷ on J-GATE are as follows:

(a) Index futures contracts other than Nikkei Stock Average Volatility Index Futures⁵⁸

	Day session	Night session
Auction Market ⁵⁹	8:45-15:15	16:30-5:30 (next day)
J-NET Market	8:20-16:00	16:15-5:30 (next day)

⁵⁷ All trading hours are in Japan Standard Time(UTC+9).

⁵⁸ Nikkei 225 Futures, Nikkei 225 mini and TOPIX Futures have Non-Cancel Period (“NCP”). During the period, no order amendment and cancellation may be implemented. NCP is one minute period before call auctions except the closing auction of day session. See also Exhibit E-1.

⁵⁹ For the description of trading on each market, refer to Exhibit D-2.

(b) Nikkei Stock Average Volatility Index Futures

	Day session	Night session
Auction Market	9:00-15:15	16:30-19:00
J-NET Market	8:20-16:00	16:15-19:00

(c) JGB futures and options on JGB futures contracts

	Morning session	Afternoon session	Night session
Auction Market	8:45-11:02	12:30-15:02	15:30-5:30 (next day)
J-NET Market	8:20-15:15		15:25-5:30 (next day)

(8) Types and duration of orders accepted.

The J-GATE supports the following order types with respect to the auction-driven market:

- Limit Order: An order submitted with a specified limit price and to be executed at the specified price or better price.
- Market Order: An order submitted without the specified limit price and to be executed against the best bid or the best offer in order. (The unfilled part of a market order cannot be stored on the order book (the unfilled part is forced to be cancelled).)
- Market to Limit Order: A limit order submitted without the specified limit price and to be executed against the best bid or the best offer at the time. (In case there is no best offer or best bid to be matched with, a market to limit order is forced to be cancelled.)
- Closing Condition Order: An order to be recorded on the order book when markets transits to a pre-closing session specified at the order submission.

Orders may additionally specify the following conditions:

- Good for Day (GFD): Make an order valid until the end of the day session of the day (or, until the end of the night session if the order is submitted at the night session).
- Good till Date (GTD): Make an order valid until the end of the day session on the date the specified period ends⁶⁰ (up to 255 days)

⁶⁰ The date will be brought forward, if the date falls on a non-business day. Therefore, in order to submit an order which remains valid until Monday in the day session on Friday, an order should be submitted with setting four days

- Good till Cancel (GTC): Make an order valid until the cancellation (a type of GTD) (If not cancelled, it is valid until the end of the day session on the last trading day.)
- Fill and Kill (FAK): In the case where there is unfilled volume after the order is partially executed, cancel the unfilled volume.
- Fill or Kill (FOK): In the case where all the volume is not executed immediately, cancel all the volume.

In addition, the J-GATE supports non-auction trade matching. This facility, known as the J-NET market, is described in Exhibit D-2 (1).

(9) Information that must be included on orders.

An order must include the following information: series code, price, size, order type, order condition, sell or buy, and for proprietary account or for customer account.

(10) Trade confirmation and error trade policy.

Trade confirmation

When an order is executed, J-GATE disseminates trade execution message to the TP. TPs can confirm whether their orders are executed and the detail of the execution by the message. The message includes execution time, price and size, etc.

Error trade policy

The error trade policy has been established based on the basic policy that trades once executed should not be canceled in terms of ensuring market fairness and continuity and the trade cancelation rule should apply only to the case where it is considered that market would distinctively disrupt due to the trades by an erroneous order, such as where the trades make smooth settlement very difficult. Considering the characteristic of derivatives products or small order size limit, no specific number standard is set in advance. Only when OSE deems that market would distinctively disrupt due to the trades by an erroneous order, such as where the trades make smooth settlement very difficult, trades may be canceled.

for the condition for validity period. If an order is submitted with setting one day, two or three days for the condition for validity period, the order will become invalid when the trading date is switched from Friday to Monday.

(11) Anonymity of participants

When J-GATE receives an order from a TP, it delivers order acceptance message to the TP. Also, when an order is executed, J-GATE delivers trade execution message to a TP who has placed the order. In details, these messages are sent to all users within a specific group called Sub-Participant of a TP set in advance by OSE. In cases where a TP has to receive the messages separately according to the division and customer, it may have the other Sub-Participant codes by applying to OSE. These messages do not include information on the counterparts of transactions.

Apart from the messages mentioned above, J-GATE disseminates information on bids/offers and trade execution as market information to TPs and information vendors. The information does not include any clue that enables them to identify who has placed orders and executed trades.

(12) Trading system connectivity with clearing system

J-GATE transmits information through a gateway server to JSCC clearing system (JSCC-CS).⁶¹ The information includes trade execution, daily and final settlement price, and underlying index value. A frequency and timing of the transmission depends on the type of information. Trade execution information is transmitted on a real-time basis, while daily settlement price is around 16:00. J-GATE sends the information to the gateway server through APIs, and the gateway server sends it to JSCC-CS by using Message Queuing or File Transfer Protocol.

(13) Response time

The average order processing latency of J-GATE is 100 microseconds. An order processing latency is a figure obtained by measuring the internal processing time from receiving of an order to completion of registration to order book to sending back the receipt message.

(14) Ability to determine depth of market

⁶¹ Refer to Exhibit D-1to Supplement S-1 for JSCC clearing system. The OSE clearing system ceased to operate in November 2014.

J-GATE disseminates order information including order volume as “Price Depth”. Price Depth includes 10 prices above and below the best bid/offer and the total order volume placed at each price. Apart from Price Depth, J-GATE disseminates data on all orders and trades for market information by using ITCH protocol. TPs or information vendors may subscribe both or either of Price Depth and/or ITCH, depending on their policies, etc.

(15) Market continuity provisions

Attach a copy of “BCP of Japan Exchange Group” and “Contingency Plan with Regard to Trading in the Derivatives Market”.

(16) Reporting and recordkeeping requirements

Reporting to OSE by TPs

TPs shall report matters concerning TP’s systems to OSE as prescribed by OSE, and cooperate with OSE to ensure and maintain the stability of J-GATE.⁶² OSE may request TPs to report the number of and capacity regarding order placement and plan to change the capacity, and the other matters which it deems necessary. In addition, TPs shall promptly report to OSE when any irregularity has been found in the connection to and use of J-GATE, under the terms and conditions on connection to J-GATE. OSE may, when deeming it necessary, inspect the usage conditions of TPs in order to investigate TP’s compliance with the said terms and conditions and connectivity specifications defined by OSE.

Reporting to TPs by OSE

OSE shall report total trading volume and high, low, closing price of each contract and the other information to TPs under the FIEA.⁶³ OSE makes such report through J-GATE, etc.⁶⁴

Recordkeeping

As described in Exhibit D-2 (3) and (8), OSE completely captures and retains information on orders and transactions, etc. through J-GATE. On the other hand, TPs are required to prepare

⁶² Business Regulations, Rule 51, Paragraph 3

⁶³ FIEA, Article 130.

⁶⁴ Business Regulations, Rule 48 and preserve the books and documents such as order books preserved for seven years.⁶⁵

Exhibit D-2

Description of the manner in which the foreign board of trade assures the following with respect to the trading system:

(1) Algorithm. The trade matching algorithm matches trades fairly and timely.

The J-GATE is used to access two forms of trading. The first is the auction-driven market. Under this market, bids and offers are entered through the J-GATE where they are matched by the Central System using an auction process. The Central System uses time-price priority sequencing in matching and executing orders, so that the best bid is matched to the best offer, giving priority for bids or offers at the same price to the first entered into the system. If an order can only be partially filled, the next oldest bid or offer at that price is matched until the remainder of the order is filled, and if the amount bid or offered at that price is exhausted, the unfilled portion of the order is then executed at the next best price beginning with the oldest bid or offer.

