Product Terms and Conditions

1 Fixed-for-Floating IRS—USD SOFR

1.1 Discussion: Contracts Not Readily Susceptible to Manipulation

The interest rate swap (IRS) market is considered the largest derivative market in the world, with an estimated 632 trillion in notional principal outstanding as of June 2022 according to the Bank for International Settlements.<sup>1</sup>

IRS are cash-settled, so there is no deliverable supply to be manipulated. IRS are widely used by corporations, insurance companies, banks, and governments to transfer and manage interest rate risk. Interest-rate-linked financial instruments (e.g., bonds, loans, government interest-bearing instruments, and interest-rate-sensitive instruments) are not easily susceptible to manipulation because of the size and liquidity of the cash market for such instruments. Furthermore, IRS-associated interest rate futures contracts, loans, cleared swaps, and cash and futures markets for government debt securities offer a deep liquidity pool to hedge and risk-manage swaps based on such rates indexes.

RTX SEF will monitor trading in these swaps. RTX SEF has a comprehensive surveillance program and rules to prevent RTX SEF Participants from engaging in manipulative activity and possesses discretion to impose fines and disciplinary sanctions on its Participants.

1.1.1 Discussion of Index Reference Prices: SOFR

RTX SEF limits the indexes underlying its interest rate swap offerings to well-established, publicly available third-party interest rate market benchmarks. Some are published by central banks (such as the United States Federal Reserve Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR) rate), while others are calculated and published by reliable independent providers (such as trade associations, exchanges, or other third parties). The interest rate reference prices underlying swaps on RTX SEF are the timeliest, most widely recognized, and reliable benchmarks for interest rates in their respective markets. The index levels are readily available and commercially acceptable as benchmarks for borrowers, lenders, investors, portfolio managers, governments, and public policy makers.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank describes SOFR as a broad measure of the cost of borrowing cash overnight collateralized by Treasury securities. SOFR includes all trades in the Broad General Collateral Rate<sup>2</sup> plus bilateral Treasury repurchase agreement (repo) transactions cleared through the Delivery-versus-Payment (DVP) service offered by the Fixed Income Clearing Corporation (FICC), which is filtered to remove a portion of transactions considered “specials.”

SOFR was identified by the Alternative Reference Rates Committee (ARRC)<sup>3</sup> as its recommended alternative to U.S. dollar LIBOR for use in certain new U.S. dollar derivatives and other financial contracts.<sup>4</sup> The New York Fed began publication of the SOFR on April 3, 2018. In the production of the Treasury SOFR repo reference rates, the New York Fed has endeavored to adopt policies and procedures consistent with best practices for financial benchmarks, including the IOSCO Principles for Financial Benchmarks.<sup>5</sup>

RTX SEF believes that the large number of participants in each market and the calculation of each index by well-known, independent third parties further limits the susceptibility of manipulation of these indexes. RTX SEF believes that such benchmark indexes (many of which also underlie liquid interest rate futures contracts on major Designated Contract Markets) are not readily susceptible to manipulation due to the large number of index participants, ubiquity, and broad-market nature.

1.2 MAT Contracts: Swaps Subject to the Trade Execution Requirement

For interest rate swaps that are Made Available Trade (MAT)—that is, subject to the Trade Execution Requirement under CEA section 2(h)(8)—see the industry filings posted on the CFTC’s website.<sup>6</sup>

1.3 Product Description

Participants can trade the product below as of August 29, 2023.

PRODUCT	CURRENCY	INDEX	AUTHORIZED DCO
IRS, Fixed/Floating	USD	SOFR	LCH Ltd./CME Inc.

An IRS is where two parties agree to exchange interest rate cash flows, based on a specified notional amount from a fixed rate to a floating rate (or vice versa) or from one floating rate to another for a predetermined term. In a Fixed-for-Floating IRS, one party pays a fixed rate for the term of the IRS at specific intervals, such as monthly, quarterly, semiannually, or annually. The other party will make floating rate payments indexed to reference rates, such as SOFR. Generally fixed and floating rate payments are compounded and paid net on the longer coupon date.

Note that fixed rate payments can be made on several different day count conventions (e.g., money market = no. of days/365; bond basis = 30/360 fixed; adjusted bond basis = actual no. of days/365 or 366).

1.4 Clearing Required

The listed specifications for this product represent the customary attributes of the swap agreements. Because RTX SEF only permits trading in cleared products, all attributes must conform to the specifications of the authorized DCOs.
