-	New York Post	26-00193-FOIA	Pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. § 552, and the CFTC's implementing regulations at 17 C.F.R. Part 145, I respectfully request copies of any and all records concerning the total number of enforcement actions, complaints, or civil/criminal referrals filed by the CFTC (or jointly with the Department of Justice) involving allegations of insider trading, fraud, or manipulation in prediction markets, event contracts, or similar derivative products. This request includes, but is not limited to: (a) any internal or external statistics, dashboards, or summary reports on such matters; (b) lists of all opened investigations or closed cases since January 20, 2026; and (c) any correspondence or memoranda discussing the volume of such cases. Please search the records of the Division of Enforcement, the Office of the Chairman, and any other relevant offices or custodians. Expedited Processing Requested. I am submitting this request on behalf of the New York Post, a news organization primarily engaged in disseminating information to the public. The following statement is certified to be true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief: There is a compelling need for expedited processing pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E) and 17 C.F.R. § 145.7 because the records are urgently needed to inform the public about an actual or alleged Federal government activity—specifically, the CFTC's enforcement efforts (or lack thereof) in the rapidly growing prediction-markets sector. The New York Post published an article on May 14, 2026 (Charles Gasparino, "Why has only 1 insider trading case been filed in prediction markets? Feds just getting started") that highlighted only one such enforcement action to date despite widespread public interest in suspicious trades tied to major news events. Timely disclosure will significantly contribute to public understanding of CFTC operations in this emerging multi-billion-dollar market. See Al-Fayed v. CIA, 254	Franey, James

-	New York Post	26-00199-FOIA	For the period September 1, 2025 through the date of processing, the requester seeks: 1. All internal memoranda, emails, briefing documents, and decisional records authored by or transmitted to Chairman Selig, his Chief of Staff, or any CFTC Commissioner or Senior Staff regarding the decision to	Franey, James withdraw the June 2024 Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on event contracts and to withdraw the September 2025 Staff Advisory. 2. All external communications — including emails, letters, meeting agendas, and summaries of meetings or calls — between any CFTC official and representatives of KalshiEX LLC, Polymarket, Robinhood Markets, or any entity represented on the CFTC's CEO Innovation Council, concerning: (a) the 2024 NPRM; (b) the 2025 Staff Advisory; (c) any pending or contemplated rulemaking on prediction markets or event contracts. 3. All records relating to the formation, membership deliberations, and agenda-setting for the CFTC CEO Innovation Council, including any communications between CFTC staff and the Chief Executive Officers or representatives of KalshiEX LLC or Polymarket regarding their participation on that Council. 4. Any records reflecting White House Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA), National Economic Council, or other Executive Office of the President contact with CFTC officials regarding event contracts, prediction markets, or the 2024 NPRM. II. Public Interest Basis Chairman Selig's CEO Innovation Council includes Polymarket CEO Shayne Coplan and Kalshi CEO Tarek Mansour — the chief executives of the two dominant platforms directly regulated by the CFTC. As of February 2026, roughly 87% of Kalshi's $39.7 billion traded in the past year was on sports , making the regulatory posture of the CFTC a matter of enormous commercial consequence for these platforms. The public has a legitimate interest in understanding whether communications with regulated entities who simultaneously sat on a CFTC advisory body influenced the timing or substance of the withdrawal of proposed consumer-protective regulations. Betting on prediction markets has skyrocketed, rising from just $1.8 billion in April 2025 to $24.2 billion in April 2026. The scale of retail participation makes the regulatory decisions at issue a matter of broad public concern, well beyond the interests of market participants alone. III. Preemptive Responses to Anticipated Denial Grounds Exemption 5 (Deliberative Process Privilege): This exemption protects pre-decisional communications; it does not shield records generated after a decision is made, nor does it protect factual information that can be segregated from deliberative content. See EPA v. Mink, 410 U.S. 73 (1973); Quarles v. Dep't of the Navy, 893 F.2d 390 (D.C. Cir. 1990). Communications with external regulated parties — including Innovation Council members — are not internal agency deliberations and cannot be withheld under Exemption 5 at all. Exemption 4 (Trade Secrets / Confidential Commercial Information): To the extent any responsive records contain commercially sensitive information submitted by regulated entities, the Agency must still produce all non-exempt, non-confidential portions and must identify with specificity which portions are withheld and why. See 5 U.S.C. § 552(b); Critical Mass Energy Project v. NRC, 975 F.2d 871 (D.C. Cir. 1992). Exemption 7 (Law Enforcement): Any invocation of this exemption must identify a specific, pending law enforcement proceeding and demonstrate how production would cause a specific, articulable harm. A blanket assertion is insufficient. See Malizia v. U.S