In addition, the J-GATE supports non-auction trade matching on the J-NET market. The J-NET market makes use of the J-GATE to execute orders such as block trades, EFPs (Exchange for Physicals), VWAP (Volume Weighted Average Price), option strategy trading (strangle, calendar spreads, etc.), and strategies combining block trades of futures and options (such as hedging futures by options and arbitrage trade of futures using options).

The J-NET market began as a block trading facility for cash products. Before the J-NET market was introduced for futures and options trading, block trades on futures and options contracts were conducted through the Non-Auction Large Block Trading System. The Non-Auction Large Block Trading System enabled buyers and sellers to trade futures and options contracts in increments larger than prescribed by OSE at prices which such parties previously agreed upon that were within the ranges prescribed by OSE.⁶⁶ This Non-Auction Large Block Trading System enabled buyers and sellers to trade futures and options contracts while avoiding market impact. On January 4, 2008, OSE replaced the Non-Auction Large Block Trading System with the J-NET Derivatives Trading System to respond to diversified trading needs of institutional investors, among others.

As noted above, the J-NET market is currently a functionality of the J-GATE that enables TPs to execute orders for transactions, such as block trades, that are within a range specified by OSE, but which are agreed upon before being entered into the J-GATE. It also provides the functionality to enter into trading strategies that make use of theoretical pricing relationships keyed off of a market-based price, such as calendar spreads. Similar to such transactions on domestic U.S. contract markets, all of these types of transactions take place subject to the rules of OSE, which provide strict conditions for their use.⁶⁷

(2) IOSCO Principles. The trading system complies with the Principles for the Oversight of Screen-Based Trading Systems for Derivative Products developed by the Technical Committee of the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO Principles). Provide a copy of any independent certification received or self-certification performed and identify any system deficiencies with respect to the IOSCO Principles.

Attach a self-certification of J-GATE's compliance with the IOSCO Principles.

(3) Audit Trail

(i) The audit trail timely captures all relevant data, including changes to orders.

The J-GATE captures and retains a complete audit trail including all orders, executed trades, pricing information and confirmations entered into the Central System.

⁶⁶ For example, Nikkei 225 Futures were traded in increments of at least 200 contract units (although this was later reduced to 100 units).

⁶⁷ See, Chapter 2, Special Rules for the Business Regulations and Brokerage Agreement Standards Relating to the J-NET Market.

(ii) Audit trail data is securely maintained and available for an adequate time period.

Refer to Exhibit D-2(8).

(4) Public Data. Adequate and appropriate trade data is available to users and the public.

OSE disseminates trading data (prices/quotes) to TPs via the J-GATE. It also makes data available to purchasers. Data is also generally available through third party vendors, such as Bloomberg and Reuters. OSE Participants also have available to them from the J-GATE a summary of the TP's activity during that session including the TP's orders entered during the current trading session and completed trades. See also Exhibit D-1(14).

Additional information such as daily high, low, open interest and volume is distributed publicly by OSE.⁶⁸ Daily trading data is available on the OSE's daily official list. Monthly data is available in "Monthly Statistics Report" or "Monthly Quotations" section of the JPX website

(5) Reliability. The trading system has demonstrated reliability.

Refer to the attached Exhibit D-2 (5).

(6) Secure Access. Access to the trading system is secure and protected.

TPs may not connect to J-GATE by using any method except the connectivity specifications defined by OSE, and may not conduct certain actions such as connecting to J-GATE from unauthorized User IDs and the network addresses and/or port numbers other than those that they have applied for OSE.

TPs are required to enter a Login ID and a password to log in J-GATE. A Login ID is assigned by OSE per User ID according to the defined rules. The password shall be set by TPs according to the defined specification. J-GATE permits a single log-in for one Login ID. The Login ID that has been logged in is forced to be logged out when another log-in is attempted with the same Login ID.

Furthermore, the arrownet, which connects TP's systems to OSE/TSE system sites, ensures secure access to J-GATE. The robust optional fiber ring network has totally separate backup route and the cables are 99 % buried in preparation for large-scale disasters, etc. A dedicated system conducts failure monitoring for the specified network devices in 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

(7) Emergency Provisions. There are adequate provisions for emergency operations and disaster recovery.

Refer to the attached Exhibit D-2(7).

(8) Data Loss Prevention. Trading data is backed up to prevent loss of data.

Refer to the attached Exhibit D-2(8).

(9) Contracts Available. Mechanisms are available to ensure that only those futures, option or swap contracts that have been identified to the Commission as part of the application or permitted to be made available for trading by direct access pursuant to the procedures set forth in § 48.10 are made available for trading by direct access.

J-GATE has a mechanism to configure the products allowed to trade per each Sub-Participant. Therefore, OSE is able to configure J-GATE to allow a Remote TP in the U.S. to trade only the contracts that are permitted to trade by direct access.

(10) Predominance of the Centralized Market. Mechanisms are available that ensure a competitive, open, and efficient market and mechanism for executing transactions.

All products that are available for trading through J-GATE can be traded both on the auction-driven market and the J-NET market. As described in (1) above, order matching and execution are conducted in a competitive, open, and efficient manner on the auction-driven market. On the J-NET market, although transactions are executed on a negotiation basis, a prescribed price range within which trading is conducted for each product and transactions are executed only at a price close to market price. Specifically, the executable price range is set to a prescribed range from the last trade price or a mid-price of the best bid and offer on the auction-driven market.⁶⁹

⁶⁹ OSE sets the executable price range for handling pursuant to Rule 5, Paragraph 3 of the Special Rules for Business Regulations and Brokerage Agreement Standards Relating to the J-NET Market.

All the above index futures contracts and Mini 10-year JGB futures contracts are futures contracts falling under the category of “transactions wherein the parties thereto promise to pay or receive the amount of money calculated based on the difference between the figure of a Financial Indicator to which the parties agree in advance ... and the Actual Figure of the Financial Indicator at a fixed time in the future” as prescribed in Article 2, Paragraph 21, Item 2 of the FIEA. Mini 10-year contracts are futures contracts based on prices of 10-year JGB futures.

The government bond futures contracts excluding Mini 10-year JGB futures contracts are futures contracts based on standardized government bond. The position of which neither resale nor repurchase are made by the last trading day shall be settled by paying/receiving deliverable bonds and cash. The contracts are futures contracts falling under the category of “transactions wherein the parties thereto promise to deliver or receive Financial Instruments or consideration for them at a fixed time in the future, and, when the resale or repurchase of the underlying Financial Instruments are made, settlement thereof may be made by paying or receiving the difference” as prescribed in Article 2, Paragraph 21, Item 1 of the FIEA.

The options on 10-year JGB futures contracts are American-type options whose exercise results in transactions in 10-year JGB futures contracts. They are options contracts falling under the category of “transactions wherein the parties thereto promise that one of the parties thereto grants the other party an option to effect a transaction listed in the following items between the parties only by unilateral manifestation of the other party's intention, and the other party pays the consideration for such option” as prescribed in Article 2, Paragraph 21, Item 3 of the FIEA.

Contract Specifications

Refer to Exhibit A-4.

Material Changes in Contract Specifications

(1) Expansion of contract months for Nikkei 225 Futures, effective from July 16, 2013

The contract months for Nikkei 225 Futures and Mini Nikkei 225 Index Futures (Nikkei 225 mini) contracts were expanded on July 16, 2013, in order to improve convenience for market participants. For Nikkei 225 Futures contracts, the number of contract months was changed to 13 quarterly months (i.e. March, June, September and December contracts). Durations of contract months are five years for June and December contracts and one and a half years for March and September contracts. For Nikkei 225 mini contracts, the number of contract months was changed to 16 months: 13 quarterly months and the nearest three months other than the quarterly months. Durations of contract months are the same as that of Nikkei 225 Futures for quarterly contract months, five months for January, April, July and October contracts and four months for other months.

(2) Harmonization of trading rules for the former TSE contracts, effective from March 24, 2014
Following the derivatives market integration on March 24, 2014, trading rules for the former TSE contracts⁷⁰ were harmonized with those of OSE such that: (a) trading hours in the night session for the former TSE contracts were extended from 11:30 p.m. to 3:00 a.m.; (b) the method of determining price limit range for the former TSE index futures contracts changed from the range in accordance with the base price for price limits (i.e. previous day's settlement price) into 8% of the price for calculating the price limit; and (c) criteria for triggering static circuit breakers were changed into the case where a buy (sell) order is placed (or executed) at the upper (lower) price limit for the central contract month of the futures contract, and no subsequent trades are executed outside 10% of the daily price limit range (in the case of JGB futures contracts, dynamic circuit breaker range) from said upper (lower) price limit in the next minute.

(3) Rule revisions in connection with upgrade of J-GATE, effective from July 19, 2016

(a) Extension of trading hours

The start time of day session for index futures excluding Nikkei 225 VI Futures changed from 9:00 a.m. to 8:45 a.m. The closing time of night session changed from 3:00 a.m. to 5:30 a.m. For Nikkei 225 VI Futures, a night session was established until 7:00 p.m. In addition, non-cancel period ("NCP") was introduced before the opening auction of the day and night sessions and the closing auction of the night session for Nikkei 225 Futures, Nikkei 225 mini and TOPIX Futures. NCP is one-minute period during which new orders can be placed but existing orders cannot, in principle, be amended or cancelled.

(b) Change in method of calculating the final settlement price of Nikkei 225 VI

The final settlement price for Nikkei 225 VI futures changed to a special value that is calculated using the opening price of each component issue within 10 minutes from the start time of the day session based on the Nikkei 225 VI calculation. It used to be the average of Nikkei 225 VI values calculated at 15-second intervals during the 10-minute period from the start time of the day session.

Demonstrate that the contracts are not prohibited from being traded by United States persons, i.e., the contracts are not prohibited security futures or single stock contracts or narrow-based index contracts. For non-narrow based stock index futures contracts, demonstrate that the contracts have received Commission certification pursuant to the procedures set forth in § 30.13 and Appendix D to part 30 of this chapter.

The contracts to be available for direct access do not include security futures contracts, single stock futures contracts and narrow-based index contracts.

The non-narrow based index futures contracts that are included in this form are the index futures contracts that previously have been the subject of a no-action letter of the Commission's Office of the General Counsel⁷¹ or a certification pursuant to Commission Rule 30.13 and which are permitted to be traded by U.S. persons thereunder.⁷² These contracts and the date of issuance

Demonstrate that the contracts are required to be cleared.

OSE designates JSCC as the clearing organization that conducts financial instruments obligation assumption service relating to transactions executed on the OSE markets.⁷³ The futures and options transactions executed on the OSE markets are settled between the Clearing Participant of JSCC and JSCC.⁷⁴ The FIEA requires a clearing organization to prescribe in its business rule transaction causing obligations subject to Financial Instruments Obligation Assumption

Identify any contracts that are linked to a contract listed for trading on a United States-registered entity, as defined in section 1a(40) of the Act. A linked contract is a contract that settles against any price (including the daily or final settlement price) of one or more contracts listed for trading on such registered entity.

The products OSE intends to be made available for direct access in this application do not include linked contracts.

The futures contracts on the Dow Jones Industrial Average (OSE DJIA Futures) are available for trading on OSE's market. Since OSE uses the final settlement price for the futures contracts on the Dow Jones Industrial Average listed for trading on the Chicago Board of Trade as the final settlement price for the OSE DJIA Futures contracts, it will be considered as "linked contracts"; however, OSE does not intend to make the OSE DJIA Futures contracts available for trading by direct access. Therefore, OSE DJIA Futures contract is not included as a linked contract in this application.

Exhibit E-5

Identify any contracts that have any other relationship with a contract listed for trading on a registered entity, i.e., both the foreign board of trade's and the registered entity's contract settle to the price of the same third party-constructed index.

Two futures contracts on Nikkei Stock Average ("Nikkei 225") are available for trading on

⁷⁶ See FIEA, Article 156-7, Paragraph 2, Item 2.

OSE's market: Nikkei 225 Futures contracts and Nikkei 225 mini contracts, whose multiplier is ¥1,000 and ¥100 respectively. Three futures contracts on the same underlying, Nikkei 225, are available for trading on Chicago Mercantile Exchange ("CME"), whose multiplier is ¥500, ¥100 and $5. However, the OSE contracts do not settle to the price of the CME contract and the contracts therefore are not linked contracts. See, Commission Rule 48.2.

The final settlement price for Nikkei 225 Futures and Nikkei 225 mini is a Special Quotation calculated based on the total opening prices of each component stock of Nikkei Stock Average on the business day following the last trading day. The final settlement price is calculated by OSE and is used as the final settlement price of the futures contracts on Nikkei 225 listed for trading on CME.

Exhibit E-6

Demonstrate that the contracts are not readily susceptible to manipulation. In addition, for each contract to be listed, describe each investigation, action, proceeding or case involving manipulation and involving such contract in the three years preceding the application date, whether initiated by the foreign board of trade, a regulatory or self-regulatory authority or agency or other government or prosecutorial agency. For each such action, proceeding or case, describe the alleged manipulative activity and the current status or resolution thereof.

Demonstration that Contracts are not Readily Susceptible to Manipulation

OSE, in order to have been issued a no-action letter by the Office of the General Counsel or certified by CFTC, demonstrated that each index futures contract respectively satisfied the statutory standards that: 1) the contract must be cash-settled; 2) trading in the contract shall not be readily susceptible to manipulation; and 3) such group or index of securities shall not constitute a narrow-based security index. These contracts remain in compliance with these requirements and the terms of the OGC no-action letter or certification.

As discussed in greater detail in Exhibit G-4, OSE and JPX-R conducts real-time and post-trading surveillance, in order to detect and prevent unfair trading such as market manipulation. In addition, JPX-R is a member of Inter-market Surveillance Group ("ISG"), which consists of world major self-regulatory organizations. ISG members share knowledge or experience for effective market surveillance corresponding to internationalization of and sophistication of financial markets, which enhances JPX-R's capability of market surveillance.

Cases of Investigation

Out of the results of investigation relating to futures and options on futures contracts currently listed for trading on the OSE market, the Market Surveillance and Compliance Department of JPX-R(including the Market Surveillance Department of OSE before the entrustment of self-regulatory operations) reported the following cases suspicious of unfair trading to Securities and Exchange Surveillance Commission (“SESC”), a government regulatory body, from three years before the initial Application.

No.	Contracts	Incidents
1	Nikkei 225 Futures, Nikkei 225 mini	Correction or cancellation of large-sized orders during the order acceptance period before opening of auction market
2	Nikkei 225 Futures, Nikkei 225 mini	Correction or cancellation of large-sized orders during auction trading
3	Nikkei 225 mini	Correction or cancellation of large-sized orders during the order acceptance period before closing of night session
4	10-year JGB Futures	Correction or cancellation of large-sized orders during auction trading
5	TOPIX Futures	Correction or cancellation of large-sized orders during auction trading

Cases of Disciplinary Actions being Taken

The followings are the cases that disciplinary actions were taken with respect to manipulation of futures and options on futures contracts currently listed on the OSE markets from three years before the initial Application:

⁷⁷ Investigation Case No.5

EXHIBIT F – THE REGULATORY REGIME GOVERNING THE FOREIGN BOARD OF TRADE IN ITS HOME COUNTRY OR COUNTRIES

(1) Description of the regulatory regime/authority’s structure, resources, staff, and scope of authority; the regulatory regime/authority’s authorizing statutes, including the source of its authority to supervise the foreign board of trade; the rules and policy statements issued by the regulator with respect to the authorization and continuing oversight of markets, electronic trading systems, and clearing organizations; and the financial protections afforded customer funds.

Applicable Law

The regulatory framework governing OSE is established by the FIEA. The FIEA was enacted in September 2007 by amending and renaming the Securities and Exchange Law, and by moving the regulation of the sale and solicitation of financial instruments from its own discrete set of regulations to the broader law which applies generally to all financial instrument firms. The FIEA was enacted to: establish an over-all framework for a wide range of financial instruments and services; enhance disclosure requirements; provide organizational structures for the self-regulatory functions of financial instruments exchanges; and increase maximum criminal penalties against market fraud.

The FIEA broadened the scope of existing regulations in order to eliminate the different regulations for financial instruments whose economic functions were identical. This helped establish a single framework for a wide range of financial instruments and services. Specifically, the FIEA developed a comprehensive definition of a “derivative transaction” to include futures, forwards, options, swaps and credit derivatives.⁷⁸ This new definition greatly expanded the scope of regulated financial instruments and services.⁷⁹

⁷⁸ See, FIEA, Article 2 Paragraphs 21 and 22 with respect to derivatives or market transactions of derivatives, respectively.

⁷⁹ Additionally, the FIEA enhanced disclosure requirements by introducing a quarterly reporting system and internal control reporting system for listed companies. The internal control reporting system mirrors the Sarbanes-Oxley Act

In addition, to ensure user protection, to secure fairness and transparency of trading and to establish public confidence in the markets, the FIEA increased maximum criminal penalties against various market abuses and misconduct. The criminal penalties for unfair trading, spreading of rumors, use of fraudulent means and market manipulation were raised for individuals to incarceration for a maximum period of 10 years or the assessment of a maximum of ¥10 million (approximately $85.8 thousands) in fines or a combination thereof.⁸⁰ Criminal penalties for corporations with dual liability were raised to a maximum fine of ¥700 million (approximately $6.0 million).⁸¹ The FIEA also imposes civil penalties for making false statements, spreading of rumors, trading by fraudulent means, market manipulation and insider trading, where the amount of penalty imposed is to be the amount of the financial benefit received as a result of such misconduct.⁸²

Furthermore, the FIEA provides that a financial instruments exchange is required to have in place an appropriate self-regulatory framework.⁸³ Financial instruments exchanges can delegate their self-regulatory functions to either a self-regulatory organization, which is a separate entity specialized for self-regulatory operations and for which the approval of the Commissioner of FSA is necessary,⁸⁴ or to an independent self-regulatory committee within the

in the U.S. For example, quarterly financial statements attached to quarterly reports are subject to audits by certified public accountants or auditing firms and the submission of false quarterly reports is subject to criminal and civil money penalties. Additionally, reports evaluating internal controls of financial reporting are mandatory and management must submit a certification stating that the financial statements are appropriate under the FIEA.

⁸⁰ See FIEA, Article 197, Paragraph 1.

⁸¹ See FIEA, Article 207, Paragraph 1.

⁸² See FIEA, Articles 172, 172-2, 173, 174 and 175.

⁸³ See FIEA, Article 84, Paragraph 2. Such self-regulatory operations include the financial instruments exchange's operations for listing and delisting of financial instruments, financial indicators and options, and the investigation of Trading Participants with respect to their adherence to laws and regulations, the exchange rules, or the just and equitable principles of trade.

⁸⁴ See FIEA, Article 85.

A self-regulatory organization conducts self-regulatory operations for financial instruments exchanges under entrustment from the financial instruments exchanges. It may be established only by a financial instruments exchange or financial instruments exchange holding company, and its member is limited to financial instruments exchanges or financial instruments exchange holding companies.⁸⁶ It must obtain authorization from the Prime Minister of Japan when it intends to conduct self-regulatory operations.⁸⁷ It may not engage in operations for profit, and not conduct any operations other than self-regulatory operations and the operations incidental thereto.⁸⁸ Also, it may not re-entrust the self-regulatory operations that has been entrusted from a financial instruments exchange to another entity.⁸⁹ It has a president, board members and auditors, and the majority of the board members must be outside board members. Decisions on material issues are made in the council meeting, and a resolution of the meeting is adopted by a majority of the board members present and by a majority of outside board members present, when a majority of board members are present. A financial instruments exchange that entrusts self-regulatory operations must obtain the consent of the self-regulatory organization when it intends to amend or abolish matters related to self-regulatory operations prescribed in its rules.

Regulatory Authority

The Prime Minister has supervisory authority over all financial instruments exchanges in Japan and is authorized to grant licenses to financial instruments exchanges and to approve changes in their Articles of Incorporation, Business Regulations or Brokerage Agreement Standards, and listing of securities issued by financial instruments exchanges or derivatives contracts on such securities.⁹⁰ The Prime Minister has delegated these powers, other than the authority to grant licenses to financial instruments exchanges, to the Commissioner of the FSA, which was established in July 2000.

The FSA is responsible for ensuring the stability of Japan's financial system, for protecting investors by, among other things, establishing rules for trading in financial instruments markets, inspecting and supervising market participants and related parties, such as financial instruments exchanges, and surveying compliance of rules in financial instruments markets and for facilitating financial services. The FSA has an authorized staff of up to 1,571⁹¹ and is organized into seven major components: the Administrative Law Judge, the Planning and Coordination Bureau, the Inspection Bureau, the Supervisory Bureau, Vice Minister for International Affairs, the Securities and Exchange Surveillance Commission ("SESC") and the Certified Public Accountants and Auditing Oversight Board.

The SESC oversees the financial instruments markets, and the implementation of the FIEA expanded the authorities of the SESC. The SESC has a staff of 763 (411 in the SESC office, 352 in local offices) and is directed by a Chairman and two Commissioners appointed by the Prime Minister with the consent of both houses of the National Diet of Japan.⁹² To ensure their independence when exercising their authorities, these officials cannot be dismissed against their will during their three year terms. The SESC's Executive Bureau is composed of six independent divisions: the Coordination Division, the Market Surveillance Division, the Inspection Division, the Administrative Monetary Penalty Division, the Disclosure Statements Inspection Division and the Investigation Division. The English language web site of the SESC is at: <http://www.fsa.go.jp/sesc/english/index.htm>.

The SESC conducts: daily market surveillance; inspections of market participants and related parties; investigations into criminal cases and accusation thereof; compliance reviews of market intermediaries; examinations of disclosure documents; and investigations into acts suspected to have compromised fairness of financial instruments trading. The SESC monitors financial instruments markets every day and may require financial instruments business operators to submit detailed reports or materials related to any specific transactions. Where it is convinced after an investigation, the SESC may recommend administrative disciplinary actions or file formal complaints with the public prosecutors. Additionally, the SESC is empowered to file motions with the court for prohibition or suspension of acts violating the FIEA.

Requirements relating to Exchange Operation

Under the FIEA, financial instruments exchanges are required to include detailed provisions within their rules relating to: matters relating to TPs; matters relating to clearing margins (including deposit and management of clearing margins; provided, however, excluding the case of having other financial instruments clearing organization conduct financial instruments obligation assumption service);⁹³ matters relating to kind and period of market transactions of derivatives, starting, ending and suspending market transactions of derivatives, methods of conclusion of a contract for market transactions of derivatives, method of transfer and other settlement for market transactions of derivatives and other matters necessary for market transaction of derivatives.⁹⁴

Additionally, financial instruments exchanges must require TPs to conform to the FIEA and all related laws, regulations and government orders. Specifically, financial instruments exchanges must be operated to achieve the fair and orderly sale and purchase of securities and market transactions of derivatives, as well as to conduct market surveillance and to contribute to the protection of investors.⁹⁵ OSE provides that TPs must ensure fair pricing and orderly circulation on the OSE markets, and use their best efforts to preserve and improve the function of the OSE as a financial instruments exchange.⁹⁶

(2) Description of and, where applicable, copies of the laws, rules, regulations and policies applicable to:

(i) The authorization, licensure or registration of the foreign board of trade.

⁹⁴ See FIEA, Article 117.

⁹⁵ See FIEA, Article 110.

⁹⁶ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 4.

The FIEA provides that no person other than an Authorized Financial Instruments Firms Association may establish a Financial Instruments Market unless said person has obtained a license from the prime minister.⁹⁷ The criteria for examination of the license are as the following: (a) the provisions of the articles of incorporation, the operational rules and the brokerage contract rules conform to laws and regulations, and are sufficient for achieving fair and smooth sale and purchase of securities and Market Transactions of Derivatives on the Financial Instruments Exchange Market as well as for protection of investors; (b) the applicant for license has a personnel structure sufficient for appropriately operating the Financial Instruments Exchange Market; and (c) the applicant for license will be organized as a Financial Instruments Exchange in such a manner that conforms to the provisions of the FIEA.⁹⁸

(ii) The regulatory regime/authority's program for the ongoing supervision and oversight of the foreign board of trade and the enforcement of its trading rules.

When the Prime Minister finds it necessary and appropriate for the public interest or protection of investors, he/she may order a financial instruments exchange to change its articles of incorporation and/or operational rules or trade practice.⁹⁹ For other regulatory regime for the ongoing supervision and the enforcement of its trading rules, please refer to (4) below.

(iii) The financial resource requirements applicable to the authorization, licensure or registration of the foreign board of trade and the continued operations thereof.

Under the FIEA, the amount of the stated capital of a Stock Company-Type Financial Instrument Exchange must be ¥1 billion (approximately $8.6 million) or more.¹⁰⁰ When a Stock Company-Type Financial Instruments Exchange intends to reduce the amount of its stated capital, it is required to obtain an authorization from the Prime Minister. On the other hand, when it intends to increase the amount of its stated capital, it is required to notify to that effect to the Prime Minister.¹⁰¹

(iv) The extent to which the IOSCO Principles are used or applied by the regulatory regime/authority in its supervision and oversight of the foreign board of trade or are incorporated into its rules and regulations and the extent to which the regulatory regime/authority reviews the applicable trading systems for compliance therewith.

The Japan's FSA adopted the IOSCO Principles. OSE has developed and operates the J-GATE under the supervision of the FSA that adopted the IOSCO Principles. OSE is subject to inspection by the FSA on an irregular basis, as part of which the FSA conducts inspection on OSE's systems including J-GATE. In addition, in case of system replacement or major update, OSE reports to the FSA the contents of the development and the progress thereof. The FSA may conduct inspection on such development, etc.

(v) The extent to which the regulatory regime/authority reviews and/or approves the trading rules of the foreign board of trade prior to their implementation.

When a Financial Instruments Exchange intends to amend its articles of incorporation, business regulations and brokerage agreement standards, it is required to obtain authorization from the Prime Minister. Also, when it intends to amend other rules, it is required to notify to the Prime Minister to that effect.¹⁰²

(vi) The extent to which the regulatory regime/authority reviews and/or approves futures, option or swap contracts prior to their being listed for trading.

When a financial indicator (index) underlying index futures contracts, a financial instruments (standardized government bond) underlying government bond futures contracts and options are to be listed¹⁰³, the Business Regulations and other related rules must be amended. Therefore, OSE must obtain authorization of the amendment from the Prime Minister. For the authorization, the FSA, to which the Prime Minister delegates its authority, examines the amendment.

After the rule amendment is authorized and the new listing is determined, the listing of the financial indicator, etc. must be notified to the Prime Minister. The notification is made to a commissioner of the finance bureau of the Ministry of Finance of Japan, to which the FSA entrusts a part of its business.

(vii) The regulatory regime/authority’s approach to the detection and deterrence of abusive trading practices, market manipulation, and other unfair trading practices or disruptions of the market.

The FIEA prohibits trading activities harming market fairness. These include, among others, spreading false rumors,¹⁰⁴ engaging in insider trading¹⁰⁵, engaging in market manipulation,¹⁰⁶ and engaging in misleading or false transactions.¹⁰⁷ If the FIEA’s provisions on unfair trading activities are considered to be violated, the SESC may recommend to the Prime Minister and the Commissioner of the FSA that an order to pay administrative penalties be issued.

In addition, the SESC works closely with self-regulatory organizations (“SROs”), particularly self-regulatory departments at financial instruments exchanges. The SESC and SROs share information regarding market oversight and surveillance on issues such as insider trading and transaction management. Additionally, the SESC is authorized to conduct inspections of the SROs to check if they are carrying out their self-regulatory duties and properly sanctioning their TPs for violations of their self-regulatory rules.

In addition, the SESC may submit to the Prime Minister, the Commissioner of the FSA or the Minister of Finance policy proposals that are considered necessary to ensure fairness in financial instruments transactions or investor protection, based on the results of the SESC market surveillance, inspections or investigations. For example, if current laws and regulations are found to be insufficient, the SESC proposes reviewing the current laws and regulations by presenting specific facts and problems with such laws and regulations.

(3) A description of the laws, rules, regulations and policies that govern the authorization and ongoing supervision and oversight of market intermediaries who may deal with members and other participants located in the United States participants, including:

(i) Recordkeeping requirements.

(ii) The protection of customer funds.

(iii) Procedures for dealing with the failure of a market intermediary in order to minimize damage and loss to investors and to contain systemic risk.

Remote TPs, including those in the U.S., must designate an Agency Clearing Participant to which they entrust clearing of transactions for their own. An entity eligible to become an Index Futures, etc. Agency Clearing Participant and a Government Bond Futures, etc, Agency Clearing Participant of JSCC must be type-I financial instruments business operator or registered financial institution, both of which are subject to the FIEA and the oversight of the FSA to which the Prime Minister delegates its authority.

The type-I financial instruments business operator or registered financial institution that is an Agency Clearing Participant must prepare and maintain a trade record relating to the brokerage for clearing of securities, etc. and retain said record for ten years.¹⁰⁸ The brokerage for clearing of securities, etc. means making the obligation arisen from a transaction conducted by a financial instruments business operator or registered financial institution under entrustment by a customer and for the account of the customer assumed by a financial instruments clearing organization.¹⁰⁹

For preservation of customer assets, a financial instruments business operator or registered financial institution are required to segregate customer funds and securities from their proprietary funds and securities.¹¹⁰

(4) Description of the regulatory regime/authority’s inspection, investigation and surveillance powers; and the program pursuant to which the regulatory regime/authority uses those powers to inspect, investigate, and enforce rules applicable to the foreign board of trade.

The FIEA requires a financial instruments exchange to notify or submit documents concerning its operation, etc. For instance, when a financial instruments exchange suspends, or cancels suspension of, trading of financial instruments, etc listed on its market, it must notify the Prime Minister to that effect.¹¹¹ Also, it must report to the Prime Minister trading volume and opening, high, low and closing prices for each listed instrument.¹¹² Furthermore, pursuant to the Article 188 of the FIEA, a financial instruments exchange must periodically submit financial statements and business report, as well as documents stating maintenance and management conditions of the systems to the Commissioner of the FSA. Also in cases where it takes a disciplinary action against its TP pursuant to its Articles of Incorporation or where a system failure occurs, it must submit related documents to the Commissioner of the FSA. In addition, the FSA, as a regulatory authority, ensures effectiveness of supervision by inspecting a financial instruments exchange on an irregular basis.

One of the strongest tools for supervisory enforcement is the Prime Minister’s ability to order the financial instruments exchange to dismiss any officer of a financial instruments exchange that has violated laws and regulations, the exchange’s own articles of incorporation or the disposition of any government agency.¹¹³ This also applies to officers of self-regulatory organizations and to members of self-regulatory committees.

In addition, the Prime Minister may order a financial instruments exchange, its subsidiary company or a party that received entrustment of business from the exchange to produce any information or materials that will be helpful for understanding the operation of its business or its property. This includes inspection authority with respect to operation of the exchange or intermediation business.¹¹⁴

Finally, the Prime Minister may order a financial instruments exchange to make specific improvements in its operations, to rescind its license, or to take other disciplinary action. These authorities are contained in Articles 152 and 153 of the FIEA. For example, under the FIEA, Article 152, the Prime Minister may suspend a financial instruments exchange's license for failing to exercise its powers or to take any other necessary measures for enforcing the obligations of its TPs that are in violation of any law or regulation, or committing an act contrary to the fair and equitable principles of transactions. In addition, under Article 153, the Prime Minister may require a financial instruments exchange to undertake certain supervisory measures with regard to compliance with applicable law and regulations, if it is found necessary and appropriate for the public interest or protection of investors.

(5) For both the foreign board of trade and the clearing organization (unless addressed in Supplement S-1), a report confirming that the foreign board of trade and clearing organization are in regulatory good standing, which report should be prepared subsequent to consulting with the regulatory regime/authority governing the activities of the foreign board of trade and any associated clearing organization.

Refer to the attached Exhibit F(5).

(6) For both the foreign board of trade and the clearing organization (unless addressed in Supplement S-1), a confirmation that the regulatory regime/authority governing the activities of the foreign board of trade and the clearing organization agree to cooperate with a Commission staff visit subsequent to submission of the application on an “as needed basis,” the objectives of which will be to, among other things, familiarize Commission staff with supervisory staff of the regulatory regime/authority; discuss the laws, rules and regulations that formed the basis of the application and any changes thereto; discuss the cooperation and coordination between the authorities, including, without limitation, information sharing arrangements; and discuss issues of concern as they may develop from time to time (for example, linked contracts or unusual trading that may be of concern to Commission surveillance staff).

Exhibit G-1

Description of the foreign board of trade’s regulatory or compliance department, including its size, experience level, competencies, duties and responsibilities.

Under the OSE’s Articles of Incorporation, TPs must abide by the FIEA and its related laws and regulations, dispositions given by government agencies based thereon, the OSE’s own Articles of Incorporation, Business Regulations, Brokerage Agreement Standards and other rules, and just and equitable principles of trade.¹¹⁵ OSE promulgates rules concerning self-regulatory operations to ensure that its TPs remain in compliance with these requirements.

In order to ensure independence of self-regulatory operations, OSE entrusts examination on qualifications of TPs, investigations into TPs complying with laws and regulations, examination of derivatives trading, and services regarding disciplinary actions and other measures. The departments of JPX-R related to self-regulatory operations of the OSE markets are described below.

In September 2015, International Surveillance Office was established under Market Surveillance & Compliance Department as a specialized unit to conduct market surveillance of cross-border transactions. The office also studies regulations and trends outside Japan regarding unfair trading and seek cooperation with foreign self-regulatory organizations.

As of the end of November 2016, 69 staff members (52 in Tokyo and 17 in Osaka) engage in the operations of the Market Surveillance & Compliance Department. The function and experience of key staff members are as follows:

Director (two) (two years of experience on average)

OSE fulfills its self-regulatory responsibilities in a manner comparable to designated contract markets in the U.S. OSE has a comprehensive rule book requiring that TPs, among other things: have adequate capital, employ sound internal management and risk controls, establish transaction management systems, prevent unfair trading, ensure fair pricing, investigate customers qualifications, provide OSE with requested information, submit to inspection by OSE and register representatives with OSE.¹¹⁶

Exhibit G-2

Description of the foreign board of trade's trade practice rules

¹¹⁶Trading Participant Regulations, Rules 4, 17, 21, 21-3, 30; Rules Concerning Examinations on Obtainment of Trading Qualifications, Rule 2.

OSE rules prohibit TPs from acting “contrary to the just and equitable principles of trade.”¹¹⁷ Such actions are defined in the rule as actions that “damage the credibility of OSE or TPs of OSE, or are contrary to good faith in respect of OSE or TPs of the OSE” and 1) interfering with or obstructing business of OSE or its TPs; 2) fraudulent, dishonest or improper activities or gross negligence in administering transaction business or 3) accumulating and selling stocks at a profit to a party related to the company that issued such stocks against their will by abusing dominant bargaining position.¹¹⁸ Additionally, OSE has a general requirement that TPs make “best efforts” to preserve and improve the function of the OSE markets.¹¹⁹ OSE, in addition to the rules and regulations already in place, may prescribe additional regulations in relation to the efficient operation of OSE markets.¹²⁰

OSE has promulgated rules detailing the requirements of brokerage agreements. The OSE’s Brokerage Agreement Standards (including the Special Rules¹²¹) include conditions for acceptance of orders, methods of settlement, customer’s clearing margin requirements, confirmations and various other matters with which customers and TPs must comply. In these rules, OSE requires a customer to set up an account for futures/options trading with a TP, and to submit to the TP “Agreement for Setting up Futures/Options Trading Account” in the form specified by OSE.¹²² The agreement shall be submitted for the purpose of verifying the customer’s intention to comply with the FIEA and other related laws, rules and regulations of OSE and JSCC, and to acknowledge the matters stipulated in the agreement.

In addition, OSE requires TPs to establish systems which prevent the acceptance and entry of erroneous customer orders.¹²³ OSE also requires that TPs establish transaction management systems relating to the prevention of unfair trading practices in accordance with the stipulations of OSE.¹²⁴ OSE prohibits the abuse of the customer's orders, including the practice of trading ahead of customer orders by TPs.¹²⁵ When conducting an inspection, the inspectors check the existence and adequacy of the TP's internal control system to prevent such abuses and whether such abuses have occurred.¹²⁶

OSE may, when inspecting the TP's observance of the laws and regulations or of the OSE's rules etc., or in other cases where OSE deems it necessary in the light of the objectives of OSE and the operation of the OSE markets, demand the TP to submit a report or document relevant to the TP's operation or property, or may inspect the actual state of the TP's operation or property, or its books, documents or other materials.¹²⁷ This authority provides OSE with the ability to obtain from TPs information necessary for OSE to complete effective rule enforcement and investigations.

As discussed in more detail in Exhibit G-4, OSE and JPX-R, in order to ensure fair and smooth trading on the OSE markets, conducts real-time and post-trading surveillance, including providing for an audit trail that captures trade-related data. Also as discussed in greater detail below, OSE has the authority to impose sanctions and discipline TPs for violations.

In addition to its authority to discipline TPs for violative conduct, OSE has a number of ¹²⁴ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 21.

¹²⁵ See, Rules Regarding Just and Equitable Principles of Trade, Rule 4, Paragraph 1, Item 7 and Rule 3, Item 5(violation of the just and equitable principles of trade). The abuse of customer orders is also prohibited under Article 117 (1) (x), (xi), (xii) and (xxiv) of the Cabinet Office Ordinance regarding the Financial Instruments Business.

¹²⁶ A type-I Financial Instruments Business Operator that is a TP of OSE is also required to be a member of the Japan Securities Dealers Association ("JSDA"), an Authorized Financial Instruments Firms Association. The JSDA is a self-regulatory organization which has authority to promote fair practices and prescribe rules to eliminate unfair trading. The rules and the guidelines prescribed by JSDA require a type-I financial instruments business operator to establish the internal control system for preventing the actions prohibited under the FIEA.

¹²⁷ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 17.

additional authorities with which it can address market irregularities. For example, OSE has various authorities to control trading such as temporarily changing the trading hours prescribed, temporarily suspending trading totally or partially, temporarily holding a trading session and even cancelling or suspending transactions.¹²⁸ Furthermore, OSE has the authority to take emergency actions. Under this emergency authority, OSE may impose necessary and appropriate regulations relating to the business of TPs if OSE considers there is an urgent need thereof.¹²⁹

Moreover, OSE has rules to promote transparency in market operations. For example, OSE notifies TPs and interested members of the public, such as the press, through the market data system or the website with respect to the total transacted amounts each day on the OSE markets.¹³⁰ Likewise, in compliance with Article 131 of the FIEA, OSE provides reports to the Prime Minister of the total trading volume each day on OSE markets.¹³¹ Furthermore, OSE will make reports to the press and public concerning the condition of the OSE markets if necessary, but TPs are prohibited from making such reports or engaging in similar acts.¹³²

Margin Rules

OSE has rules for matters related to Clearing Margin for futures and options contracts. While those for Clearing Participants (“CPs”) of JSCC are prescribed by JSCC, such matters for TPs that do not have a Clearing Qualification of JSCC (“Non-CPs”) and those for between customers and TPs are prescribed by OSE. As noted above, Remote TPs clear through an Agency Clearing Participant and therefore will be subject to OSE’s clearing margin rules.

¹²⁸ Business Regulations, Rules 18, 20, 25, 32 and 33.

¹²⁹ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 23.

¹³⁰ Business Regulations, Rule 48.

¹³¹ Business Regulations, Rule 49.

¹³² Business Regulations, Rule 50.

The definition and purpose of Clearing Margin¹³³ is the same as those in JSCC's margin rules. However, in OSE's margin rules, a margin other than Clearing Margin is also defined as the one to ensure that a customer's obligations related to futures and options trading to its TP are fulfilled.¹³⁴

When a sale or purchase of futures contracts for the proprietary account or customers' accounts, or a sale of options contracts (i.e. options on futures, index options and/or security options contracts - but as applicable to this application, only options on futures) is concluded, a Non-CP is required to submit to or deposit with its Designated CP the Clearing Margin in an amount not less than the Clearing Margin Requirement prescribed by JSCC by the time specified by the Designated CP that is no later than 12:00 noon of the day following the date on which the contract was executed.¹³⁵ Also, when there is a deficit in the amount of the Clearing Margin respectively for its proprietary account or customers' accounts deposited, the Non-CP must submit to or deposit with the Designated CP the additional Clearing Margin, in an amount not less than the shortfall, by the time specified by the Designated CP that is no later than noon of the day following the occurrence of the shortfall.¹³⁶

A Non-CP, acting as the agent, shall deposit with its Designated CP the Clearing Margin submitted by a customer. However, when Customer Margin¹³⁷ is deposited by a customer, the Non-CP shall deposit with its Designated-CP its own money or securities as the Clearing Margin, in an amount not less than the amount deposited by the customer.¹³⁸ Also, a Non-CP

¹³³ Clearing Margin is a margin deposited with JSCC for the purpose of ensuring that a CP's obligations to JSCC, a Non-CP's obligations to its Designated CP or a customer's obligations to its TP related to futures and options trading are fulfilled.

¹³⁴ Rules on Margin, Rule 3.

¹³⁵ Rules on Margin, Rule 5, Rule 6 and Rule 8.

¹³⁶ Rules on Margin, Rule 9.

¹³⁷ Customer Margin means the margin deposited with a Non-CP, etc. by the customer in cases where the Non-CP, etc. deposit or submit as Clearing Margin their own money or securities in an amount not less than the amount deposited in lieu of the deposited margin with an approval of the customer.

¹³⁸ Rules on Margin, Rule 6.

is required to notify its Designated CP of the sum total of the Clearing Margin Requirements for its proprietary account and customers' accounts for each trading day by the time specified by the Designated CP.¹³⁹ With respect to the notification, upon request of its Designated CP, Non-CPs shall immediately report to the Designated CP in writing on the number of customer account positions and other matters relating to customer account futures and options trading which JSCC deems necessary.¹⁴⁰

On the other hand, when margin deposits submitted to or deposited with a TP by a customer, the amount of which is obtained by adding/subtracting the amount of money to be paid/received (i.e. the amount calculated by adding options premiums to the mark-to-market results for futures contracts) to/from the margin deposited by a customer with the TP, are less than Customer's Margin Requirement prescribed by JSCC, or when the amount of money submitted or deposited by the customer as the margin is less than the amount of money to be paid, the customer is required to submit to or deposit with the TP the difference between the margin deposits and the Customer's Margin Requirement, or the difference between the amount of money submitted or deposited by the customer as the margin and the amount of money to be paid, whichever greater, by the time specified by the TP on the day following the occurrence of such deficit.¹⁴¹

Furthermore, OSE has strict rules governing a TP's ability to withdraw margin deposits. If the total amount of margin deposited by a customer exceeds the Margin Requirement, a TP may allow the customer to withdraw the substitute securities up to the exceeding amount, or the money up to the exceeding amount or up to the excess cash amount, whichever smaller, only if there is still an excess cash margin deposited after the withdrawal (i.e. the amount of money deposited as margin exceeds the amount of money to be paid).¹⁴² Additionally, if an unrealized profit (i.e. a mark-to-market profit) for futures contracts arises in a customer's position and the total amount of margin deposited exceeds the Margin Requirement, a TP may, upon request by the customer, pay the customer cash equivalent to such unrealized profit up to the exceeding amount.¹⁴³

Exhibit G-3

Description of the foreign board of trade's disciplinary rules

OSE, in fulfillment of its self-regulatory functions, possesses a number of disciplinary authorities over TPs. OSE may, after conducting a hearing, impose fines, order suspensions from or limitations to trading and to revoke a party's Trading Qualification, or issue a formal reprimand, depending on the causes.¹⁴⁴ The causes of such disciplinary actions include a breach of the agreements with OSE, an evasion of the inspection, a false report or notification to OSE and violation of laws and regulations.¹⁴⁵ Also, in cases where a TP falls under the causes prescribed in OSE's rules such as financial conditions (e.g. the amount of stated capital and net assets) do not meet the prescribed criteria, OSE may, after conducting a hearing, take regulatory dispositions against the TP such as order suspensions from or limitations to trading.¹⁴⁶ If a TP that has received a notification of disciplinary actions or regulatory dispositions considers the content unreasonable, it may file an objection by giving a reason within ten days of the date of the receipt.¹⁴⁷

In addition to disciplinary actions and regulatory dispositions, in cases where OSE finds a TP's business or financial conditions inappropriate in light of OSE's market operations, it may recommend the TP to take improvement measures and require such TP to provide a report on the measures.¹⁴⁸

¹⁴³ Rules on Margin, Rule 36.

¹⁴⁴ Articles of Incorporation, Article 47. These disciplinary actions which can be found in Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 42, specifically include: (a) revocation of a TP's trading qualification, (b) suspension from or limitation of transactions in securities or entrustment of brokerage for clearing of securities on the OSE markets for no longer than 6 months, (c) a fine of not more than ¥500 million, and/or (d) reprimand.

¹⁴⁵ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 42.

¹⁴⁶ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 43 and 43-2.

¹⁴⁸ Trading Participant Regulations, Rule 52.

OSE entrusts to JPX-R the operations concerning an investigation of TPs on the status of their observance with laws, etc., disciplinary actions and other measures. Based on the authorities of OSE described above (including the authority of investigation described in Exhibit G-2), JPX-R investigates the status of TP's observance with laws and regulations, administers the soundness of their financial conditions, and decides disciplinary actions and regulatory dispositions that OSE should take.

JPX-R investigates the actual status of TP's observance with laws and regulations and the status of their operations or financial conditions, and, based on the results of the investigation, takes necessary measures. JPX-R selects TPs to be subject to inspection based on the results of the recent inspections, etc., and inspects such TPs by on-site visit or review of documents. In cases where JPX-R finds that an act of a TP has violated or is likely to violate the laws or OSE's rules, etc. as a result of the inspection, it issues warning against the TP except for the case of disciplinary actions being taken. Also, in cases where JPX-R finds that the status of TP's operations or financial conditions is, or is likely to be, inappropriate in light of OSE's market operations, JPX-R requests an improvement in the internal control system of such TP except for the case of a recommendation being made. When JPX-R issues warning or makes a recommendation against a TP and if it deems it necessary, it requires the TP to provide a report on improvement measures, etc.

When a case arises that is subject to disciplinary actions or regulatory dispositions, JPX-R conducts a hearing to the TP, consults with the Disciplinary Committee for what disciplinary measures, etc. to be taken, and, after the discussion in the Disciplinary Committee, decides the disciplinary measures, etc. by decision of the president or resolution of the board of governors.

JPX-R determines what disciplinary action to be taken by comprehensively taking into consideration impact on the market, the degree of intent or negligence of individuals involved in the violation, the range of individuals involved in the violation, the past disciplinary action(s) taken on the TP, the improvement status after the past disciplinary action(s), etc. and the TP's internal control system. Based on the decision on disciplinary actions by JPX-R, OSE takes disciplinary actions against TPs. OSE does not have the authority to alter the disciplinary action decided by JPX-R. When taking the disciplinary action, OSE notifies the TP of what disciplinary action to be taken and the reason therefor in writing, and notifies other TPs and publishes to that effect through the OSE's website, etc.

Exhibit G-4

Description of the market surveillance program (and any related rules)

In order to ensure fair and smooth trading on the OSE markets, OSE conducts market and trade surveillance and examination. The Market Administration Department of OSE engages in the real-time surveillance of futures and options trading, while the Market Surveillance & Compliance Department of JPX-R, to which OSE entrusts its self-regulatory operations, engages in post-trade examination.

Trade Surveillance

The Market Administration Department of OSE engages in the following operations: (a) monitoring transactions on a real-time basis; (b) inquiring circumstances to TPs or requiring them when unusual events have occurred; (c) notifying JPX-R of unusual events; (d) implementing regulatory measurements such as halt of trading, etc. according to trading or market conditions; (e) maintaining parameters necessary for monitoring daily transactions or markets; and (f) accepting and implementing amendment of trades when customers' orders have not been appropriately executed due to TP's error.

As of November 30, 2016, 46 members engage in the operations above for futures and options on futures trading. The futures and options on futures contracts are traded in a night session; therefore they work in relays by 6 teams.

The surveillance of futures and options on futures trading is conducted by using a specialized electronic system. The system is configured to have criteria for large-size orders and execution, extreme price fluctuation, and amendment and cancellation of orders, etc. If a trade falls under the criteria, the system picks up such trade on a real-time basis. The staff especially monitors the trades that have been picked up to prevent or quickly notice unusual events and implement regulatory measurements. The trades that are detected through the trade surveillance and are likely to be contrary to the laws and regulations are examined by the Market Surveillance & Compliance of JPX-R on a post-trade basis.

Trade Examination

In conducting the trade examination, staff in the Market Surveillance & Compliance Department of JPX-R makes use of electronic data analysis systems to examine market movements associated with particular trades or to uncover suspicious trading patterns. The activities to be investigated include insider trading,¹⁴⁹ market manipulation and other conduct that violates the laws and regulations thereunder. For market manipulation, the subjects of the investigation are the issues considered to show unusual movements in price and/or trading volume or issues on which a report or information is made or provided by the public. The following chart illustrates in detail the steps that staff in the Market Surveillance & Compliance take in their program of trade examination. The Market Surveillance & Compliance reports the conduct considered to be unfair, inappropriate or inadequate to the Securities and Exchange Surveillance Commission (“SESC”).

¹⁴⁹ Insider trading relates mainly to security options. The subject of most insider trading investigations relate mainly to the issues for which the issuance of material facts, which are required to be published under the FIEA, are made.

Position Reporting and Position Limits

OSE does not have position reporting rules for index futures contracts, but has for JGB Futures contracts and options contracts on JGB Futures. For the nearest contract month of JGB Futures Contract (excluding Mini JGB Futures Contracts) and the options contracts underlying the nearest contract month of JGB Futures Contracts, in cases where the net position of long and short position exceeds the amount specified by OSE at a prescribed time, TPs must report information on the person who holds such position and the amount of such position.¹⁵⁰

There are no position limits rules for each individual index futures, JGB futures and options on JGB futures contract; however, OSE may restrict the total purchase or sale open interests in futures/options contracts pursuant to the Rules on Regulatory Measures Concerning Market Transactions of Derivatives or their Brokerage. In addition, OSE may in its discretion, whenever it deems it necessary for market surveillance, inquire of a Participant's own positions as well as the size and attributes of the positions of the TP's customers.

Also, in the case where a TP is deemed to have an excessive position, OSE may demand the TP take necessary measures. If the measures are deemed not to be taken, OSE may take necessary regulatory dispositions against the TP, such as suspension of or limitation from trading.¹⁵¹

EXHIBIT H – INFORMATION SHARING AGREEMENTS AMONG THE COMMISSION, THE FOREIGN BOARD OF TRADE, THE CLEARING ORGANIZATION, AND RELEVANT REGULATORY AUTHORITIES

(1) Description of the arrangements among the Commission, the foreign board of trade, the clearing organization, and the relevant foreign regulatory authorities that govern the sharing of information regarding the transactions that will be executed pursuant to the foreign board of trade’s registration with the Commission and the clearing and settlement of those transactions.

The Japanese regulatory authorities have long recognized the need for securities regulators to share information on cross-border securities activities, and Japan values international information sharing agreements. In 2002, the Japanese FSA, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) and the CFTC signed a Statement of Intent (“SOI”) Concerning Cooperation, Consultation and the Exchange of Information, which established a framework for information sharing and facilitated cooperation in investigations of potential unfair cross-border securities activities. The SOI was supported by Notes Verbale (Notes), which stated the views the governments share concerning sharing information.

In 2006, the Japanese FSA and the CFTC signed a document amending the SOI so as to cover financial derivatives transactions. The SOI now covers both securities derivatives and financial derivatives. Under the new framework, the FSA, SEC and CFTC will, upon request, exchange information regarding financial derivatives markets, including information on financial futures.

In March 2014, in view of the growing globalization of the world’s financial markets and the increase in cross-border operations and activities of regulated entities, the FSA and CFTC signed Memorandum of Cooperation (“MOC”) Related to the Supervision of Cross-border Covered Entities. The MOC complements the SOI above and IOSCO Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding concerning Consultation and Cooperation and the Exchange of Information referred to in the following (3). The FSA and CFTC expressed, through the MOC, their willingness to cooperate with each other in the interest of fulfilling their respective regulatory mandates regarding derivatives markets, particularly in the areas of protecting investors and customers; fostering the integrity of and maintaining confidence in financial markets; and reducing systemic risk.

(2) A statement as to whether and how the foreign board of trade has executed the International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement.

OSE is a signatory to the Exchange International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement dated March 15, 1996.

(3) A statement as to whether the regulatory authorities governing the activities of the foreign board of trade and clearing organization are signatories to the International Organization of Securities Commissions Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding. If not, describe any substitute information-sharing arrangements that are in place.

In February 2008, Japan signed the International Organization of Securities Commission's ("IOSCO") Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding concerning Consultation and Cooperation and the Exchange of Information, a multilateral framework which facilitates information exchanges among securities regulators around the world. Japan underwent a thorough screening process by IOSCO with regard to its legislation concerning information exchange, and IOSCO determined that Japan has the legal ability to undertake the information exchange requirements.

(4) A statement as to whether the regulatory authorities governing the activities of the foreign board of trade and clearing organization are signatories to the Declaration on Cooperation and Supervision of International Futures Exchanges and Clearing Organizations. If not, a statement as to whether and how they have committed to share the types of information contemplated by the International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement with the Commission, whether pursuant to an existing memorandum of understanding or some other arrangement.

The Japanese FSA is not a signatory to the Declaration on Cooperation and Supervision of International Futures Exchanges and Clearing Organizations (“Boca Declaration”) However, it is believed that, as seen in (1) and (3) above, the FSA and the Commission has established a framework for information sharing well enough to share the types of information contemplated by International Information Sharing Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement.

EXHIBIT I – ADDITIONAL INFORMATION AND DOCUMENTATION

Any additional information or documentation necessary to demonstrate that the requirements for registration applicable to the foreign board of trade set forth in Commission regulation 48.7 are satisfied.

None, although we are happy to supplement this Application in response to any questions that the Commission may have.
